Preface........................................................................................................................................vi
   Tim S. Roberts, Central Queensland University, Australia

Chapter I
Supporting Collaborative Project Teams Using Computer-Based Technologies ................................................................. 1
   Sue Bennett, University of Wollongong, Australia

Chapter II
Computer-Mediated Progressive Inquiry in Higher Education ..........28
   Hanni Muukkonen, University of Helsinki, Finland
   Kai Hakkarainen, University of Helsinki, Finland
   Minna Lakkala, University of Helsinki, Finland

Chapter III
Moderating Learner-Centered E-Learning: Problems and Solutions, Benefits and Implications .................................................................54
   Curtis J. Bonk, Indiana University, USA
   Robert A. Wisher, US Department of Defense, USA
   Ji-Yeon Lee, The University of South Carolina, USA
Chapter IV
Supporting Distributed Problem-Based Learning: The Use of Feedback Mechanisms in Online Learning ................................................................. 86
Joerg Zumbach, University of Heidelberg, Germany
Annette Hillers, University of Heidelberg, Germany
Peter Reimann, University of Sydney, Australia

Chapter V
Online Collaborative Learning in Mathematics: Some Necessary Innovations ........................................................................................................ 103
Rod Nason, Queensland University of Technology, Australia
Earl Woodruff, OISE - University of Toronto, Canada

Chapter VI
Thinking Out of a Bowl of Spaghetti: Learning to Learn in Online Collaborative Groups ................................................................................ 132
John M. Dirks, Michigan State University, USA
Regina O. Smith, Michigan State University, USA

Chapter VII
A New Taxonomy for Evaluation Studies of Online Collaborative Learning .................................................................................................................. 160
Lesley Treleaven, University of Western Sydney, Australia

Chapter VIII
Computer-Mediated Learning Groups: Benefits and Challenges to Using Groupwork in Online Learning Environments .......................... 181
Charles R. Graham, Brigham Young University, USA
Melanie Misanchuk, Office of Open Learning, University of Guelph, Canada

Chapter IX
Collaborative or Cooperative Learning? ............................................... 203
Joanne M. McInerney, Central Queensland University, Australia
Tim S. Roberts, Central Queensland University, Australia

Chapter X
Methods for Analyzing Collaboration in Online Communications .... 215
Albert L. Ingram, Kent State University, USA
Lesley G. Hathorn, Kent State University, USA
Chapter XI
Reflection and Intellectual Amplification in Online Communities of Collaborative Learning ................................................................. 242
Elsebeth Korsgaard Sorensen, Aalborg University, Denmark

Chapter XII
Do Online Collaborative Groups Need Leaders? .......................... 262
Agnes Kukulska-Hulme, The Open University, UK

Chapter XIII
Drawing on Design to Improve Evaluation of Computer Supported Collaborative Learning: Two Complementary Views ...................... 281
John B. Nash, Stanford University, USA
Christoph Richter, University of Hannover, Germany
Heidrun Allert, University of Hannover, Germany

About the Authors ..................................................................................... 311

Index ............................................................................................................ 318