Table of Contents

Foreword .................................................................................................................................................. xviii

Preface ..................................................................................................................................................... xxi

Section 1

Behaviour and Activism

Chapter 1
My Click is My Bond: The Role of Contracts, Social Proof, and Gamification for Sysops to Reduce
Pseudo-Activism and Internet Trolling ................................................................................................... 1
Jonathan Bishop, Centre for Research into Online Communities and E-Learning Systems, European Parliament, Belgium

Chapter 2
Cognitive Load and Empathy in Serious Games: A Conceptual Framework ....................................... 17
Wen-Hao David Huang, University of Illinois – Urbana-Champaign, USA
Sharon Tettegah, University of Illinois – Urbana-Champaign, USA

Chapter 3
What’s in a Game? The Politics of Shaping Property Tax Administration in Bangalore City, India ... 31
Shefali Virkar, University of Oxford, UK

Chapter 4
Should We Publish That? Managing Conflicting Stakeholder Expectations in the Publishing
Industry ..................................................................................................................................................... 52
Loren Falkenberg, University of Calgary, Canada
Oleksiy Osiyevskyy, University of Calgary, Canada

Chapter 5
Towards a Subjectively Devised Parametric User Model for Analysing and Influencing Behaviour
Online Using Neuroeconomics .................................................................................................................. 80
Jonathan Bishop, Centre for Research into Online Communities and E-Learning Systems, European
Parliament, Belgium
Mark M. H. Goode, Cardiff Metropolitan University, UK
Section 2
Health and Cognition

Chapter 6
Designing Serious Games for People with Disabilities: Game, Set, and Match to the Wii™.............. 97
Lindsay Evett, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Allan Ridley, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Liz Keating, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Patrick Merritt, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Nick Shopland, Nottingham Trent University, UK
David Brown, Nottingham Trent University, UK

Chapter 7
ExerLearning®: Movement, Fitness, Technology, and Learning ....................................................... 106
Judy Shasek, ExerLearning

Chapter 8
Rehabilitation Gaming ................................................................. 122
Henk Herman Nap, Stichting Smart Homes, The Netherlands
Unai Diaz-Orueta, INGEMA, Spain

Chapter 9
The Use of Motion Tracking Technologies in Serious Games to Enhance Rehabilitation in Stroke
Patients .................................................................................. 148
Andrew M. Burton, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Hao Liu, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Steven Battersby, Nottingham Trent University, UK
David Brown, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Nasser Sherkat, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Penny Standen, University of Nottingham, UK
Marion Walker, University of Nottingham, UK

Chapter 10
The Psychology of Trolling and Lurking: The Role of Defriending and Gamification for Increasing
Participation in Online Communities Using Seductive Narratives..................................................... 162
Jonathan Bishop, Centre for Research into Online Communities and E-Learning Systems, European Parliament, Belgium

Section 3
Pedagogical Issues

Chapter 11
Designing Educational Games: A Pedagogical Approach ............................................................. 181
Stephen Tang, Liverpool John Moores University, UK
Martin Hanneghan, Liverpool John Moores University, UK
Chapter 12
Games and the Development of Students’ Civic Engagement and Ecological Stewardship .......... 199
Janice L. Anderson, University of North Carolina – Chapel Hill, USA

Chapter 13
Learning Sociology in a Massively Multi-Student Online Learning Environment .................. 216
Joel Foreman, George Mason University, USA
Thomasina Borkman, George Mason University, USA

Chapter 14
The Applicability of Gaming Elements to Early Childhood Education .............................. 225
Holly Tootell, University of Wollongong, Australia
Alison Freeman, University of Wollongong, Australia

Chapter 15
From Chaos Towards Sense: A Learner-Centric Narrative Virtual Learning Space................. 242
Torsten Reiners, Curtin University, Australia
Lincoln C. Wood, Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand & Curtin University, Australia
Jon Dron, Athabasca University, Canada

Chapter 16
Background Music in Educational Games: Motivational Appeal and Cognitive Impact .......... 259
Stephanie B. Linek, Leibniz Centre of Economics, Germany
Birgit Marte, University of Graz, Austria
Dietrich Albert, University of Graz, Austria

Chapter 17
Games and Simulations: A New Approach in Education? ..................................................... 272
Göknur Kaplan Akilli, Middle East Technical University (METU), Turkey

Compilation of References ........................................................................................................... 290

About the Contributors .................................................................................................................. 326

Index................................................................................................................................................ 334