About the Contributors

Luís M. Carmo Farinha has a PhD in Management, specializing in the areas of innovation, entrepreneurship and competitiveness. He is lecturer at the Polytechnic Institute of Castelo Branco and at the Management Institute of Leiria (ISLA). His areas of interest are the networks of innovation, entrepreneurship and competitiveness. Previously, he was Senior Technician of Human Resources and Management Control; and Team member project of the new bleach plant and newline Park woods (manufacturing expansion projects) / responsible for health and safety at work at Pulp and paper industry, in Portugal. Representative of the Board of General Assembly of a Portuguese Gas company.

João J. M. Ferreira is Associate Professor at University of Beira Interior, Portugal. He completed the European Doctoral Programme of Entrepreneurship and Small Business Management at Autonomous University of Barcelona (UAB), Spain. He is currently the Scientific Coordinator of NECE – Research Unit of Business Sciences as well as Director of the 2nd cycle in Management. He has published several articles in international journals editor of some international books. His areas of interest are strategy, entrepreneurship and competitiveness.

Helen Lawton Smith is Professor of Entrepreneurship, Department of Management, Birkbeck, University of London. Her research career has focused on the links between entrepreneurship, innovation, public policy and regional development in national and international contexts. She is the Founder and Research Director of the Oxfordshire Economic Observatory, School of Geography and the Environment, Oxford University (http://oeo.geog.ox.ac.uk) and is Director of the Birkbeck Centre for Innovation Management Research (http://bbk.ac.uk/innovation). She is the author of nine books and of over ninety journal articles and book chapters and is Associate Editor, Strategic Change: Briefings in Entrepreneurial Finance.
Sharmistha Bagchi-Sen received her Ph.D. from the University of Georgia in 1989. From January 2005 until December 2010, she served as the chief editor of one of the flagship journals of the Association of American Geographers—The Professional Geographer. She has served on the editorial board of the Annals of the Association of American Geographers, Applied Geography, and The Canadian Geographer. She teaches graduate and undergraduate courses on economic and urban geography. She has published over sixty articles in refereed journals and has co-edited two books. She has received five different research awards from the National Science Foundation and several others from the Canadian Embassy. Her research covers topics in economic geography and international business. In economic geography, her interests are in understanding firm and industry dynamics and the interplay between firms’ internal and external environments. Her specific industrial interests are in biotechnology, bioenergy, and pharmaceutical industries. She continues to work on foreign direct investment; her current focus is on multinationals from emerging markets and their investments in Europe and the United States.

***

Rute Abreu, accounting and Finance Professor and Chair of the scientific area at the Instituto Politécnico da Guarda, Portugal, since 1990. She earned the PhD Degree in Accounting and Finance from the Universidad de Salamanca, Spain and teaches financial analysis, corporate finance, schedule and appraisal investment, auditing, financial accounting, taxation, firm valuation and social responsibility management. Usually, develops activities with Social Responsibility Research Network and Global Corporate Governance Institute and research focus on CSR, corporate governance, accounting and firm valuation and it has been published in several international journals. She regularly develops scientific activities related with participation and organization, all over the world, of conferences and SR meetings.

Özen Aşık-Dızdar is Assistant Professor of Management at Fairleigh Dickinson University, Vancouver (Canada). She received her Ph.D. in Management and Organization Studies at Bogazici University, Istanbul (Turkey). During her Ph.D. studies, she spent one year as a visiting scholar at University of British Columbia’s Sauder School of Business where she conducted research toward her degree. With more than ten years of teaching experience in Turkey and Canada, her current teaching and research interests include organizational behaviour, business education, positive psychology, employment relationships, and network organizations. She has participated in various academic conferences in Europe, Canada and US to present her work.

Laima Auza is an experienced Public Relations specialist. She is Head of Communication Department at Financial and Capital Market Commission in Latvia. Previously Laima has worked at the Public Relations agency “Hill and Knowlton Latvia” as an Account Director. Laima has Executive Master of Business Administration degree in Stockholm School of Economics in Riga and Bachelor degree in Social Sciences from the University of Latvia (Latvia). Laima’s professional and research interests are in the fields of corporate and crisis communication as well as new business development, including internationalization patterns of new companies.
About the Contributors

Paul Benneworth is a Senior Researcher at the Center for Higher Education Policy Studies (CHEPS) at the University of Twente, the Netherlands. Paul completed his Ph.D. in innovation and economic change in an old industrial region in 2002 at the University of Newcastle, UK. He held ESRC Postdoctoral and RCUK Academic Fellowships in the UK on innovation and territorial economic development, and in the Netherlands led the HERAVALUE research consortium on measuring the public value of arts & humanities research. He is the author of more than thirty scientific articles and editor of five scholarly volumes.

Janette Brunstein is a Researcher and Professor of Stricto Sensu Postgraduation Programme in Business Administration from Universidade Presbiteriana Mackenzie. Her work is focused on education, learning and development of competences for sustainability, in both environment, academic and organisational. She is a leader of a research group, entitled: Research and Foundation in Administration, which is supported by National Council of Technological and Scientific Development (CNPq). She has over 10 years of academic experience, and during the last five years she has been coordinating a project within the national ambit, supported by an organ in furtherance of the Brazilian Government, which aims to insert the thematic of sustainability into Business Administration courses.

Ana Carolina S. Carvalho obtained a Bachelor’s degree and a Master’s degree in Business Management from the University of Aveiro, Portugal. She is currently a PhD candidate in Marketing & Strategy at the University of Aveiro, Portugal. Her research interests include innovation and strategy. She lectures at ISCA, University of Aveiro.

Nuno Caseiro is a PhD Student in Complex Systems; Msc in Management Sciences (Strategy). He is a teacher and researcher at Polytechnic Institute of Castelo Branco since 2000 and has worked in several projects related to entrepreneurship promotion. Caseiro has several papers and a book chapter published in the fields of entrepreneurship, entrepreneurship teaching, network analysis and entrepreneurial university relation to regional development.

