About the Contributors

Bryan Christiansen, since 2004, has progressively held the positions of President, CEO, and then Chairman in PryMarke, LLC, a Michigan, USA-based Business Analytics and Management Consultancy. Bryan has also been an Adjunct Business Professor at Capella University, DeVry University, and Ellis University (formerly Ellis College of New York Institute of Technology) in the USA, and a Senior Business Lecturer at Gumushane University in Turkey. Born in Washington, DC and raised in Asia, Bryan is fluent in Chinese, Japanese, Spanish, and Turkish, and has traveled to 40 countries during his 28-year business career involving Global 1000 firms. Bryan holds a Bachelor’s degree in Marketing from the University of the State of New York and an MBA degree from Capella University. Bryan will complete his PhD degree in Education with an emphasis on Global Training and Development at Northcentral University in Arizona, USA in 2016.

* * *

William Amone was born in Gulu District, Northern Uganda in 1980, the sixth child of Abu Vilentina and Martin Uma. William attended Gulu Town Primary School and went to Negri College in Gulu for O’level. He later joined Uganda Martyrs Senior Secondary School in Kampala for A’level. He obtained a Masters Degree in Economics and a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Economics from Makerere University in Kampala, Uganda. From 2006 to date, William has been working at Gulu University in Uganda as a Lecturer of Economics. Since 2012 to date, he also serves as a Consultant in Business Management at Uganda Management Institute. William has been involved in many researches and trainings in Uganda, Kenya, Tanzania and Canada. William is married to Cecillia Akello, with whom they have three Children. He is currently a PhD candidate at Mbarara University of Science and Technology in Uganda and a researcher in Development Economics.

Bernardo Balboni, PhD, is Research Fellow at the University of Trieste. He has been visiting lecturer at the Department of Business Studies, University of Uppsala and at the Institute for Cultural Industries, Peking University. His research interests include internationalization strategies of SMEs, SMEs’ marketing and communication activities, relational dynamics within service contexts. On these topics he has published some papers in both international and Italian scientific journals, such as International Journal of Globalization and Small Business, Marketing Intelligence and Planning, The Service Industries Journal, Transformations in Business & Economics. He has written some book chapters, and he has presented several papers in different international conferences (RENT, EIBA, AIB, EMAC, EURAM).
Neeta Baporikar. Professor (Strategic Management and Entrepreneurship), is currently on sabbatical after her academic assignment with Ministry of Higher Education, Head - Research, CAS-Salalah, Sultanate of Oman. Prior to this, she was a Professor at IIIT Pune and BITS India. With more than a decade of experience in industry, consultancy, and training, she made a lateral switch to research and academics in 1995. Dr. Baporikar holds DSc (Management Studies) USA, PhD in Management, University of Pune India with MBA (Distinction) and Law (Hons.) degrees. Apart from this, she is also an External Reviewer Oman Accreditation Council, Accredited Management Teacher, Qualified Trainer, Doctoral Guide, and Board Member of Academics and Advisory Committee in accredited B-Schools. Reviewer for international journals, she has to her credit several refereed research papers and authored books in the areas of Entrepreneurship, Strategy, Management, and Higher Education.

Michele Bertoni, PhD, is an Associate Professor of Accounting at the University of Trieste, Italy where he teaches accounting at the graduate and undergraduate level. He is coordinator of the graduate program in Business and Management. Prior to joining the University of Trieste, he taught at the University of Trento. He is also a member of the faculty of MIB School of Management in Trieste, Italy, where he teaches financial and managerial accounting. As a visiting professor, he has taught International Financial Reporting Standards at the Monfort College of Business of the University of Northern Colorado. Dr. Bertoni has presented conference papers at the annual conference of the European Accounting Association and in other international venues. His main research interests lie in the measurement of financial performance, accounting standards and regulations, and cost accounting.

