Acknowledgment

The editors wish to thank Austin DeMarco of IGI Global for guidance with innumerable questions as this anthology came to press. Our efforts would have all been for naught, however, without the members of our editorial advisory board, who made many creative and helpful suggestions to each of our authors. Finally, we wish to thank the students we have taught over the past 20 years, as technology firmly and permanently entered our classrooms. Their questions about the Internet and intellectual struggles adapting it to daily use have inspired us, even as we both wonder where adaptation will end, if ever.

Dona J. Hickey
University of Richmond, USA

Joe Essid
University of Richmond, USA