Francisco Javier Rondán Cataluña has a PhD. in Marketing and Market Research by the University of Seville. Associate Professor of the same University. He has taught many marketing subjects from 1998. He has published more than 50 articles in international journals, such as: Management Decision; The Service Industries Journal; International Journal of Service Industry Management; Current Issues in Tourism; Behaviour & Information Technology; Electronic Commerce Research and Applications; Computer & Education; Journal of Business Research; Journal of Consumer Behavior; Internet Research; International Review of Retail, Distribution and Consumer Research, Journal of Business Economics and Management, Kybernetes, etc.
Jess Co is currently a Management lecturer at Monash College. She has extensive experience in teaching entrepreneurship in undergraduate and postgraduate levels. She has been involved in entrepreneurship education for more than 20 years and has taught in several countries including: the UK, South Africa, Sweden, the Philippines and is currently based in Australia. Her research interests include entrepreneurship education, ethnic and youth entrepreneurship, social entrepreneurship, government policy and support for entrepreneurs and entrepreneurship in developing countries. She has published several journal articles in international journals, book chapters and co-authored a textbook on entrepreneurship. She regularly presents papers in academic conferences across the world. She also reviews articles for several journals and is currently one of the assistant editors of the International Journal of Management Science and Information Technology.

Phil Cooke, Editor, European Planning Studies and Professor at The Center for Innovation, Bergen University College, Norway. He was formerly University Research Professor in regional economic development (1991) and founding director (1993) of the Centre for Advanced Studies, University of Wales, Cardiff. He was (2005-2017) also Adjunct Professor in Development Studies at Aalborg University, Denmark and elsewhere. In 2013 he was appointed Research Professor at the Oxford Institute for Sustainable Development. He was also formerly Visiting Professor, Laboratoire pour Recherche Economique et Politique Systematique (LEREPS), University of Toulouse, France. Philip Cooke’s research interests lie in studies of Complex Systems, Green & Bio-Innovation, Regional Innovation Systems, Knowledge Economies, Entrepreneurship and Clusters and Networks. In 2012 and 2013 Complex Adaptive Innovation Systems and Reframing Regional Development were respectively published by Routledge. Prof. Cooke is a UK government advisor on innovation, and advises national & regional governments, the EU, OECD, World Bank and UNIDO on regional innovation systems.

Andreas Peter Cornett is a Professor in Regional Economics and Development at Department of Border Region Studies, University of Southern Denmark.

Jorge Cunha is Assistant Professor at the Department of Production and Systems, Engineering School, University of Minho, Portugal. Researcher on CGIT – Research Centre for Industrial and Technology Management, Portugal. He holds a degree in Economics (1996), a MSc in Financial Economics (1999), both from Faculty of Economics, University of Coimbra, and a PhD in Production and Systems Engineering (2005) from University of Minho, Portugal. His recent research interests are on the social innovation process, economic impact studies, energy finance, and investment appraisal. He is the author and co-author of several scientific papers published in international journals.

Marcia Juliana d’Angelo earned a Ph.D. and a MSc in Business Administration from Universidade Presbiteriana Mackenzie and a MBA from Warwick Business School, England. She is a professor and researcher in Strategy, Organizational Studies, Sustainability Studies and Marketing at Fucape Business School, Vitória/ES, Brazil. Her research interests are on sustainability studies approaching strategy, marketing, social learning for sustainability, Corporate Social Entrepreneurship. She is also one of the coordinators of the Center for Sustainability Studies in Organizations at Fucape Business School.
About the Contributors

Fátima David, Accounting and Finance Professor in the Business and Economics Scientific and Technical Unit, since 1991, of the Technology and Business Higher School at the Instituto Politécnico da Guarda, Portugal. She teaches several courses in the Accounting and Management degrees, such as: financial analysis, corporate finance, financial accounting, and taxation. Also, she teaches to master degrees, such as: Taxation, Firm Valuation, Social Responsibility Management. She received in 2007 the PhD Degree in Accounting and Taxation from the Universidad de Salamanca, Spain. She is Accounting Degree Director. She usually develops activities with social responsibility research network; her research has been published in several journals. Frequently, she organizes and participates in conferences.

Saulo Dubard Barbosa is Associate Professor at EMLYON Business School, France. He completed his Ph.D. at the University of Grenoble II, also in France. Originally from Brazil, where he graduated in Management at the University of São Paulo, he has accumulated some practical and academic experience in the field of entrepreneurship in Brazil, China, France, and the United States of America. He has published articles in journals such as Entrepreneurship Theory & Practice, Frontiers of Entrepreneurship Research, International Journal of Entrepreneurship and Innovation, and Journal of Business Venturing. His main research interests are on entrepreneurial decision making, risk taking, and social entrepreneurship.

Susanne Durst is Associate Professor at the School of Business at University of Skövde (Sweden). Before joining academia, she worked in different positions with private enterprises of different industries. Her research interests include small business management, SME succession/business transfers, knowledge management, intellectual capital (risk) management and corporate governance. Her work has been awarded with different awards, including the Transeo Academic Award in 2012. She received a PhD from University of Paris XI (France) and holds a Master in Finance from University of Skövde.

Ayla Esen is an Assistant Professor of Management and Organization at Istanbul Kemerburgaz University, where she also serves as Chair of Department of Business Administration. Esen holds an undergraduate degree in Industrial Engineering from Istanbul Technical University. She received her MBA and PhD in Management from Bogazici University (Istanbul, Turkey). Her professional experience includes ten years as an expert and consultant in strategic management. Esen’s research focuses on cooperative strategies, scenario planning, participative management processes and social innovation.

Cristina Estevão (Ph.D in Management) is Adjunct Professor Invited of Management at the School of Management of Idanha-a-Nova, Polytechnic Institute of Castelo Branco - Portugal. She is a research member of NECE - Research Unit in Science Business. Her research interests include: strategy, competitiveness and marketing. She has published in several international journals.

Cristina I. Fernandes (PhD in Management) is Assistant at Polytechnic of Castelo Branco and researcher at NECE- Research Unit in Business Sciences, University of Beira Interior (UBI). She has published several papers in international journals. Her research interests are: Technology Entrepreneurship and Entrepreneurship, Knowledge Services, Innovation, and Regional Competitiveness.
Nuno O. Fernandes is currently working as a professor in the School of Technology of Polytechnic Institute of Castelo Branco (Portugal). He graduated in Production Engineering and received a PhD in Industrial Management in 2007 from University of Minho. His research interests are in workload control, card-based control systems and production planning and control in general.

