I am indebted to all of the above individuals for their time and effort. I also thank David Smith and several others who assisted me in the overall endeavor between 2004 and 2008. Work on this book was performed by me at the University of Arizona and at MIT. I thank both these educational institutions for facilitating my professional endeavors. Finally, I am indebted to nearly a dozen individuals at IGI Publishing for their continuing support of my publishing activities, both in terms of books and special issues of journals.
