About the Contributors

Luisa Margarida Cagica Carvalho holds a PhD in Management from the University of Évora – Portugal. She is Professor of Management in the Department of Management and Social Sciences at Open University, Lisbon, Portugal. She is a guest professor in international universities, teaching in courses of master and PhD programs. She is a researcher at CEFAGE (Center for Advanced Studies in Management and Economics) University of Evora – Portugal, as well as the author of several publications in national and international journals, books and book chapters.

***

Victor Alves Afonso is a Senior Lecturer at Estoril Higher Institute for Tourism and Hotel Studies (Portugal) and Coordinator of Executive Master in Innovation and Entrepreneurship in Tourism. He holds an MBA from ISEG – Lisboa School of Economics & Management and a diploma of Financial Analyst by EFFAS European Federation of Financial Analysts Societies. His interests and current research include innovation and entrepreneurship in hospitality and tourism, business models and business management. He is a member of Portuguese Economists’ Association and Portuguese Order of Chartered Accountants.

Agnieszka Barcik is a lecturer and researcher in the Department of Management at the Faculty of Management and Transport at the University of Bielsko-Biała, in Poland. She is a lawyer specialized in European commercial law, competition law, intellectual property protection and the legal aspects of the enterprises’ management. She graduated from the Faculty of Law and Administration at Jagiellonian University in Krakow; she is a Doctor of Juridical Science; and she graduated from the Academy of European Law at the European University Institute in Florence. She is also a solicitor who runs her own law firm. Her research interests range across several key areas within interdisciplinary dimension of management with particular regard to its legal aspects, competition and competitiveness of business in the European market and the management of intellectual property. She has also held lectureships at a wide variety of academic institutions in Poland, Czech Republic, Spain and Portugal.

Olcay Bektaş is affiliated as a research assistant at the Faculty of Economics and Administrative Sciences of Uludağ University in Bursa/Turkey. He graduated with a bachelor’s degree in business administration department of same university. He is a master degree student in organization and management program. His current research is focused on fields of organizational behavior and strategic management.
Anna Bialek-Jaworska, PhD, is assistant Professor in the Department of Banking, Finance and Accounting, Faculty of Economic Sciences, University of Warsaw, ul. Długa 44/50, PL-00241 Warsaw, Poland, abialek@wne.uw.edu.pl. She graduated from the Faculty of Economic Sciences at University of Warsaw, Poland. She is dealing with issues of Financial Accounting, Computer accounting in business processes, Tax accounting and Financial Reporting. She is manager of education projects in the area of entrepreneurship and manages the Polish Project’s team in the FASTER international project. She is an author of research papers concerning Financial Reporting Standards, bank loans and other sources of financing enterprises’ activity. She is conducting researches for the National Bank of Poland and the Educational Research Institute.

Gautam Bille is ex-senior manager, Punjab National Bank, India. He has an extensive experience of 12 years in Indian banking industry and has worked in both the retail and corporate banking sectors. He won recognition for his strategic and branding initiatives and for his employers in India. He specialized in retail markets and micro-entrepreneurial ventures. He also researched international financial markets within South and South East Asia and served as a consultant for financial IT companies in Tokyo, Japan for 4 years where he analyzed trade markets, financial investments and business development opportunities for Indian companies venturing into the South East Asian markets. Currently he is based in Sweden and conducting research on the topics of Internationalization and Business development for firms of emerging economies with an emphasis on Sweden–India business relations.

Soniya Bille is Assistant Professor at the School of Business, Linnaeus University, Sweden. She earned her doctorate from Keio University, Tokyo, Japan and her thesis discussed Corporate Branding in retail banking with a comparative study between India and Japan. She has worked extensively in the areas of consumer behavior, bank marketing and female immigrant entrepreneurship and published in several peer reviewed journals and penned book chapters. She has also won several awards for her research work in competitions and for her contributions in conferences. Her current interests are cross cultural consumer behaviors, innovation and micro-entrepreneurship. Dr. Soniya is also a board member of the Internationalization committee of Linnaeus University and on the international advisory board of research organizations in Europe and India.