Paula Odete Fernandes, PhD in Applied Economics and Regional Analysis and Professor of Management, in the Polytechnic Institute of Bragança (IPB) - Portugal. She is researcher of NECE (UBI) and Scientific Coordinator of UNIAG (Applied Management Research Unit). Her research interests include: Tourism, Management, Artificial Neural Network, Entrepreneurship, Econometric Modeling, Marketing Research, and Applied Research Methods. Participation in 4 international projects I&D and more than 100 publications in proceedings and scientific journals with referee.

Fernando Ferreira is Assistant Professor at the ISCTE Business School of the University Institute of Lisbon, and Adjunct Research Professor at the Fogelman College of Business and Economics of the University of Memphis, TN, USA. He holds a PhD in Quantitative Methods Applied to Economics and Management from the University of Algarve, Portugal. Some of his articles are published by ISI-listed journals such as Journal of the Operational Research Society, Management Decision, International Entrepreneurship and Management Journal, International Journal of Strategic Property Management, and Journal of Business Economics and Management. He has practical experience as group facilitator and his research interests include integrated systems for performance measurement.

Elisabeth Ferri is a PhD student in the International Doctorate in Entrepreneurship and Management at the Autonomous University of Barcelona (UAB – Spain). Her research is focused on social entrepreneurship in the context of institutional economics from a quantitative analysis. She is currently participating in various Spanish projects related to the social entrepreneurship phenomenon.

Filip Fidanoski is a scholar and free-lance author from Republic of Macedonia. His alma mater is Faculty of Economics-Skopje, Ss. Cyril and Methodius University in Skopje, Republic of Macedonia. His major subject of career is professionally dedicated to Entrepreneurship, Management and Corporate Governance, through consultancy and scientific research. He is a reviewer, author and coauthor of different articles, papers and chapters published in Economic Analysis, Advances in Financial Economics and other valuable and relevant publications. In addition, his texts are appeared in influential mediums in Republic of Macedonia. Also, he actively participates in organization of different scientific and professional events from his field of interest.

Sara Brito Filipe (Ph.D in Marketing and International Commerce) is Adjunct Professor of Marketing at the School of Management of Idanha-a-Nova, Polytechnic Institute of Castelo Branco - Portugal. She is subdirector of the School. Her research interests include: competitiveness, marketing and brands management.
About the Contributors

Henrique Formigoni, Accounting and Finance Professor at the Center of Applied Social Science of Mackenzie Presbyterian University in São Paulo, Brazil. He received his Master’s Degree in Accounting from Pontificia Universidade Católica, Brazil and his PhD in Accounting from the University of São Paulo, in São Paulo, Brazil and Post-Doctoral Study in Accounting and Finance from the Universidad de Salamanca, Spain. He worked for several companies as an accountant for many years and now he is the Coordinator of the Accounting course and works as a researcher and professor in Mackenzie Presbyterian University.

Mário Franco is an Assistant Professor of Entrepreneurship and SME Administration at the Department of Management and Economics, Beira Interior University, Portugal. He received his PhD in Management from Beira Interior University in 2002. In 1997, he was a doctoral candidate and participated in the European Doctoral Programme in Entrepreneurship and Small Business Management in Spain and Sweden. His research focuses on strategic alliances, business networks, innovation and business creation. He is also a member of a Research Unit (CEFAGE-UBI) and currently involved in several research projects on SMEs.

Gyula Fülöp is a Certificated Engineer-economist and Professor at the Institute of Business Sciences, University of Miskolc, Hungary. He holds a PhD in Business Economics and has published extensively in a variety of leading journals. He has also authored and co-authored books, book chapters and many conference papers. He has received the following research grants: British Council Fellowship, Aston Business School, Birmingham, UK (1992); Fulbright Scholarship, Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, USA (1996); and Széchenyi István Scholarship, Ministry of Education, Budapest, Hungary (2001/2003). His research interests include: strategy, competitiveness and entrepreneurship.

Jorge Arenas Gaitán is Assistant Professor in the Department of Business Management and Marketing at the Seville University, Spain. He received his BA and PhD degrees in Business Administration from Seville University in Spain. His research interests include behavior of firms in global markets, cross-cultural studies and information technology acceptance. His work has been published in journals, books, and refereed conference proceedings, including Computers & Education, Social Science Computer Review, Journal of Business Review, Journal of Technology Management & Innovation, Americas Conference on Information Systems Proceeding (AMCIS), International Marketing Trends Conference Proceeding, and Advances in Data Networks Communications, Computers.

Ana Rita Garcia is Director of the School of Management in the Idanha-a-Nova campus of the Polytechnic Institute of Castelo Branco. She holds a Honours Degree in Sociology by the New University of Lisbon and she is writing her PhD thesis on Sociology and Communication. Her published work includes several articles and she has participated in a variety of national and international conferences and seminars.
Joaquim Borges Gouveia is a Full Professor at the Department of Economics, Industrial management and engineering at the University of Aveiro, lecturing the wide range of disciplines from Management, Operations Management, Innovation Management and Technology and Entrepreneurship, Energy Management and Energy Policy, among others. He is a researcher in the R & D unit GOVCOPP - Governance, Competitiveness and Public Policy, responsible for Competitiveness line. Occupies positions of Administration and Management and different organizations.

Bettina Hernádi is a PhD student at the Institute of Business Sciences, University of Miskolc, Hungary. Some of her works have been published nationally and internationally. Her research interests include sustainability strategy and sustainability accounting.

Penelope Hernandez is Associate Professor of Economics at the University of Valencia. She received her Bachelor of Mathematics and Ph.D. degree in Economics, both from University of Valencia. From 2001 to 2003, she got two European contracts. The first one was in TEMA, Cergy Pontoise as a TMR Network Fellowship, and the second one was an Individual Fellowship Marie Curie. Her research interests include Game Theory, Economics of Information and Behavioral Economics.

