Acknowledgment

Any academic endeavor that deals with the application of a new concept is an epic exercise. We would like to express our gratitude to our authors, whose intellectual inputs have made it a work that might provoke our readers and users to think. The chapters are representative works from various countries where ideas have been merged into emerging paradigms. We are grateful to our Editorial Advisory Board for their insightful and professional interventions that helped us to design and redesign the book thoughtfully.

We are indebted to our reviewers whose apt remarks on various papers assisted us in selecting top quality chapters from the 30 we received. We would remiss if we failed to thank Austin, who provided support during the entire development of this book.

We would like to place on record the appreciation for our family members, Prof. Pramod K. Sharma, Neeta Nagar, our researchers, and Rakesh Godiwal, who sacrificed their time to make this book a reality.