Maria de Lurdes Calisto is a senior lecturer at Estoril Higher Institute for Tourism and Hotel Studies (Portugal). She is highly involved with the coordination of projects that intend to develop entrepreneurial skills in ESHTÉ’s students, which have already led to several start-ups. She holds a Ph.D. in Management with a specialization in Human Resources awarded by the University of Évora. Her current research interests include strategic human resources management, organizational learning, human capital, innovation and intrapreneurship. She has presented several papers in international peer-reviewed conferences, some of which received awards, and is a non-integrated member of the Center for Advanced Studies in Management and Economics of the Universidade de Évora (CEFAGE). With several years of professional experience in the business context, is frequently invited as speaker and moderator in business/ technical conferences, and as consultant and trainer for Portuguese and multinational service firms, as well as for the Public Administration. She is a member of the National Board of the Portuguese Association of People Management.
Arturo Capasso gained a B.A. in Economics at the Università di Napoli in 1984, a Master’s in Business Administration at Columbia University, New York in 1988 and a Ph.D. in Corporate Finance at the Università di Bergamo and Università Cattolica Milano in 1990. In 1990, he became Adjunct Professor Università Parthenope Napoli and in 1994 Assistant Professor Università di Napoli Federico II. Then in 1998 he became Associate Professor Università di Salerno and he has been a Full Professor at the Università del Sannio since 2002. Presently he is Professor of corporate governance, Coordinator of the Graduate Program in Economics and Management, and Director of the Master in Clinical Governance at the Università del Sannio. He is also Professor of Corporate Finance and Professor of Business Valuation at the Master in Economic and Finance (MEF) at the Università di Napoli Federico II. His chief research interests lie in the areas of corporate strategy, corporate governance, finance, project finance, shipping finance, healthcare management, venture capital and private equity finance. He was panelist or track organizer in several editions of the AOM Conference and EURAM Conference. He also sits in the editorial board of “Journal of Management and Governance” and acts as referee for several scientific journals. He is an active consultant for many companies and institutions in Italy and abroad and sits in the board of directors of Vertis SGR (Private Equity).

Ana Carolina S. Carvalho obtained a Bachelor’s degree and a Master’s degree in Business Management from the University of Aveiro, Portugal. She is currently a PhD candidate in Marketing & Strategy at the University of Aveiro, Portugal. Her research interests include innovation and strategy. She lectures at ISCA, University of Aveiro.

Judite Coelho is graduated in Sociology in 2002 at the Faculty of Arts, University of Porto. In 2013, she completed a Masters Course in Human Resources Management, obtaining the award for best thesis of her course. She has an International Coaching by Values Certificate (by Simon Dolan). A sociology teacher, she also participates in several international research projects related to entrepreneurship. She is a business partner of Alientech, Lda (Portugal) and a researcher at CEPES – Research Centre for Population, Economics and Society Studies (University of Porto). Since 2012, she has been working for the Portuguese Ministry of Health Shared Services.

Beatriz Corchuelo is a Professor at the Department of Economics of the University of Extremadura (Spain). She has a background in applied economics, with a PhD in Economics and a Master’s in Economic Analysis (Spanish Institute of Fiscal Studies, Madrid). She teaches Microeconomics and Macroeconomics in the area of Foundations of Economic Analysis at the Faculty of Economic Sciences. Her main research focuses on the study of economics of innovation and evaluation of R&D public policies where she has several research national and international papers published in scientific journals. She has also published several teaching books and scientific book chapters and has participated in several national and international conferences. She has been the leader of a Spanish regional competitive project and has participated as collaborator in other Spanish competitive projects as well. She has been a visiting professor in different universities of Italy, France, Portugal, Bolivia and Colombia.