Semra Boga was born in Adana, Turkey, in 1980. She received her bachelor’s degree in Economics from Cukurova University, Adana, Turkey, in 2002. She started her professional career in Amylum Nişasta, corn-processing company, in 2002. She continued her professional life at Tate & Lyle Europe, Belgium, in 2006 as a financial analyst. In 2009, she pursued her career in international business development, counselling Turkish companies to exploit their businesses in Europe. She also continued her academic career and received her Master of Science degree in International Business Management at Hogeschool - Universiteit van Brussel in 2012. The same year, she started her PhD degree in Economics at Istanbul University. She is currently working for Manier Seeds company and conducting her academic research in the field of international economics.

Guido Bortoluzzi, PhD, is Assistant Professor of Innovation Management at the University of Trieste, Italy. His research interests deals with innovation and internationalisation strategies of small firms and with the evolution of industrial clusters. He has been visiting lecturer in several international Universities such as Lingnan (University) College of Guangzhou (PRC), University of Northern Colorado of Greeley (CO), ISM University of Vilnius and has taught in prestigious Institutions such as SISSA - International School for Advanced Studies (Italy) and Scuola Superiore Sant’Anna in Pisa (Italy). He is author of several articles published in peer-reviewed journals, such as Journal for International Business and Entrepreneurship Development, European Management Journal, Harvard Business Review (German edition), and Transformations in Business & Economics.
Louis Brennan is a Fellow of Trinity College and Professor within the School of Business. He previously served as Director of the Institute for International Integration Studies at Trinity College. Dr. Brennan has served as a faculty member and researcher in Engineering and Business schools in Asia, Europe, and the USA. His fields of interest include Global Strategy and International Business, Global Supply Chain Management, Operations Strategy, and Technology Management. He has published extensively in these areas in internationally refereed journals, conference proceedings, and edited books. Dr. Brennan’s consulting interests lie in mediating and shaping the future.

Wolfgang Breuer is a Professor of Finance at RWTH Aachen University, Germany’s leading technical university. From October 1995 to February 2000, he was a professor of Finance at the University of Bonn. He earned his PhD degree in February 1993 and his habilitation degree in July 1995, both at the University of Cologne. After his diploma in 1989, he worked one year in Frankfurt as a consultant at McKinsey & Co., Inc., before he continued his academic career. He has written more than a dozen books, more than 70 articles in books and about 50 peer-reviewed journal articles comprising a great variety of topics in the field of finance. His current research interests focus on sustainability issues as well as cultural and behavioral finance.

Margaret Carter has a legacy of being a passionate educator who energizes and inspires those around her. Working as a behaviour change specialist, teacher, academic, and author, Dr. Carter has a proven track record of working with individuals and groups across the lifespan. The focus of this work is social and emotional wellbeing, identity, parenting, and early education. Dr. Carter has presented keynote addresses and conference papers specific to these areas in a variety of professional and community contexts. She is the author of several books, including Young Children’s Social Behaviour and Take a Stand, Lend a Hand: Stop Bullying Now. Dr. Carter has co-authored social skills texts including Set for Success and Friendly Fact, in addition to consultancy and parenting programs. Currently, Dr. Carter is employed as senior lecturer in the School of Education at James Cook University.

Harish C. Chandan is Professor of Business at Argosy University, Atlanta. He was interim chair of the business program in 2011. He received President’s award for excellence in teaching in 2007, 2008, and 2009. His teaching philosophy is grounded in the learner needs and life-long learning. His research interests include research methods, leadership, marketing, and organizational behavior. He has published 20 peer-reviewed articles in business journals and 5 chapters in business reference books. Dr. Chandan has presented conference papers at Academy of Management, International Academy of Business and Management, Southeast Association of Information Systems, and Academy of International Business. Prior to joining Argosy, Dr. Chandan managed optical fiber and cable product qualification laboratories for Lucent Technologies, Bell Laboratories. During his career with Lucent, he had 40 technical publications, a chapter in a book, and 5 patents.

