About the Contributors

P.E. Thomas is the Associate Professor and Head of the Department of Communication & Media Studies, Bharathiar University, Coimbatore, India. His academic stint is over two decades and half with specialisation in the realm of Information Society and New Media. He teaches New Media, Journalism, Communication Theories and Advertising at the post graduate level. Besides, twelve research scholars are currently working under his supervision. Prior to embarking upon academics, he has had stretches in the media industry in the fields of reporting, media marketing, copy writing, printing and publishing. He has published over twenty articles in international and national level research journals. Besides, he has contributions of six book chapters in various publications. He is the member of boards of studies in various universities—Madras, Manonmaniam Sundaranar at Tirunelveli, Periyar at Salem, Kerala, and Pondicherry. He is the vice president of the Association of Communication Teachers (ACT), Tamilnadu and Pondicherry.

M. Srijhari is Assistant Professor in the Department of Communication and Media Studies, Bharathiar University, Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, India. He holds a doctoral degree in Journalism and Mass Communication from the Bharathiar University. He has teaching experience at the postgraduate level and handles subjects such as Print production and technologies as well as design elements. He extends his guidance to both M.Phil and Ph.D researchers in the Department. He is actively involved in the making of documentaries and short films on social issues and has undertaken several extension activities in the same. He has several national and international research publications to his credit till date. His specialization is in the area of New Media, Information and Communication Technology and Rural Development.

Sandeep Kaur is the Assistant Professor of the Department of Communication & Media Studies, Bharathiar University, Coimbatore, India. She has completed her Masters in Philosophy in Journalism and Mass Communication from PSG College of Arts and Science, Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, India. Her specialization is in the realm of E-Governance and Media Convergence. She teaches Journalism, Advertising and Research Methods at the post graduate level. She has several national and international research publications to her credit till date.

* * *

[72x211]
About the Contributors

Abdul-Mumin Abdulai holds a Bachelor’s degree in Geography and Resource Development with Sociology from the University of Ghana, Master’s degree in Sociology and Anthropology from the International Islamic University Malaysia and Doctorate degree in Environment and Development from the National University of Malaysia. He specialized in Environmental/Natural resource governance, socio-economic and poverty issues. He taught courses on socio-economic development and environmental governance at the International Islamic University Malaysia for almost 3 years and has conducted research in the same areas at the National University of Malaysia. He is a Visiting Researcher at the Institute for Environment & Development, National University of Malaysia from April 2014 to October 2014, and from February 2015 to July 2015.

Jashim Uddin Ahmed is an Associate Professor and former Chairman at the Department of Management, School of Business, North South University, Bangladesh. He also served as an Associate Director of BBA Program during 2007-2008 and Director during 2012-2013 at North South University. He also associated with InterResearch, Dhaka, Bangladesh. He received his Ph.D. in Management Sciences from The University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology, UK. He has two Master degrees from the University of Northumbria at Newcastle, UK. He has published more than 60 research articles in reputed journals.

Cenk Akbiyik has formerly worked as an IT instructor and is currently working at Erciyes University, Faculty of Education as an assistant professor. He has a PhD degree in educational technology. Dr. Cenk Akbiyik has published many scientific articles in various journals and has attended many scientific organizations. His main research interests are use of information and communication technologies for educational purposes; instruction of information technologies, learning theories; thinking skills instruction; and research methods in educational sciences.

Umesh Arya is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Media Studies, Guru Jambheshwar University of Science & Technology Hisar, Haryana - India. He is a Google certified power searcher and firm believer in the technology enabled learning. He has created 40 online courses on various aspects of media education and research. Dr. Arya has written one book, Newspaper Vocabulary, and contributed to various national and international journals. He has developed 24 indices to measure the coverage of states and union territories’ news in media.

Kinkini Bhadra has completed her Bachelor’s Degree in Mass Communication and Journalism from the University of Calcutta and then Master Degree in Mass Communication and Journalism from the University of Burdwan. Currently she is doing her M.Phil in Cognitive Science at the School of Cognitive Science, Jadavpur University, India.