Maria João Correia is a Business consultant. She studies management on School of Accounting and Administration (ISCAP) of the Polytechnic of Porto (Portugal).
José Guilherme Leitão Dantas has a degree in Organization and Business Management from the Technical University of Lisbon, Portugal, a M.B.A in International Management from Autonomous University of Lisbon, Portugal, and a PhD in Economical and Managerial Sciences from the Autonomous University of Madrid, Spain. He is Associate Professor at the Polytechnic Institute of Leiria and he also has extensive entrepreneurial and managerial experience in companies of various sectors of the economy. He is the author and co-author of several books and articles, mainly in the areas of innovation and entrepreneurship, and also works as trainer and independent consultant in the areas of strategy, marketing and innovation.

Piotr Dziwiński is lecturer and researcher in the Department of Management at the Faculty of Management and Transport at the University of Bielsko-Biała, in Poland. He is a lawyer specializing in European commercial and institutional law, civil law, intellectual property protection and the legal aspects of the enterprises’ management. He graduated from the Faculty of Law and Administration at Jagiellonian University in Krakow. He also completed postgraduate studies in European law at Jagiellonian University; is Doctor of Juridical Science; and graduated from the Academy of European Law at the European University Institute in Florence. He is a solicitor who runs his own law firm, which specializes in providing legal services to business entities, including cross-border entities. He is also an active member of various professional and academic organizations such as Regional Chamber of Legal Advisers in Krakow, Polish Association of European Law. His research interests range across several key areas within interdisciplinary dimension of management with particular regard to its legal aspects, civil aspects of business in the European market and the management of intellectual property as well as debt trading and corporate restructuring. He has published in various journals, books, international conferences proceedings and monographs. He has also held lectureships at a wide variety of academic institutions in Poland, Czech Republic, Spain and Portugal; he also runs training courses for entrepreneurs.

Mehmet Eymen Eryılmaz is an associate professor who is working for Faculty of Economics and Administrative Sciences of Uludağ University in Bursa/Turkey. At the same time, he is serving as a vice dean for his faculty. He holds a Ph.D. degree from Uludağ University. His research previously appeared in journals such as Journal of Management Research, Management Research Review, Metu Studies in Development, and Occasional Series in Criminal Justice and International Studies. His current research is focused on fields of organization theory, strategic management and research methodology.

Renata Gabryleczyk, PhD, is assistant Professor at the Department of Information Systems and Economic Analysis, Faculty of Economic Sciences, the University of Warsaw. ul. Długa 44/50, PL-00241 Warsaw, Poland, resa@wne.uw.edu.pl. Her academic experience also includes studying at Institute for Information Systems at Saarland University in Saarbrücken, as well as research fellowships at scientific centres in Heidelberg, Constance and Vienna. Her professional pursuits include: modeling and analyzing business processes, facility management, information and communication systems, strategic management accounting, methods and new ideas in contemporary management accounting. Extra-academically she is a member of the Technical Committee for Facility Management of the Polish Committee for Standardization.
About the Contributors

Simone Galina is an assistant professor of Innovation and Operations Management at the School of Economics, Business and Accountancy of Ribeirão Preto at University of São Paulo. She has a PhD in Engineering from Polytechnic School of University of São Paulo. She is teacher and advisor of Master and Doctorate students at the Graduate Program in Management of Organizations (PPGGO). She leads the Group of Studies on Innovation and Internationalisation of Companies and her main areas of expertise are innovation management, R&D internationalization and globalization of operations.