Weiqi Dai is Associate Professor of Strategy Management and Entrepreneurship in the School of Business Administration, Zhejiang University of Finance & Economics (ZUFE), China. He obtained his PhD in business administration from the School of Management, Zhejiang University, China. His research interests include corporate entrepreneurship, inter-firm networking and institutional theory. He has published well over 50 academic papers and authored a book in Chinese in China. Prior to joining the ZUFE, he taught at the Faculty of Business, Zhejiang University City College from 2003 to 2007. He is now a visiting professor at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona.

Rituparna Das is Associate Professor in the Faculty of Policy Science and the Executive Director of the Centre of Risk Management and Derivatives at National Law University Jodhpur, India. His PhD on Econometrics was preceded by dual Masters in Economics and Management. His prior academic associations include Centre for Studies in Banking and Finance (established by the Reserve Bank of India) at National Law University Jodhpur, National Institute of Bank Management (established by the Reserve Bank of India) in Pune, National University of Juridical Sciences in Kolkata and Indian Institute of Social Welfare and Business Management in Kolkata. His areas of preference and international publications include Strategies, Bank Risk Management, Financial Economics and Policy Research. He is Life Member of the Indian Statistical Institute and the Indian Econometric Society. He received the Honour of being “Financial Economics and Risk Educator and Author” from Marquis Who's Who in 2012 and “One of the IBC’s Leading Educators of the World” from International Biographical Centre in 2013. His professional details may be viewed in http://in.linkedin.com/pub/rituparna-das/7/720/82.

Patrizia de Luca, PhD, is Associate Professor at the University of Trieste (Italy), where she teaches Marketing and Research Methodology for Management Decisions. She is Deputy Director of the Department of Economics, Business, Mathematics and Statistics and member of some academic committees. Her research focus is on marketing innovation, distribution channels, and consumer behavior. She authored many refereed publications in national and international books and journals. She has recently participated in two large programs on distribution and sales of Italian products in emerging and developed countries, sponsored by the Italian Ministry of Education, University and Research, and in other research projects on international marketing.

Bruno De Rosa is an Associate Professor of Accounting at the University of Trieste, Italy, where he teaches both Financial and Management Accounting. He is also a Certified Public Accountant and Auditor. As a Partner and Scientific Director of Dyn@mika S.r.l. (a University spin-off devoted to management consultancy), he advises small and medium-sized enterprises in the fields of management control and corporate finance. He is a faculty member of MIB School of Management in Trieste, Italy, and Scientific Director for EUROCONFERENCE GROUP, a company that offers training courses for CPAs and managers. He was one of the â€œIl Sole 24 ORE Specialistâ€ in Management Accounting for more than a decade. His main research interests vary from strategic and organizational aspect of management control systems, to accounting for business combinations. He is author of books and articles on performance management, cost control, balanced scorecard, and other management control tools. With Michele Bertoni, he undertook research in the field of International Financial Reporting Standards, and performance measurement. He was a visiting scholar both at NYU Stern School of Business and at the UCLA Anderson School of Management.
Dilek Demirbas is the Head of Department of International Trade and Business at YBU Business School, Yıldırım Beyazıt University in Ankara, Turkey, and she obtained her MA in Economics and PhD in Economics from Leicester University, England. Dilek Demirbaş teaches International Trade, International Business and Economics, and supervised a high number of PhD and Master Students.

Kathy Duncan is an Associate Professor of Management at the University of La Verne. She is the Program Director for the Master’s in Leadership and Management program. Her research interests are in diversity, spirituality in the workplace, and pedagogy. Before coming academia, Kathy had over 20 years of experience in healthcare including clinical, management, and educator positions. Dr. Duncan has presented at the Academy of Management, Organizational Behavior Teaching Conference, Western Academy of Management Conference, and the International Leadership Association Annual Global Conference. Kathy has facilitated team building, strategic planning, and conflict resolution with groups of staff and managers in healthcare and nonprofit organizations.