Christoph Hinteregger is a Master student at the Institute for Entrepreneurship at the University of Liechtenstein, Vaduz. His research interests include corporate entrepreneurship, organizational culture, and human resource management. Before attending the university, he was employed at a tax advising firm prior to becoming a co-founder of apospec international AG (Switzerland). The company was specialized in the development of telematics systems such as monitoring operating times of construction machines or digital tachographs. After selling the company in 2010, he started a new company focusing on the development of web-, server-, and mobile applications serving businesses of all sizes in Central Europe.

Dessy Irawati (1979) is a full-time executive consultant and Business Representative of BNI (Bank Negara Indonesia) in the Netherlands. She is also the founder and CEO of eduPRIME education and research consulting, based in Tilburg, the Netherlands. Additionally she serves as the 2013-2015 president of I-4 (the International Association of Indonesian Scientists), which involves more than 500 Indonesian scientists across the globe. Dessy Irawati received a Ph.D in International Business Strategy and Economic Geography from Newcastle University Business School, UK. She was granted the prestigious fellowship-FERSA from Regional Studies Association in 2011. Her MSc postgraduate was Innovation, Creativity, and Entrepreneurship also from Newcastle University. From a disciplinary background in International Business Strategy, Economic Geography, and Regional Studies she explores why some regions have a better economic performance than others and argues that this is because they encourage knowledge creation in the global-local networks more than other regions.

Marjan Jalali is Assistant Professor at the ISCTE Business School of the University Institute of Lisbon, and researcher at the Business Research Unit (BRU-IUL), Portugal. She holds a PhD in Management from the University of Sydney, Australia. She is editorial board member of the Global Business and Economics Review, managing editor of the International Journal of Management Science and Information Technology, and some of her works have been published nationally and internationally. Her research interests include multiple criteria decision analysis, strategic decision making and consumer behavior.
About the Contributors

Su Jing received her PhD degree from Tongji University, China. Now she is an Assistant Professor in School of Business Administration at Shanghai Finance University. Her research interest includes institutional environment in emerging countries, female entrepreneurship, high-growth new ventures and regional differences in entrepreneurship research. Related studies have been published in journals such as Entrepreneurship and Regional Development and International Entrepreneurship and Management Journal.

Glen A. Jones is the Ontario Research Chair in Postsecondary Education Policy and Measurement and Professor of Higher Education at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education of the University of Toronto. His research focuses on higher education policy, systems, governance and academic work.

Kijpokin Kasemsap received his BEng degree in Mechanical Engineering from King Mongkut’s University of Technology Thonburi, his MBA degree from Ramkhamhaeng University, and his DBA degree in Human Resource Management from Suan Sunandha Rajabhat University. He is a Special Lecturer at Faculty of Management Sciences, Suan Sunandha Rajabhat University based in Bangkok, Thailand. He is a Member of International Association of Engineers (IAENG), International Association of Engineers and Scientists (IAEST), International Economics Development and Research Center (IEDRC), International Association of Computer Science and Information Technology (IACSIT), International Foundation for Research and Development (IFRD), and International Innovative Scientific and Research Organization (IISRO). He also serves on the International Advisory Committee (IAC) for International Association of Academicians and Researchers (INAAR). He has numerous original research articles in top international journals, conference proceedings, and book chapters on business management, human resource management, and knowledge management published internationally.

Hans Landström attained his PhD in Industrial Management at Lund Institute of Technology in Sweden. He holds the Chair in Entrepreneurship at Lund University and he is visiting professor at Vienna University of Economics and Business in Austria. He is co-founder of two research centers at Lund University: Sten K. Johnson Centre for Entrepreneurship (SKJCE) and Center for Innovation, Research and Competence in the Learning Economy (CIRCLE). His research interest includes entrepreneurial finance, informal and institutional venture capital, entrepreneurial learning and teaching, and the history of entrepreneurship research. He has published in journals such as Research Policy, Journal of Business Venturing, Entrepreneurship Theory and Practice, Small Business Economics, Entrepreneurship and Regional Development and Journal of Small Business Management.

Changho Lee completed his PhD in the Department of Geography, University at Buffalo-SUNY. His main research interests are innovation dynamics with a specific focus on collaborative network effects of university, industry and government on innovation, technology transfer, and global competitiveness. He is currently working at the Publicis Groupe as an integrated analytics architect and teaching MBA classes as an adjunct professor at the University of La Verne, La Verne, California.
About the Contributors

Rui Pedro Lopes received the MSc degree in Electronics and Telecommunications, and the PhD degree in electrical engineering from the University of Aveiro. He is an associate professor (professor coordenador) at the Polytechnic Institute of Braganca. He is also an external member of the IEETA Research Center and his main research interests focus on distributed systems, operating systems and network management.

Ceyda Maden Eyiusta is an Assistant Professor of Management in Istanbul Kemerburgaz University, Department of International Trade, Turkey. She received her Ph.D. degree in Management from Bogazici University, Turkey. Her research focuses on the different dimensions of person-environment fit, employee proactivity and innovation, high involvement human resource management practices, and women entrepreneurship. She has published in different academic outlets such as International Journal of Human Resource Management, The Service Industries Journal, and Public Organizations Review; and presented her studies at several international conferences such as Academy of Management Annual Meeting and European Academy of Management Annual Conference.

Emerson Wagner Mainardes has a Ph.D. in Management (UBI, Covilhã/Portugal, 2010) and is Associate Professor at FUCAPE Business School, Vitória/ES, Brazil. His academic background includes a Master’s degree in Marketing Management (FURB, Blumenau/SC/Brazil, 2007), specialization in Management, and degree in Electrical Engineering. He is a teacher and researcher in Management and Marketing. He is a research fellow in NECE (Núcleo de Estudos em Ciências Empresariais). He is editor in chief of the Brazilian Business Review.