Dolores Gallardo-Vázquez is lecturer and researcher in the Department of Department of Financial Economy and Accounting at the Faculty of Economics Sciences and Business Administration at the University of Extremadura, in Spain. She is an Economist specializing in Financial Accounting, Intellectual Capital and Corporate Social Responsibility, Expert in Implementation of International Accounting Standards, with an MSc in Training as University Teaching in the European Higher Education, and an MSc in Management of Higher Education Institutions; she received a fellowship at Cranfield University based on competitive aid from Spanish Government. She has managed the Orientation and Teacher Training Service at the University for four years. Now, she is managing the University Social Responsibility Office. Her research interests range across several key areas within Intellectual Capital, Corporate Social Responsibility, Corporate Volunteering, University Social Responsibility, Social Entrepreneurship and Social Innovation, including public and social policy contexts and the nexus of relationships between accounting, social accounting and accountability. Now, her research is linked with the management at the University, with the possibility of implementing theoretical studies on the practical field. She has published in various peer reviewed journals, books, international conferences proceedings and monographs. She has also held lectureships at a wide variety of academic institutions. She organized a lot of seminars, conferences and international summer courses. Now, she manages an MSc on Management of Corporate Social Responsibility. She speaks fluent English and has extensive academic and professional experience in management and international relations. She has contributed to the training of internal community of the University and is involved in various research projects aiming to foster CSR in SMEs. She is also active member of various professional and academic international organizations such as the Spanish Association of Accounting and Business Administration, Spanish Association of University Professors of Accounting and the International Association on Public and Non-Profit Marketing.

Elisa Giacosa received a Ph.D. in Business Administration in 2003 and she is currently an Assistant Professor in Business Administration at the Department of Management, University of Turin (Italy), where she teaches Financial Accounting and Net economy (undergraduate). She was Erasmus Visiting Professor in several foreign universities. Her research interests are in family businesses, crisis management, fashion firms, net economy and financial analysis, on which several international publications were focused. She is an Associate Fellow of the EuroMed Academy of Business.

Guido Giovando is Assistant Professor in Business Administration at the University of Turin, Italy. He teaches Financial Accounting and Cost Accounting (Italian undergraduate) and Consolidated Financial Statements (Italian graduate) in the University of Turin, Italy. He was Erasmus Visiting Professor in several Foreign Universities. His research interests are in financial analysis and airport management infrastructures, on which several international publications were focused. He is an Associate Fellow of the EuroMed Academy of Business.
Maria Ortelinda Gonçalves graduated in Geography. Her Master’s is in Intercultural Relations and her PhD is in Human Geography. Her research activity focuses on Education, Citizenship, International Migrations and Development. Integrated Researcher and Vice President of CEPES – Research Centre for Population, Economics and Society Studies (University of Porto). She is a collaborator researcher at the Centre for Studies on Migration and Intercultural Relations - CEMRI and at the Center for Research in Geography and Planning - NIGP, Department of Geography, University of Minho. She is also coordinator of postgraduate and masters course in the field of Education and Teaching and has organized and participated in many conferences, lectures and international scientific meetings. She is the author of several books and articles published in national and international scientific journals, the coordinator and participant in several international research projects, and Vice-President of the University Association of Espinho - AUE.

Juelma Gracinda de Oliveira Guerreiro was born on October 06, 1987, in Huila, Angola. She has been working as a Junior Business Management Consultant. In 2013, she received a Master Degree (MSc) in Engineering and Industrial Management from Instituto Superior Técnico, University of Lisbon, with a thesis entitled “The Determinants of Organizational Innovation: Characterization of Portuguese Firms”. Juelma Guerreiro also holds a degree (BSc) in Chemical and Biological Engineering from Instituto Superior de Engenharia de Lisboa. Her main interests are Innovation, Project Planning and Management, Lean Manufacturing, Operations Management and Supply Chain Management.

Iraci de Souza João finished her Bachelors of Business Administration degree from Unesp University – Brazil, in 2007, when worked with agribusiness chain peanut research. In 2010, she got her Masters in Business Administration at USP University, Faculty of Economics, Business and Accounting of Ribeirão Preto (FEA-RP), and her research was about Electricity market in the free contracting environment (ACL) by the sugar-energy sector in Brazil. Currently she is a Ph.D. student at FEA-RP – USP under the supervision of Prof. Dr. Simone Galina, and Professor at Federal Institute of Triângulo Mineiro (IFTM) - Brazil. Her current research focuses on social enterprise and social innovation management.