Ibrahim Efe Efeoğlu, PhD, worked as manager at different levels of management in multinational companies more than 10 years. His last position in a multinational environment was as assistant manager, in charge of management and leadership skills training in banking. Efeoglu has been teaching at university since 2009. He has been conducting research on a variety of topics related with organizational behaviour subjects mostly micro and meso level. He has a particular interest on leadership. His other research areas include communication, and cultural influences on interpersonal communication. He has papers on Organizational Citizenship, Organizational Justice, Organizational Cynism, Emotional Intelligence, Work and Family Conflict. Currently, he is the head of International Affairs Office and Assistant Professor at Adana Science and Technology University where he teaches courses on Management and Organization, Human Resources Management, Organizational Behaviour, and Organizational Communication in Adana, Turkey. He also has been working as freelance trainer for companies.

Yudi Fernando is a Senior Lecturer in Operations Management at the Graduate School of Business, Universiti Sains Malaysia (USM). He received his PhD from the School of Management at USM. Dr. Yudi also worked for several years in the electronics industry. His research focus is in the area of sustainability supply chain, green logistics, green production, and service management. Dr. Yudi currently teaches operations strategy: sustainability and supply chain management, business research methodology, advance business statistics subjects at MBA/DBA levels. He has also been supervising several PhD/DBA students with research topics on operations and supply chain management. He has been a member of editorial boards for International Journal of Operations Research and Information Systems (IJORIS). Dr. Yudi has actively participated as an expert reviewer for international conferences. Thus far, he has published in several journals such International Journal of Services and Operations Management, International Journal of Applied Logistics, Food Control, International Journal of Information Management, International Journal Logistics Systems and Management, International Journal of Operations and Supply Chain Management, International Journal of Productivity and Quality Management, International Journal of Value Chain Management, and so on.
Peter Galvin is Professor of Strategic Management in the Graduate School of Business as Curtin University. He is also a Visiting Professor at Northumbria University. Peter’s research interests lie in the area of innovation, competitive dynamics, and boundaries of the firm. His research has been published in a wide variety of outlets from Managerial and Decision Economics to Journal of Business Ethics. He is the current Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Management & Organization. He teaches strategic management on the MBA programme at Curtin University and has taught students in 12 different countries.

Levent Gelibolu received his BS degree in Business Administration from University of Atatürk, MS degree in Business Administration from University of Kafkas, and PhD in Business Administration from University of Cukurova. His PhD studies focused on consumer behaviour and social marketing. He is now an assistant professor in the Department of Business Administration in Kars Kafkas University. His research areas are consumer behavior and social marketing. His publications has appeared in SSCI and internationally indexed journals.

Guido Grisi is an Associate Professor of Management Accounting and Auditing at the University of Trieste, Italy, where he coordinates the undergraduate program in Business Administration and Management. His teaching style underlines historical knowledge and relationships between accounting and other disciplines. His research interests include cost accounting, budgeting, cash flow accounting, healthcare management accounting. He has published five monographic books, six articles in peer-reviewed medical journals; and four chapters in books.

M. Gordon Hunter is a Professor Information Systems in the Faculty of Management, University of Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada. He has been appointed Visiting Professor, London South Bank University. He has held visiting positions at universities in Australia, England, Germany, Monaco, New Zealand, Poland, Turkey, and USA. In 2009, Gordon was a Fellow at the University of Applied Sciences, Munich, Germany. During 2005 Gordon was an Erskine Fellow at the University of Canterbury, Christchurch, New Zealand. Gordon’s research approach takes a qualitative perspective employing Personal Construct Theory and Narrative Inquiry to conduct in depth interviews. He applies qualitative techniques in interdisciplinary research such as small business, agricultural management, governance of intellectual assets, and cross-cultural investigations. His current research interests in the Information Systems (IS) area include the effective management of IS personnel, the role of Chief Information Officers, and the use of IS by small business.