Anastasia Mariussen (PhD) is an associate professor at Oslo School of Management, where she teaches and researches various aspects of digital marketing in tourism and hospitality. Anastasia’s research interests include digital marketing, services marketing, affiliate networking, mobile marketing, online distribution, performance measurement and employment of ITC and social media in hospitality and tourism businesses.
About the Contributors

Cristina Martínez- Fernandez was appointed Advisor of the Knowledge Sharing Alliance at the Secretary General Office of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) in January 2014. From 2009 to end 2013 Cristina was a Senior Policy Analyst at the OECD Centre for Entrepreneurship, SMEs and Local Development (CFE, the LEED Programme) focusing on projects covering Employment and Skills, Green Growth & Skills, and Southeast Asia. She worked on issues related to the challenges of skills and training systems for SMEs, entrepreneurial and innovation activities; industrial policy, climate change and the transformation of labour markets and the low-carbon economy; and the challenges of demographic change and an ageing society for skills and employment development. Cristina also managed the initiative on Employment and Skills Strategies in Southeast Asia (ESSSA). Before joining the OECD, Cristina was a Professor at the Urban Research Centre, University of Western Sydney (UWS) in Australia where she led the Urban and Regional Dynamics Program, which analysed industry change, urban performance and socio-economic development within the frameworks of innovation, globalisation and the knowledge economy. Previously at UWS Cristina held positions as Senior Research Fellow at AEGIS research centre (specialised in the analysis of industrial policy dynamics) and acted as Deputy Director and Director of AEGIS during extended periods. During this time Cristina was the scientific coordinator of the KISA project lead by the Australian Government with the OECD Directorate for Science, Technology and Industry. Cristina has Australian and Spanish nationalities and has a PhD in Planning and Urban Development from the University of New South Wales, Australia, and a Doctorate in Mental Health from the University of Salamanca, Spain. She has published more than 100 works in peer-reviewed journals, scientific books and OECD policy reports. Cristina is an adjunct Fellow at the Urban Research Center, University of Western Sydney.

Victor Martínez Molés graduated in Business and Economics from the University of Valencia in 2013. He possesses an international background fruits of his studies abroad in the University of Groningen in 2011–2012. He is a Master graduate in Marketing and Market Research from the University of Valencia in 2014. In 2012 he was hired as Research Assistant by the Laboratory for Research in Experimental Economics (LINEEX) at the University of Valencia. Currently he is studying PhD in Marketing and developing his tasks as researcher at LINEEX. His Research topics are focused in consumer behavior, marketing and HHRR.

Vesna Mateska is an independent researcher from Republic of Macedonia. She graduated with an honorary title “The Best Student of the Generation” and took her post-graduate studies at the Faculty of Economics-Skopje, Republic of Macedonia. Her fields of interest are Marketing, Entrepreneurship, Finance and Banking, E-business and other and she is author and coauthor of several different articles and papers in these fields. She is dedicated to continuous learning and research which can be seen by her participation in many conferences and events covering different topics and her continuous work on different projects.
Ieva Meidutė-Kavaliauskienė is Associate Professor and Vice-Dean at the Faculty of Business Management of the Vilnius Gediminas Technical University, Lithuania; and Associate Researcher at the Business Research Unit of the University Institute of Lisbon, Portugal. She holds a PhD in Technological Science from the Vilnius Gediminas Technical University. She has authored peer-reviewed papers and some of her works have been presented and published nationally and internationally. She is editorial board member of several international journals and her research interests include logistics and operations management.

Bruce Mitchell is currently a senior lecturer at Oxford Brookes University. Dr Mitchell has qualifications and research interests in entrepreneurship and innovation. He has extensive lecturing experience having been part of the academic staff at universities in the UK, South Africa and Australia, where he has taught courses at undergraduate, postgraduate and MBA levels. In addition, he has delivered more than 30 papers at conferences both nationally and internationally, and has recently presented 2 papers in Adelaide, Australia. Furthermore, he has had articles accepted for publication in several peer-reviewed academic journals, such as Education and Training; Journal of Small Business and Entrepreneurship; Journal of Entrepreneurship and Entrepreneurship Policy Journal. He has co-authored textbooks on Entrepreneurship and Research Methods with Prentice Hall and Oxford University Press, written a number of chapters in various Management books with various publishers, and regularly reviews textbooks for a range of international publishers.

António C. Moreira obtained a Bachelor’s degree in Electrical Engineering and a Master’s degree in Management, both from the University of Porto, Portugal. He received his PhD in Management from UMIST-University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology, England. He has a solid international background in industry leveraged working for a multinational company in Germany as well as in Portugal. He has also been involved in consultancy projects and in research activities. He is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Economics Management and Industrial Engineering, University of Aveiro, Portugal, where he headed the Bachelor and Master Degrees in Management for five years.

Antonio Navarro-García is Associate Professor in the Department of Business Management and Marketing at the University of Seville, Spain. He received his PhD in Business Administration from University of Seville in Spain. His research interests are: international and industrial marketing, franchising and retailing. His work has been published in journals such as Journal of International Marketing, Journal of World Business, Journal of Business Research, The Service Industries Journal, Management Decision, Journal of Marketing Theory & Practice, Management Research Review, International Entrepreneurship and Management Journal, European Journal of International Management and International Journal of Retail & Distribution Management, among others.
About the Contributors

Tabani Ndlovu is a Fellow of the Institute of Directors (IOD) in the UK, where he also sits on the East Midlands IOD Committee. He holds a PhD in Corporate Governance, an MBA in Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) from the University of Nottingham, a BCom in Marketing, a PGCTHE and is a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy. He lectures in Marketing, Sustainability and Strategy at the Nottingham Business School. Tabani’s core skills cover strategic risk management, corporate governance, strategic sustainability and marketing. He has worked for a number of large international corporations at senior management / director level and is a co-founder and director of a consultancy business providing sustainability strategy advice to SMEs in the UK’s East Midlands region. Realising the power of research in informing business strategy, Tabani embarked on a research career which earned him a PhD in Corporate Governance. He subsequently took an interest in lecturing and has previously worked with various universities in the UK including Oxford Brookes, the University of Reading, the University of Wales among others. Internationally, he holds various visiting professorships at such institutions as Estonian Business School, ESC Dijon among others. Outside academia, Tabani sits on the boards of a number of East Midlands-based organisations and charities. Tabani has researched and published on a number of topical issues related to Corporate Governance, Marketing, Sustainability and internationalisation. His broader research interests span sustainability, responsible business practices, corporate governance as well as internationalisation.