Isabel Costa Lourenço is Associate Professor at ISCTE-IUL (Lisbon University Institute). She is Director of the Accounting Specialisation of the PhD in Management of ISCTE-IUL. She has significant experience in academic programmes as well as in executive education, primarily in IFRS related issues. She is Researcher at BRU-IUL and her research papers are published in several top journals as, for example, the European Accounting Review, Australian Journal of Management, Review of Quantitative Finance and Accounting and Journal of Business Ethics.

Alberto Mazzoleni received a Ph.D. in Business Administration in 2001 and he is currently an Assistant Professor in Business Administration at the Department of Economics and Management, University of Brescia (Italy), where he teaches Consolidate Financial Statements (graduate). His research interests are in family businesses, crisis management and financial analysis, on which several international publications were focused. He is an Associate Fellow of the EuroMed Academy of Business.

Olimpia Meglio earned her PhD in Business Administration from University of Naples Federico II. She is currently Associate professor of Management at University of Sannio. Her research interests revolve around ambidexterity in post-acquisition integration, acquisition performance, process research methods and intergenerational transition is small family business. She has authored several book chapters with leading international publishers. Her articles appeared in Human Resource Management, Scandinavian Journal of Management and Advances in Mergers and Acquisitions.
About the Contributors

Francisco J. Mesías is a Professor at the Department of Economics of the University of Extremadura, Spain. He has a background in agricultural economics, with a PhD in Agricultural Economics and a Master’s Degree in Food Marketing. He currently teaches Agricultural Economics and Management of Agri-food industries at the Faculty of Agriculture, University of Extremadura. His main research lines focus on the study of competitiveness of agri-food industries, farm management and consumer preferences for food. He has been the leader of several competitive international and Spanish research projects dealing with his research interests. He is the author of more than 50 research papers, published in some of the top international scientific journals. He has also published several books and book chapters with Spanish and international publishers. He has been a visiting professor in different universities of Italy, México and the USA, and has been invited to deliver conferences in different scientific and professional events in Spain, Portugal, Italy and México.

António C. Moreira obtained a Bachelor’s degree in Electrical Engineering and a Master’s degree in Management, both from the University of Porto, Portugal. He received his PhD in Management from UMIST-University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology, England. He has a solid international background in industry leveraged working for a multinational company in Germany as well as in Portugal. He has also been involved in consultancy projects and in research activities. He is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Economics Management and Industrial Engineering, University of Aveiro, Portugal, where he headed the Bachelor and Master Degrees in Management for five years.

Inna Sousa Paiva (PhD) Assistant Professor of Accounting at the Lusófona University of Humanities and Technology. She has considerable academic experience in programs in financial accounting area. Her research interests are the implementation of International Financial Reporting Standards and Accounting Quality. She is the author of several communications in international scientific conferences, research papers and book chapters.