Jeffrey Kahan is a Professor of English at the University of La Verne in Los Angeles County. He is also Director of the La Verne Shakespeare Experience. Kahan has a PhD in Shakespeare Studies and an MS in Leadership and Management, with an emphasis in Nonprofits and Fundraising.

Dragan Kesic, PhD, is an Associate Professor for Marketing and Management of International Business at Faculty of Management Koper, University of Primorska, Slovenia. He has had over 20 years of management and marketing experiences in the pharmaceutical industry, predominantly in the strategic and corporate activities, like International Marketing and Sales, Strategic Marketing, Strategic Planning, Strategic Intelligence, and Companies Evaluations. His research interests include marketing, management, marketing management, strategic marketing, strategic management, corporate governance, and

About the Contributors

M&A (Mergers and Acquisitions), with special regard to the pharmaceutical industry. He has published works in Slovene and foreign publications in the areas of marketing, marketing management, strategic marketing management, strategic planning, strategic intelligence, corporate issues, and mergers and acquisitions, predominantly from the themes of world pharmaceutical industry. He has given as well several speeches at international conferences abroad from the areas of strategic marketing management issues of world pharmaceutical industry.

Wiboon Kittilaksanawong is Associate Professor of Strategy and International Business in the Faculty of Management and the Division of Business Administration, Nagoya University of Commerce and Business, Japan. He received his PhD in management from National Taiwan University. Dr. Kittilaksanawong has three and a half years of teaching experience at Zhejiang University and Zhejiang Gongshang University in China. He has twelve years of management and consulting experience in multinational and Thai enterprises, including Chevron, Weatherford, Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, and Thailand National Science and Technology Development Agency. His research interests include global business and strategy, business strategies in emerging markets, and international entrepreneurship. His research publications have appeared in Management and Organization Review, Asian Journal of Technology Innovation, and Academy of Management Proceedings, as well as books published by Palgrave MacMillan, Emerald, and IGI Global.

Ngoc A. H. Le is a graduate from Newcastle Business School of Northumbria University with an MSc degree in Global Financial Management in December 2013. She completed her BA (hons) degree in Business Management from Leeds Metropolitan University in July 2012 and also accomplished two years of a Bachelor degree in International Economics from Diplomatic Academy of Vietnam while being a private tutor in Mathematics at the same time from 2009 to 2011. Her Master Dissertation utilised quantitative method to find out the most significant locational factors determining FDI inflows to Vietnam and thus suggested policy implications to further promote FDI inflows to the country so as to ensure the country’s sustainable economic development. She has a great research interest in international investment, strategic investment, and business research.

Xiaoqing Li (MBA, Birmingham, and PhD, London) is a Lecturer in Strategy and Entrepreneurship at Brunel Business School, Brunel University London, UK. Her research on China-UK strategic alliances in higher education has been reported by the Times Higher Education. She has published articles in journals such as International Business Review, Studies in Higher Education, the Service Industries Journal, International Journal of Entrepreneurial Behaviour & Research, Asia Pacific Business Review, and Journal of General Management.

Teresa Martinelli-Lee is a senior faculty (adjunct) at the University of La Verne teaching ground and virtual courses in the field of Leadership, Management, and Public Management. Teresa is a process improvement specialist having designed and developed a wide range of training development programs having worked in the aerospace, healthcare, K-12, and higher education fields building both service and workforce systems. Teresa has worked in online education/blended learning delivery platforms and has developed a variety of online courses. Dr. Martinelli-Lee is a frequent guest speaker and workshop facilitator and has presented internationally on topics of instructional design, APA cite source workshops, quality blended learning teaching for adult learners, environmental sustainability, CSR, public and nonprofit management. Her current areas of research include articulation of diversity in organizational behavior, case studies in business management, and learning styles for online teaching and development.