Sara Morgado Nunes completed the master’s degree in Applied Mathematics from the Faculty of Sciences, University of Oporto in 2002 and a PhD in Applied Multivariate Statistics from the University of Salamanca in 2010. She teaches in the areas of Mathematics and Statistics at the Higher Polytechnic Institute of Castelo Branco Management School since 1999. Currently coordinates several studies on the Office of Planning, Evaluation and Quality of the Polytechnic Institute of Castelo Branco. She has been dedicated to various research activities in the field of Applied Statistics and is author of several national and international publications.

Pedro Oliveira graduated in Chemical Engineering from the University of Porto, Portugal, in 1984; in 1988 received a MPhil in Statistics from the University of Minho, Braga, Portugal, and in 1992, a PhD in Applied Mathematics from Strathclyde University, Glasgow, UK. Pedro has been associate Professor at the University of Porto since 2010, formerly at the University of Minho. His main research work is in statistics and in higher education policy. He is currently involved in a project for the evaluation of the economic impact of Polytechnic Institutes in Portugal.

Arminda do Paço is Auxiliary Professor at University of Beira Interior, Portugal. She completed the PhD Programme of Management at University of Beira Interior. She is currently researcher of NECE – Research Unit of Business Sciences as well as Director of the 1st cycle in Marketing. Her areas of interest are entrepreneurship education and environmental marketing (as well as non-profit marketing, public marketing and social marketing). She has published several articles in international journals and chapters in international books. Additionally she participates in consultant projects directed to SME. She has participated in several national and international projects research as is the case of the “Entrepreneurship Curriculum Programme Impact Study” (in Mozambique), funded and promoted by the UNIDO.
Rómulo Pinheiro is Associate Professor in Public Policy and Administration at the University of Agder, where teaches undergraduate and graduate courses in the areas of public policy and leadership as well as organizational theory. He is also a Senior Researcher (part-time) at Agderforskning’s Innovation Group, a Visiting Professor (Higher Education) at the Universities of Tampere (Finland) and Danube University Krems (Austria), Associate Member of the HEIK (Higher Education - Institutional Dynamics and Knowledge Cultures) research group based at the University of Oslo, and a long-time collaborator of HEDDA - an European consortia of research centers in the field of higher education studies.

Jessie P. H. Poon is professor of economic geography at the University at Buffalo, Amherst, New York. She has published numerous articles on foreign direct investment, trade and innovation. Her regional area of expertise is Asia where she has undertaken considerable fieldwork to understand the relationship between firms’ competitive advantage and technological upgrading. She has a forthcoming book on international trade by Routledge and is currently completing research on Islamic finance in Malaysia.

Jonathan Potter is a senior economist in the Centre for Entrepreneurship, SMEs and Local Development of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) and Visiting Professor in the Department of Management, Birkbeck, University of London. The work under his responsibility includes OECD reviews of SME and entrepreneurship policies at country level, a publication series on policies for inclusive entrepreneurship called The Missing Entrepreneurs, the promotion of entrepreneurship education and start-up support in schools and universities, and analytical work on the local dimension of entrepreneurship policies.

Zhai Qinghua is an Assistant Professor in School of Urban and Regional Science at East China Normal University. He received his undergraduate education, masters and PhD at Tongji University, China. Zhai Qinghua’s research focuses on informal entrepreneurship, institutional environment for entrepreneurship, innovation system, and regional differences in entrepreneurship research. His studies have been published in journals such as Entrepreneurship and Regional Development and International Entrepreneurship and Management Journal.

Mário Raposo is Full Professor of Management at the University of Beira Interior, Portugal, and research member of NECE. Is Vice Rector of the University and is the Coordinator of the Technology Transfer Office. Author or co-author of various books, and chapters of books and more than fifty scientific papers, and also coordinates several projects financed by EU funds.

Marcin Relich, PhD, is an Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Economics and Management, Department of Controlling and Computer Applications in Economics, University of Zielona Gora, Poland. His current research interests include various aspects of information systems development and management, enterprise application integration, business process improvement, and knowledge management. His numerous publication activities are also closely connected with business management, including project and innovation management. His previous research interests were connected with decision support systems and early warning systems in enterprises, operations research, and production engineering.
About the Contributors

Peter Robinson is Principal Lecturer and Head of Department for Marketing, Innovation, Leisure and Enterprise at University of Wolverhampton, where he is an award-winning lecturer, with a passion for teaching and a flair for inspiring and motivating students. Prior to entering academia Peter gained experience in the public, private and voluntary sectors within tourism, hospitality and events management, including management roles with The National Trust and Derby University. Peter has also worked as a freelance Tourism and Events Consultant and has gained experience developing businesses in the tourism, events and ICT sectors. Peter has presented his research at international conferences and is widely published in both journals and books, also being the editor of the first higher education level travel industry textbook – Managing Operations in the Travel Industry. He is currently working towards completing his PhD.

Saverio Romeo is Visiting Fellow at the Centre for Innovation Management Research at Birkbeck College. During the past seven years, he has run research in entrepreneurship and regional systems of innovation. He is also Principal Analyst at Beecham Research where he specialised in technology market analysis in the areas of machine to machine technologies and the Internet of Things. His current research interests revolve around high-tech entrepreneurship, sectoral system of innovation and Internet of Things policy.

Ainurul Rosli is a Lecturer at the University of Wolverhampton Business School (UWBS) where she teaches strategy, innovation and entrepreneurship. She is also a Researcher in Residence at the Big Innovation Centre in London where she works on Entrepreneurial CoCreation projects. Her research interest is on the area of strategic management of innovation and IP, inter-organisational relations and knowledge exchange. She has recently secured a research grant from British Academy of Management (BAM) with her colleagues to broaden the evidence base on knowledge transfer partnerships (KTPs) in the social sciences, and also has involved in two EU-funded projects related to the efficiency of the market for intellectual property rights (where she worked as a Research Fellow) and university-company crowdsourcing project (where she currently leads a work package). She has won several competitive awards including a grant by the Malaysian government towards her PhD research; Ronald Coase Institute Fellowship and Dynamics of Institutions and Markets (DIME) Fellowship to name a few.

