About the Editors

Robert Z. Zheng (EdD, Baylor University, 1998) is an assistant professor and program director in the Department of Educational Psychology, University of Utah, USA. His research agenda includes online learning and pedagogy, multimedia and cognition, and educational technology and assessment. He has authored and co-authored several book chapters and published papers in peer-reviewed journals on topics of cognitive load, multimedia, Web-based instruction, and problem solving in multimedia learning.

***

Sharmila Pixy Ferris (PhD, Pennsylvania State University, 1995) is a professor in the Department of Communication and Director for the Center for Teaching Excellence at William Paterson University, USA. Her research brings an interdisciplinary focus to the computer-mediated communication in which area she has published in a variety of print and electronic journals. She has coauthored a book in faculty development, Beyond Survival in the Academy, and edited books in the areas of virtual teams and virtual learning including Virtual and Collaborative Teams: Theories, Process, and Practice and Teaching and Learning with Virtual and Collaborative Teams. She is an experienced communication consultant who has worked with a range of corporate clients.