Yvonne McNulty is a results-driven scholar practitioner with over 10 years consulting and lecturing experience and a proven track record in publishing in academic and industry journals. As an experienced global citizen, she has extensive multi-cultural experience after having lived and worked in Australia, USA, Singapore, and Shanghai. She is culturally sensitive to the unique characteristics of Asian countries, especially in Singapore and China, with expertise in relationship building and industry outreach. Yvonne has deep experience in international business research and running multi-country global research projects. She is dynamic, detail-focused, collaborative, and expertly trained in a broad range of research techniques and methodologies, including quantitative and qualitative approaches. Yvonne has consulted to some of the biggest names in global mobility, among them Deloitte, Brookfield, and Cartus. With a unique ability to transition easily from technical research to practical business outcomes, she uses research to drive insights and strategic implications that lead to business decisions. A lively, engaging, and award-winning lecturer and conference speaker, Yvonne is co-author of the best-selling management book, Managing Expatriates: A Return on Investment Approach (Business Expert Press, 2013). Her research has been featured in The New York Times, Economist Intelligence Unit, and on BBC Radio.

Thuyuyen Nguyen has a BA and MSc from California State University, Fullerton, USA, and a PhD from Teesside University. She has experience in teaching various aspects of management information systems and quantitative business research methods at undergraduate, postgraduate, and doctoral levels in universities in the US and the UK. She also supervises doctoral students in the area of information systems using applied quantitative methods. Before becoming an academic, she spent over 15 years working in both corporate and entrepreneurial environments. Her major research interest is in the area of information technology adoption, implementation, and usage in SMEs. She is also interested in researching into how learning outcomes in information systems and quantitative methods courses can be improved. She has published articles in a number of refereed journals.

Wilson Ozuem teaches and researches communications issues in Computer-Mediated Marketing Environments (CMMEs). The results of his research have been published in scholarly journals and conference papers, including European Journal of Marketing, Interdisciplinary Journal of Economics, Business and Law. Dr. Ozuem is a Senior Lecturer at the University of Gloucestershire (UK), and a Visiting Senior Lecturer at the University of Hertfordshire (UK). He currently teaches MSc and MBA courses in marketing communications, Internet marketing, research methodology, and marketing management. He is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Marketing (FCIM) and has worked as a marketing consultant for several companies and organizations. He received his BA in Business from the University of Portsmouth, MA Marketing Communications from University of West London, MBA from London Metropolitan University, MEd (Educational Leadership and Management) from Open University (UK), Doctorate from Anglia Ruskin University and Postgraduate Degree in Educational Research from University of Cambridge.
Hans-Christian Pfohl is a Professor of Management, Logistics, and Supply Chain Management at Technische Universität Darmstadt, Germany. He graduated as Dr. rer. pol. at the Technische Universität Darmstadt, Germany. From 1975 to 1982, he held the Chair of Business Administration at the University of Essen, Germany. From 1982 to 2011, he held the Chair of Management and Logistics at the Technische Universität Darmstadt. Since 2011, he is responsible for “Supply Chain and Network Management” at the Department Law and Economics and Deputy Spokesman of the interdepartmental research project “Dynamo PLV (Production, Logistics, and Traffic)” at Technische Universität Darmstadt. Since 2000, he is also a Professor with responsibility for “Management and Logistics” at the Sino-German School for Postgraduate Studies (CDHK) in Shanghai, China. In 1996, he received an honorary doctorate degree from the University of Pannonia in Veszprém, Hungary, where he lectures as a Guest Professor. Furthermore, Prof. Pfohl is a member of the board and the head of the Research and Development Committee of the European Logistics Association (ELA). He received multiple prices and awards from scientific associations, governance, and industry. His research interests are Logistics, Supply Chain Management, Business Management, and International Management.

Benjamin Quinten is a Senior Professional at L-Bank, the State Bank of Baden-Württemberg, one of the largest development banks in Europe. He joined L-Bank in February 2012 and works in the area of public relations, economic studies and corporate sustainability management. Dr. Quinten was born in Saarlouis (Germany) in 1983. He studied Business Administration at Saarland University in Saarbrücken and completed his degree in 2006. His diploma thesis is about capital market anomalies and behavioural finance. From January 2007 to September 2011, Dr. Quinten worked at the Department of Finance at RWTH Aachen University as a research and teaching assistant. He earned his doctoral degree in October 2011 in the field of Cultural Corporate Finance. Dr. Quinten’s main research interests are cultural finance, behavioural finance, and development finance.