M. Luisa Pajuelo-Moreno is a lecturer and researcher in the Department of Department of Financial Economy and Accounting at the Faculty of Economics Sciences and Business Administration at the University Pablo de Olavide of Sevilla, in Spain. She is an Economist specialized in Financial, Cost and Management Accounting. She has had research stays at universities of international excellence, such as the University of Sevilla. Her research interests range across several key areas within Sustainable Development, Corporate Social Responsibility, University Social Responsibility, Ethical, Social, Environmental and Sustainability Accounting, Disclosure and Accountability, and Assessment of the Impact of Business Activity in Sustainability Terms, including: public and social policy contexts and the nexus of relationships between accounting, social accounting and accountability. She has published in various peer reviewed journals, books, international conferences proceedings and monographs. She speaks English and she is also active member of various professional and academic international organizations such as the Spanish Association of Accounting and Business Administration, Spanish Association of University Professors of Accounting and Centre for Social and Environmental Accounting Research (CICSMA).
Tomás Bañegil Palacios is a full professor at the Department of Business Management and Sociology of the University of Extremadura, Spain. He has a PhD in Economics and Business Management at the University Autónoma de Madrid, Spain and a Master in Economics and Business Management at the Brighton Business School, England. Has experience in private enterprises in the field of Accounting, Tax advice, and Boards of Directors, and as a consultant to several enterprises in the Food industry, Construction and Tourism, among others. He currently teaches in areas such as International Marketing, Economics of the family business and Creation of enterprises. He has 10 books and 12 book chapters published in Spain, Brazil and the U.S, 68 articles in scientific journals, and has participated in 38 international and 47 national conferences. He has directed 13 doctoral theses, five of which have received a special prize of the University of Extremadura and one a special prize at the national level. He has participated in different Governing Bodies at the University of Extremadura (Head of Department, Quality Committees, Commissions Creating and Evaluating Curriculum, Associate Dean ...). He is external reviewer at various scientific journals such as Journal of Economics and Business, Journal of Management and Business Economics, Journal of Family Business, among others. He has given over two hundred conferences, doctoral courses and sessions in different masters in Spain, Portugal, Italy, Belgium, Sweden, Brazil, Ecuador, Peru, Argentina and Canada.

Miguel Torres Preto is Assistant Professor at School of Economics of the University of Coimbra (FEUC), Portugal, since 2013, where he teaches courses on Entrepreneurship, Strategy and Marketing. He is also a research fellow at IN+, Center for Innovation, Technology and Policy Research, Laboratory of Technology Policy and Management. He took his doctoral degree in Engineering and Industrial Management from Instituto Superior Técnico, University of Lisbon, in 2009. His research work led to publications in international peer reviewed journals (e.g. Journal of International Business Studies, European Economic Review, Small Business Economics) on issues concerning entrepreneurship, innovation, and internationalization. He has successfully applied for several research grants in recent years, and his work has been nominated for some awards of international conferences. His research interests include performance effects of labor mobility, especially the value of entrepreneurial human capital at individual, regional, and international level.

M. Maarouf Ramadan is an assistant professor of Finance & Business Economics at KEDGE Business School. He earned a doctorate degree (PhD) in economics and business administration at the Ecole Normale Supérieure (ENS). Prior to joining KEDGE Business School he was a temporary lecturer and research assistant at the university of Rennes 1 (France) and the univsersity of Marne la Vallée (France). In 2008, having spent time as a Postdoctoral research at the Researche Institute for SMEs (RISME) in Trois-Rivieres (Canada) where he worked on the internationalization of SMEs. A student of economics and international management by training, Maarouf’s research and teaching interests encompass the understanding the internationalization of SMEs in Mediterranean area in general and particularly in Lebanon. He has conducted extensive studies on the internationalization process of the SMEs in Lebanon and Morrocco in the context of the transmrditerranean factor with the National Center for Scientific Research (NCSR) in France.
Paula Cristina Remoaldo is associate professor with habilitation in Human Geography in the Department of Geography of the Social Sciences Institute, University of Minho, Portugal. She has a PhD in Human Geography from the University of Minho with the collaboration of Louvain-la-Neuve University (Belgium). She is Head of the Geography and Planning Research Unit. Coordinator of the research field “Organizations, Development and Territory” of the Social Sciences Research Centre. Director of the Master Program in Geography (Planning and Management of Territory) at the University of Minho. Author of 11 books and 22 chapters of books, she also published nearly 70 papers and participated in 26 national and international research projects. Her main research fields are Regional and Local Development, Cultural Tourism and Health Geography.