Roel Rutten (1971) is assistant professor in the School of Social and Behavioural Sciences of Tilburg University, the Netherlands. His research interests focus on the organization of knowledge creation, the geography of knowledge creation and knowledge creation and regional economic development. He is particularly interested in the effect of ‘social dynamics’, such as norms, values and social capital on knowledge creation and regional economic development. Rutten is the founder of the Social Dynamics of Innovation Networks (SDIN) network, which brings together researchers from across Europe. Rutten has co-organized several SDIN workshops in recent years. From 1994 to 2001 Rutten worked as a consultant of regional innovation policy for ERAC (European Regional Affairs Consultants) in the Netherlands. He advised several European regions on their regional innovation policies and continues to be engaged with the business and policy community on matters related to regional innovation.
Domingos Santos has a degree on Environmental Engineering, Master and PhD on Regional Planning. Professor at the Instituto Politécnico de Castelo Branco, since 1986. Currently, Dr. Santos is Coordinator of the Regional Development and Studies Centre of the Instituto Politécnico de Castelo Branco, Portugal, and he is a researcher at the Social Sciences Interdisciplinary Centre of the Universidade Nova de Lisboa. Research areas include innovation, territory, regional innovation systems, and employment. He is author or co-author of several books about different regional development and employment themes in Portugal and of several articles published in Portuguese and International journals.

Arnis Sauka is an assistant professor and director of the Centre for Sustainable Business at the Stockholm School of Economics in Riga (Latvia). At the beginning of 2008 Arnis Sauka earned a PhD in Business Administration (magna cum laude) from the University of Siegen (Germany). Prior to that, Arnis was a visiting PhD candidate at Jönköping International Business School (Sweden) and a teaching fellow at SSEES/University College London (U.K.). His main research interests include productive and unproductive entrepreneurship; business start-ups, growth and exits; entrepreneurship policy making; entrepreneurship in transition context. He has also had extensive practical experience in management and consultancy, including working as Vice rector for studies and research at Ventspils University College, where he also established and led the Centre for Entrepreneurship, Innovation and Regional Studies (2011-2013), a senior consultant for PricewaterhouseCoopers (2008), amongst others.

Asnita Frida Sebayang is lecturer and head of the Centre of Community Empowerment in the Faculty of Economics and Business, Bandung Islamic University, Indonesia. She is a community developer and the founder and current head of the executive board of the Indonesian Footwear Maker Association. She participated in Doctoral programmes of the School of Spatial Planning of the University of Groningen, the Netherlands and the School of Community Planning, University of British Columbia, Vancouver, Canada. She was a 2008 finalist of the Indonesia young scientist paper competition and received a best paper award for the Indonesian Planner Association in 2009. She conducted economic surveys for the Bank Indonesia. Her current research focuses on infrastructure, cluster development and community involvement on spatial planning, poverty reduction and industrial districts and is supported by the Indonesian government. She has published frequently in the National Daily Kompas, West-Java Section.

Liliane Segura is Accounting and Finance Professor at the Center of Applied Social Science of Mackenzie Presbyterian University in São Paulo, Brazil. She received her Master’s Degree in Administration from FEA-USP, Brazil and her PhD in Administration (Finance) from the Mackenzie Presbyterian University, in São Paulo, Brazil and Post-Doctoral Study in Accounting and Finance from the Universidad de Salamanca, Spain. She worked for several companies as an accountant for more than 15 years and works as a researcher and professor in Mackenzie Presbyterian University.

Guilherme de Farias Shiraishi is Professor at School of Economics, Business Administration and Accounting - University of São Paulo. He completed his marketing Ph.D. at FEA-USP. He graduated in Marketing and has Master degree in marketing at the University of São Paulo.
About the Contributors

Lurdes Simao is manager and responsible for Accounting and Financial departments of several Portuguese companies. Preparation of investment projects, constitution of companies and respective monitoring. Forming, in the employment context and educational institutions in the areas of Management / Business Plans / Logistics / IT / Technical Trade. She received his master in Management, with a dissertation on “Sources of information on organizational innovation: Empirical evidence in the Portuguese Companies”, in 2012. Currently, is a PhD student in Management at the University of Beira Interior, specialization in Organizational Innovation.

Kiril Simeonovski is an economist, independent scholar, open knowledge activist, public speaker and author. He holds undergraduate and postgraduate degrees from the Faculty of Economics in Skopje. His fields of interest are diverse and include macroeconomics, financial regulation, corporate governance, strategic planning, entrepreneurship, experimental economics, information economics, online marketing and others. He has also been actively involved in project and event management and has participated in numerous international conferences both as attendee and speaker.

Nils Karl Sørensen is associate professor at the Department of Border Region Studies, University of Southern Denmark Campus Sønderborg. He has a PhD in econometrics and international economics from the University of Aarhus. He has especially published within the fields of convergence and the relations among innovation, technology and economic growth in a regional European perspective. He has also worked with issues such as inter-industry trade and economic development and seasonal issues related to tourism demand. He has also designed lecturer systems for courses in statistics, econometrics, macroeconomics, international economics and regional economics. He has about 70 publications of articles and monographs.