Alessio Rebelli is Controller Senior, Analyst, and Director of the Accounting Control Unit in the hospital “Azienda Ospedaliero-Universitaria – Ospedali Riuniti di Trieste,” Italy. His research interests include organizational behavior, software applications for accounting management and control, and online analytical processing, integrated reporting, continuous quality improvement and performance evaluation. He has published four technical publications and has taken part in five conferences and public events as lecturer.

Francesco Ricci is a recent graduate in International Management from the University of Bologna, Italy. His research interests are concerned with the topic of Business Development and the Internationalization process adopted by SMEs. He has been previously working as part of the commercial office’s staff at the Embassy of Italy in Uganda and then with a consulting firm in Bologna, Italy. As a junior consultant, he studied different cases of Italian firms willing to internationalize their operations. Following this experience, in late 2013, he decided to deepen his research on this fascinating topic by focusing on the relatively unexplored field of the space industry, throughout the collection of some evidence from a real case study.
Astrid Juliane Salzmann is an Assistant Professor of Finance at the Department of Finance in the Faculty of Business and Economics at the RWTH Aachen University in Germany. She has been teaching Finance at the RWTH Aachen University since 2006. Her research interests focus on international finance and cross-cultural research. She studied Management Mathematics at the University of Kaiserslautern and the National University of Singapore, and received her PhD in 2010 from the RWTH Aachen University.

Musa Sanal was born September 8, 1977 on the city of Osmaniye in Turkey. He has completed his primary and elementary education at Cebesoy Primary School. After primary school, he completed Anatolian High School at the city of Adana. Then he preferred the Department of Economy at the Cukurova University. He has completed his master and doctorate degree at the department of business in the Cukurova University. In 2003, he started as a lecturer at the Mustafa Kemal University in Hatay. Now, he is working at the Cukurova University as a asst. prof. dr. He is married and has a 9-year-old, pretty daughter.

Muhammad Shabir Shaahrudin received his MBA in International Business from Universiti Sains Malaysia and Bachelor Degree in International Business from Limkokwing University, Malaysia. He is currently pursuing PhD at Graduate School of Business, Universiti Sains Malaysia. He has two years working experience in two SMEs in transport and logistics and retail and distribution industries. His current research is in Carbon Footprint of supply chain and his area of interest includes Islamic, eco-innovation, sustainability development, and supply chain and operations.

Arun Shankar is a doctoral student in the Faculty of Management Studies, National Law University, Jodhpur, India. His topic of research relates to Land Acquisition. Shankar holds an MS degree in Consultancy Management from Birla Institute of Technology and Science, Pilani, India and a bachelor’s degree in Engineering from the Government Engineering College, Thrissur, affiliated to the University of Calicut, India. He has more than 14 years of experience in entrepreneurship and management. His areas of interest include Policy Science and Law. He is the Executive Director of the Comprehensive Digital World Private Limited and the Chief Executive of ArthaSasthra Ventures (India) LLP. His profile may be accessed at goo.gl/LUNKT1.