Matteo Rossi is an Assistant Professor of Corporate Finance at the University of Sannio, Italy. He holds a PhD in corporate governance, and his prime research interests are corporate finance, financing innovation, wine system, and innovation systems. In all of these areas, he has published, contributed chapters to books, edited books and presented papers to national and international conferences. He is Vice President for International Relations of the EuroMed Research Business Institute (EMRBI). He is Associate Editor of Global Business and Economics (GBER - Inderscience), International Journal of Bond and Derivatives (IJB - Inderscience), and International Journal of Managerial and Financial Accounting (IJMFA - Inderscience). In 2014, he won the Highly Commended Paper Award of the International Journal of Organizational Analysis (Emerald) for the paper “Mergers and Acquisitions In The Hightech Industry: A Literature Review,” and in 2012, he won the Outstanding Paper Award of the International Journal of Organizational Analysis (Emerald) for the paper “Italian Wine Firms: Strategic Branding and Wine Performance.”

Orlando Lima Rua is an Assistant Professor of Management at the School of Accounting and Administration (ISCAP) of the Polytechnic of Porto (Portugal), as well as a researcher at Center of Business and Legal Studies (CECEJ) (Polytechnic of Porto – ISCAP) and at Management Applied Research Unit (UNIAG) of the Association of Polytechnic Institutes of Northern Portugal (APNOR).

M. Isabel Sanchez-Hernandez is lecturer and researcher in the Department of Management and Sociology at the Faculty Economics Sciences and Business Administration at the University of Extremadura in Spain. She is an Economist specializing in Regional Economics and Corporate Social Responsibility, with an MSc in Agricultural Economics, MBA in Organization and Human Resources Management and PhD in Applied Economics and Business Organization; she has had Fellowships in prestigious universities as Autonomous University of Madrid, Aberdeen University or Cranfield University. Her research interests range across several key areas within Corporate Social Responsibility, Social Entrepreneurship and Social Innovation, including: public and social policy contexts and the nexus of relationships between accounting, social accounting and accountability. She has published in various peer reviewed journals, books, international conferences proceedings and monographs. She has also held lectureships at a wide variety of academic institutions in Spain, Portugal, France, UK, Italy and Poland.

Pedro Miguel Silva obtained a Bachelor’s degree and a Master’s degree in Business Management in the University of Aveiro, Portugal. He is currently a PhD candidate in Marketing and Strategy in the Universities of Minho, Aveiro and Beira Interior. He has previous experiences in a multinational company and participated in research projects on the internationalization field.
Marina Amorim de Sousa is a professor at the Department of Organization and Management at the School of Engineering of Polytechnic of Porto, Portugal, and has over twenty years’ experience in focusing on the management and strategic aspects of higher education. She has graduated in the Faculty of Sciences of the University of Porto, has a specialization in Strategic Management of Universities at the Polytechnic University of Catalunya, Spain, and a Master degree in Social and Legal Sciences, specialization in Economics, Business and Labour at the University of Extremadura, Spain. She is currently completing the PhD project in Internationalization of Higher Education at the University of Extremadura. She was Vice-President and member of the Board of Management of the Polytechnic of Porto, a member of the Executive Council, the Pedagogical Council and Representatives Council of the School of Engineering of Polytechnic of Porto. She was Chief Executive Officer of the Polytechnic of Porto Foundation. She has participated in several conferences concerned with the Higher Education promoted by organizations like European Association of Institutions in Higher Education or European Network for Universities of Applied Sciences. Participated in missions to Angola, Mozambique, Sao Tome and Principe, and Cape Verde with the aim of establishing alliances and collaborations between higher education institutions. Her main fields of interest are Globalization, Internationalization, European Integration, Strategic Management, and Governance of Higher Education.

Fernando Manuel Valente has a Master in Industrial Management and Strategy from the School of Economics and Management, University of Lisbon, Portugal. He is Associate Professor at the Polytechnic Institute of Setúbal - High School of Technology of Setúbal, in the field of Business Science. He also has managerial experience in a private company and has managed his own businesses. He has participated in several international projects sponsored by the UE and in multiple events related to the areas of innovation and entrepreneurship. He had coordinated a supporting unit for entrepreneurship during four years and is a board member of some organizations.