Table of Contents

Foreword ............................................................................................................................... xxiv

Preface ................................................................................................................................... xxvi

Acknowledgment .................................................................................................................. xxxiv

Section 1

Consumers’ Behavior, Buying Preferences, and Relationships with Retailers

Chapter 1

Customer Perceived Values and Consumer Decisions: An Explanatory Model.................. 1
Philip Y. K. Cheng, Australian Catholic University, Australia

Chapter 2

Identity-Based Consumer Behaviour, Self-Congruity, and Retailer-Consumer Relationships: A Literature Review ................................................................. 13
Isabella Maggioni, Monash University, Australia

Chapter 3

Shopping Well-Being and Ill-Being: Toward an Integrated Model...................................... 27
Dong-Jin Lee, Yonsei University, South Korea
Grace B. Yu, Duksung Women’s University, South Korea
M. Joseph Sirgy, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, USA
Ahmet Ekici, Bilkent University, Turkey
Eda Gurel-Atay, University of Puget Sound, USA
Kenneth D. Bahn, James Madison University, USA

Chapter 4

Understanding Consumers’ Behaviour Change in Uncertainty Conditions: A Psychological Perspective ................................................................. 45
Amalia Duțu, University of Pitesti, Romania
Chapter 5
Customer Store Loyalty: Process, Explanation Chain, and Moderating Factors ..................................70
Arturo Z. Vásquez-Párraga, The University of Texas – Pan American, USA
Miguel Ángel Sahagún, The University of Texas – Pan American, USA
Pablo José Escobedo, The University of Texas – Pan American, USA

Chapter 6
Evolving the Private Label Role in the Retailer-Customer Relationship: Antecedents and Impact of Premium Private Labels on Customer Loyalty to the Retailer ..........................................................86
Elisa Martinelli, University of Modena and Reggio Emilia, Italy
Donata Tania Vergura, University of Parma, Italy

Section 2
Retail Context, Store Formats, and Retail Services

Chapter 7
The Mechanisms for the Emergence and Evolution of Retail Formats ..................................................108
Barbara Borusiak, Poznan University of Economics, Poland

Chapter 8
Critical Reflections on the Decline of the UK High Street: Exploratory Conceptual Research into the Role of the Service Encounter .......................................................................................127
Jason J. Turner, Abertay University, UK
Toni Gardner, Abertay University, UK

Chapter 9
City Trees and Consumer Response in Retail Business Districts .............................................................152
Kathleen L. Wolf, University of Washington, USA

Chapter 10
The Coffee Shop and Customer Experience: A Study of the U.S. Market .............................................173
Patrizia de Luca, University of Trieste, Italy
Giovanna Pegan, University of Trieste, Italy

Chapter 11
A New Systems Perspective in Retail Service Marketing ...........................................................................197
Sergio Barile, Sapienza, University of Rome, Italy
Marialuisa Saviano, University of Salerno, Italy

Chapter 12
Personally Engaged with Retail Clients: Marketing 3.0 in Response to New Consumer Profiles...............219
Ana Isabel Jiménez-Zarco, Open University of Catalonia, Spain
María Pilar Martínez-Ruiz, University of Castilla la Mancha, Spain
Alicia Izquierdo-Yusta, University of Burgos, Spain
Section 3
Store Atmosphere and Interaction with Consumers

Chapter 13
Atmosphere as a Store Communication Tool .................................................................239
Sanda Renko, University of Zagreb, Croatia

Chapter 14
The Use of Sensorial Marketing in Stores: Attracting Clients through their Senses ........258
Mónica Gómez Suárez, Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Spain
Cristina García Gumiel, Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Spain

Chapter 15
Frontline Employees’ Self-Perception of Ageism, Sexism, and Lookism: Comparative Analyses of Prejudice and Discrimination in Fashion and Food Retailing ...........................................275
Mirian Palmeira, Federal University of Parana (UFPR), Brazil

Chapter 16
A Dilemma for Retailers: How to Make Store Surveillance Secure and Appealing to Shoppers ......297
Angelo Bonfanti, University of Verona, Italy

Chapter 17
Retailer-Non-Profit Organization (NPO) Partnerships: Building Trust with Socially Conscious
Consumers........................................................................................................................................318
Janice Rudkowski, Helianthus Consulting, Canada & Ryerson University, Canada

Chapter 18
Engaging Social Movements in Developing Innovative Retail Business Models ..................336
Roberta Sebastiani, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Italy
Francesca Montagnini, University of Milan-Bicocca, Italy

Chapter 19
Meanings and Implications of Corporate Social Responsibility and Branding in Grocer Retailers:
A Comparative Study over Italy and the UK ..............................................................................351
Elena Candelo, University of Turin, Italy
Cecilia Casalegno, University of Turin, Italy
Chiara Civera, University of Turin, Italy

Section 4
Innovation, ICT, and Social Media: The Multichannelling Challenges for Retailers

Chapter 20
An Exploratory Study of Client-Vendor Relationships for Predicting the Effects of Advanced
Technology-Based Retail Scenarios ........................................................................................371
Eleonora Pantano, University of Calabria, Italy & Eindhoven University of Technology, The Netherlands
Harry Timmermans, Eindhoven University of Technology, The Netherlands
Chapter 21
Retail Innovativeness: Importance of ICT and Impact on Consumer Behaviour ........................................384
   Irene Gil Saura, Universidad de Valencia, Spain
   María Eugenia Ruiz Molina, Universidad de Valencia, Spain
   Gloria Berenguer Contrí, Universidad de Valencia, Spain

Chapter 22
Retailer-Customers Relationships in the Online Setting: An Empirical Investigation to Overcome Privacy Concerns and Improve Information Sharing .................................................................404
   Sandro Castaldo, Bocconi University, Italy
   Monica Grosso, EMLYON Business School, France

Chapter 23
Retail and Social Media Marketing: Innovation in the Relationship between Retailers and Consumers...........................................................................................................................................426
   Francesca Negri, University of Parma, Italy

Chapter 24
Singapore’s Online Retail Deviants: Analyzing the Rise of Blogshops’ Power ........................................449
   Ronan de Kervenoael, Sabanci University, Turkey & Aston University, UK
   Alan Hallsworth, Portsmouth University, UK
   David Tng, Singapore Institute of Management, Singapore

Chapter 25
Is Multichannel Integration in Retailing a Source of Competitive Advantage? A Consumer Perspective ...........................................................................................................................................471
   Daniela Andreini, University of Bergamo, Italy
   Giuseppe Pedeliento, University of Bergamo, Italy

Chapter 26
About the Challenges to Start E-Commerce Activity in SMEs: Push-Pull Effects ..................................490
   Rauno Rusko, University of Lapland, Finland
   Joni Pekkala, University of Lapland, Finland

Compilation of References ............................................................................................................................509

About the Contributors ......................................................................................................................................574

Index .................................................................................................................................................................586