Gloria Sraha was a Research, Monitoring Evaluation officer in the cocoa industry of Ghana before she travelled to the UK for further studies in 2008. Gloria holds a Bachelor’s degree in Business Administration (Marketing Option) from All Nations University Ghana and a Master of Science in International Marketing with distinction from University of the West of Scotland, United Kingdom. Born and raised in Ghana, West Africa, Gloria has worked on different research projects across Ghana and Scotland and has travelled across West Africa, Europe, Asia and the Pacific. Gloria is currently a fully registered PhD student at Victoria University of Wellington (Victoria Business School) New Zealand working towards a doctor of philosophy in International Business. Gloria’s research investigates the determinants of export performance of firms in the manufacturing and agricultural sub-sectors in Ghana to improve their performance on the global business arena. Gloria hopes to complete her PhD studies in 2015.
Ceyda Tanrikulu received her BS, MS, and PhD degrees in business administration from University of Cukurova. Her PhD studies focused on consumer behaviour. She is now an assistant professor in the Department of International Business and Finance in Adana Science and Technology University. Her research areas are consumer behavior and sales management. Her publications have appeared in SSCI and internationally indexed journals.

Tara Thomas achieved her MBA in 2014 after being awarded the prestigious FCO Chevening Scholarship. She started her career working in West London for community regeneration projects where she developed a keen interest in social enterprise and achieved accreditation as a business counsellor for SMEs. Tara is originally from the British Island, St Helena where she served as a Legislative Council member during which she played an active role in securing air access for the Island. After completing her MBA with distinction, she moved back to St. Helena to accept a directorship within the family business.

Alessandra Vecchi is a Senior Research Fellow at London College of Fashion. She was formerly based in the School of Business and in the Institute for International Integration Studies (IIIS) at Trinity College in Dublin in Ireland where she still holds the position of IIIS Research Associate. She has been also nominated Assistant Professor in the Department of Management at the University of Bologna in Italy where she holds a Marie Curie Fellowship. Besides teaching several subjects mostly in the field of International Business and Operations Management at postgraduate level, she supervises MA and PhD students in a wide array of Fashion Management related subjects.

Francesco Venier is Tenured Researcher and Aggregate Professor of Organization at the University of Trieste, Italy and Associate Dean for Executive Education at MIB School of Management where he designed and led Executive Master in Wine Business. His research interests deal with business model innovation, wine business strategy, social technology strategies for small firms and with the value of social capital in industrial clusters. He has been visiting fellow and/or lecturer at BSc, MSc, MBA, and PhD programs in universities such as Lignan (University) College of Guangzhou (PRC), Warwick Business School (UK), Carinthia University of Applied Sciences (A), University of San Marino (RSM), SISSA - International School for Advanced Studies, University of Udine, University of Palermo (Italy). He has been involved in several national and international research programs on the above subjects sponsored by the Italian Ministry of Education, University and Research, and European Union.

Wah Wen Xin holds a MBA in Sustainable Development from Universiti Sains Malaysia (USM) and is currently a doctoral candidate. She has participated in numerous international conferences and published articles.
About the Contributors

Andrey Yukhanaev is employed within Faculty of Business and Law of Northumbria University. His current role is a Senior Lecturer in Strategic Management and International Business. He holds a Master of Business Administration degree from Northumbria University and PhD from the Russian Presidential Academy of National Economy and Public Administration. Dr. Yukhanaev is an active researcher in the areas of international business strategies in emerging economies, institutional economics, corporate governance, and international development. His research on the Russian institutional environment and its effects on the investment climate, corporate governance system, and the ease of doing business has been published in a number of distinguished academic outlets.

Christian Zuber is a Senior Scientist of International Management and Supply Chain Management at Technische Universität Darmstadt, Germany. He is Managing Director of the interdisciplinary excellence research project “Dynamo PLV: Dynamic and Seamless integration of Production, Logistics, and Traffic.” He graduated as Dr. rer. pol. in the field of Cultural Management in international Supply Chains. Besides several teaching activities at Technische Universität Darmstadt, he has been teaching International Management at the University of Pannonia in Veszprém, Hungary as guest lecturer since 2008 and Management of Material Goods in a live long learning program in Darmstadt. Dr. Zuber gained his international experience through various research stays at the University of Pannonia in Veszprém, Hungary and the Tongji University Shanghai, China. His research interests include International Management, Cultural Management, Interdisciplinary Research Methods, Supply Chain and Risk Management, Logistics, and Organizational Theory.