Jana Šujanová assoc. prof. MSc., Ph.D., director of the Institute of Industrial Engineering and Management, Faculty of Materials Science and Technology in Trnava, Slovak University of Technology in Bratislava. From the very beginning she was oriented on the business information systems, where she has experience as a programmer and as a university teacher. She worked as Information and Knowledge management specialist for the RBEC UNDP in Bratislava and later for the Office of Slovak Government. After her return to the Faculty of Materials Science and Technology she acts as associate professor in the area of knowledge management, information management, business information systems and project management. Ms. Šujanová also participated and managed several national and international projects oriented on knowledge management and project management.
Bobek George Suklev has been a Full-Time Professor since 1993. Currently, he teaches Fundamentals of management, Small business management and Corporate governance. He has published 35 text-books and over 130 articles in journals in the USA, Australia, UK, Germany, Croatia, Slovenia, Serbia and Macedonia. He visited over 108 famous Universities around the globe, as a visiting researcher, visiting professor or guest. He was a Dean of the Faculty of Economics-Skopje, 5 mandates in a row i.e. from 1.03.1996 to 14.09.2009. He is a member of International Advisory Board (IAB) to Financial Accounting, a member of International Editorial Board на Economic and Business Review in Ljubljana, Slovenia, a member of the Editorial Board of International Journal Management, Belgrade. He is a Head of the MBA – Management master studies. International Awards and Recognitions: September 2009 - Plaque Recognition for successful managing the Faculty of Economics-Skopje for the period 1.03.1996-14.09.2009 and contribution for development and university affirmation: Ss. Cyril and Methodius University, Skopje; 2006 - The Lifetime of Achievement One Hundred 2005 (absolute foremost biographies), International Biographical Centre, Cambridge, England; 2005 - Diploma for title, Noble Laureate, American Biographical Institute, Inc., North Carolina, USA; December 2005 - Accademico di Classe, Academia Servorum Scientiae, Milano, Italy; May, 2005 - Plaque Contribution for development and university affirmation: Ss. Cyril and Methodius University, Skopje; June, 2005 - Hall of Fame, American Biographical Institute, Inc., North Carolina, USA; March, 2004 - Dean Member Country Ambassador, DEAN/Deans European Academic Network, Brussels, Belgium; May, 2000 - National Award “Goce Delcev” for highest achievement in the science for Republic of Macedonia; October, 2004 - 2000 Outstanding Intellectuals of the 21st Century, International Biographical Centre, Cambridge, England; October 2004 - Diploma, 21st Century Award for Achievement, International Biographical Centre, Cambridge, England.

Serdal Temel earned his Ph.D. from Dokuz Eylul University, Department of Economics. He has been working as a researcher at Ege University Science and Technology Center since 2000 and is responsible for university-industry cooperation, technology transfer, R&D, and innovation projects. Dr. Temel worked as a manager of the Aegean Innovation Relay Centre (IRC-Ege), which was one of the centers within the EU. Currently he is Manager of Ege University Technology Transfer Office and Manager of Enterprise Europe Network-Izmir. Dr. Temel has taken active role over 20 national and EU projects and has more than 25 articles and book chapters on innovation, R&D, university-industry collaboration and entrepreneurship published in the international journals such as Regional Studies, International Journal of Innovation Science, Journal of Technology Management & Innovation, International Journal of Innovation Management and The International Journal of Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

David Urbano is Professor in Entrepreneurship at the Department of Business (Autonomous University of Barcelona, UAB – Spain). His PhD was in Entrepreneurship and Small Business Management (UAB and Växjö University, Sweden) and his research is focused on the conditioning factors of entrepreneurship in different contexts using an institutional approach. He has several scholarly international publications and he is currently participating in various European research projects.
Cevahir Uzkurt earned his Ph.D. from Marmara University, Department of Operation Management and Marketing. He is the Director General of Science and Technology in the Ministry of Science, Industry and Technology of Republic of Turkey since January 2012. He worked as a research assistant Kirikkale University until 2012; as an assistant professor between 2002 and 2009 at Eskişehir Osmangazi University until 2009. He was assigned in 2012 as an Associate Professor to Ankara Yıldırım Beyazıt University. He worked as a visiting professor for one year at the Alliant International University, Marshall Goldsmith School of Management, California USA. Dr. Uzkurt conducted project different national and international projects on R&D, innovation management, innovative organizational culture, marketing-innovation relations. He also has expertise on marketing management, innovative entrepreneurship and consumer behaviors. He has more than 50 articles and books published in national and international academic platforms.

Fazilet Vardar-Sukan is the founding head of Ege University, Faculty of Engineering Department of Bioengineering. She is a chemical engineer with a Ph.D. in biochemical engineering from UCL, UK. She has 35 years of teaching and research experience and has over 100 publications in scale-up, mass and momentum transfer in bioreactors and re-utilization of agro-industrial wastes. She has been involved in sixteen EU supported projects and numerous national projects. She is also the Director of Ege Science and Technology Centre (EBILTEM), which is the TTO of Ege University which is the Coordinating Institute for the Enterprise Europe Network Project EBIC-Ege under the EU-CIP. She has also acted the National Coordinator for two European Patent Office supported projects “Increasing the IPR Awareness in Turkish Universities” and “Pilot Project for Re-structuring Pat-Lib Centres”. Currently she is also a member of the international jury for the EPO Innovation Contest, 2013.

Jose Vila has a master degree in mathematics and a PhD in Economics. He is the Director of LINEEX (Laboratory for experimental economics) of the University of Valencia - where he is also a professor - and scientific director of DevStat. Jose Vila is a researcher in the fields of experimental behavioral economics and statistical methods, with publications in top journals such as Econometrica, Games and Economic Behavior or Journal of Business Research, among others. He develops projects to transfer of knowledge and research results to enhance policy-making and business decision-making. In this area, he usually works for international organizations such as European Commission, United Nations or Secretariat of the Andean Community, as well as for different national governments and private companies.

Peter Wirtz is a finance scholar at University Jean Moulin in Lyon, France. His research specializes on corporate governance and issues of entrepreneurial finance. As one of France’s foremost specialists of organizational governance, he has published several books and numerous articles. He presently serves as the Vice-president of research of his university.
Rustem Baris Yesilay is the head of Ege University Ege Higher Vocational School Civil Aviation Management Program and the academic member of the Aerospace Clustering Association of İzmir. He holds a PhD degree from Dokuz Eylül University, Department of Economics and MSc degree from İstanbul University, Department of Fiscal Economics. He lectures microeconomics and macroeconomics. He has publications on sustainable development of Turkish economy, environmental accounting, Turkey’s structural analysis from the perspective of entrepreneurship and cluster management. He has experience in skills development for technicians and improving overall professionalism in the transport industry, university-industry cooperation, strengthening competition of firms and accreditation of training. In addition Dr. Yesilay is the co-leader of Skills & Innovation Working Group of European Aerospace Cluster Partnership.

Aleksandra Zlatanoska is an economist and young researcher from Republic of Macedonia. Graduated at the Faculty of economics in Skopje, she is awarded for the best diploma work related to the Current Account of Republic of Macedonia. Her interest in macroeconomics was proved with the enrolment in the second cycle of studies on Economic development and international finance. She is an author and co-author in few articles, and takes part in scientific conferences and events. Her out flowing enthusiasm for research in structural chances that affect the economic growth and demographic issues are the focus on her future engagement.