Jonathan Bishop is an information technology executive, researcher and writer. He founded the Centre for Research into Online Communities and E-Learning Systems in 2005, which is now part of the Crocels Community Media Group. Jonathan’s research and development work generally falls in the area of human-computer interaction. He has over 70 publications in this area, including on Internet trolling, cyber-stalking, gamification, cyberlaw, multimedia forensics, Classroom 2.0 and Digital Teens. In addition to his BSc(Hons) in Multimedia Studies and various postgraduate degrees, including in law, economics and computing, Jonathan has served in local government as a counselor and school governor, and has contested numerous elections. He is also a fellow of numerous learned bodies, including BCS - The Chartered Institute for IT; the Royal Anthropological Institute; the Royal Society of Arts, and the Royal Statistical Society. Jonathan has won prizes for his literary skills and been a finalist in national and local competitions for his environmental, community and equality work, which often form part of action research studies. In his spare time Jonathan enjoys listening to music, swimming and chess.

Teruyuki Bunno is a Professor of Business Management, Faculty of Business Administration, Kinki University, Osaka, Japan. He has completed his doctorate and currently serves as a board member of the Japan Academy of Small Business Studies and the Kansai Association for Venture and Entrepreneur Studies. His current research focuses on the roles of human resources in the process of firm growth. Major areas of specialty include Innovation Theory, Lifecycle of Firms and New Business Creation. Current research focuses on the roles of human resources in the process of firm growth.

Uvasara Dissanayke is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Agricultural Extension, University of Peradeniya, Sri Lanka. She received her M.Phil. from the Peradeniya University in 2010. She is presently reading for her Ph.D. at the University of Colombo, School of Computing. Her main areas of research interest are ICTs in agricultural education, computer based learning and mobile learning.

Erkan Erdil studied Political Science and Public Administration at Middle East Technical University (METU) in Ankara. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1990. In 1990, he started studying Economics at the same university. He received Master of Science degree in 1994. He further received Ph.D. in 2001 from University of Maastricht. He was appointed as instructor in 1997 and as the vice-chairman of the Department of Economics at METU. He was then appointed as an associate professor in 2005 and a professor in 2011. He is also been the director of the Science and Technology Policy Research Center (METU-TEKPOL) since 2002. He has served as a National Delegate for the 7th Framework Programme, Research Potential and Regions of Knowledge between 2007 and 2013. He teaches introductory economics, microeconomics, statistics, econometrics, and technology and work organization courses. His main areas of interest are labor economics, economics of technology, applied econometrics, economics of information and uncertainty. He worked in research projects of national and international organizations. He has been author/co-author, and referee of articles in American Economic Review, Applied Economics, Applied Economics Letters, Agricultural Economics, METU Studies in Development and presented papers to various international conferences.

Derya Findik is a researcher affiliated with the Department of Management Information Systems at Yıldırım Beyazıt University, Turkey. She holds a BA degree in public finance, MA degree and Ph.D. in science and technology policy studies from the Middle East Technical University, Turkey. She has worked on issues relating to the adoption and diffusion of information technologies in Turkey. Her main research interests are innovation management, technological entrepreneurship, and the role of intangible assets in the economy. She has published articles in journals and working papers.
About the Contributors

P. Govindaraju is the Professor and Head of the Department of Communication, Manonmaniam Sundaranar University, Tirunelveli, and Tamilnadu, India. He has academic experience of 30 years of teaching, research and administration under different academic designations. He was the visiting research scholar at the centre for mass communication research, Leicester, England and served in Malaysia for three years. He was one of the lead researchers in conducting nation-wide experimental studies in gauging the effects of the Country-wide Classroom program. His research area includes development communication and he is the coordinator of UGC-SAP phase I and II projects. Produced several Ph.D candidates and also guiding scholars on areas relating to development communication. He is a member of several academic associations like International Association for Media and Communication Research (IAMCR) and Association of Communication Teachers – Tamilnadu and Pondicherry.

Huseyin Guler is mainly focused on the development of policy tools for an innovation-oriented entrepreneurial ecosystem including triggering innovation and entrepreneurship in universities and boosting R&D intensive start-ups. Currently, he acts as Director for Strategy and Business Development at Kastamonu Integrated Wood Industry and part-time lecturer at Bahçeşehir University. As Head of STI Policy Department at TÜBİTAK, Dr. Guler coordinated several studies to identify priority research topics in strategic sectors like automotive, ICT, energy and food between 2009- 2013. He developed a model to monitor and assess the progress of different actors of the innovation ecosystem including public funded research centers. He also led the preparatory phase of the National Science Technology and Innovation Strategy from 2011 to 2016. He served as the National Coordinator of Turkey for EU Framework Programmes (2006-2009) at TÜBİTAK; coordinated the mapping studies of Turkish research potential in ICT, production technologies, nanotechnology and material sciences; and developed strategies to link Turkish research diaspora and the national landscape. He graduated from Marmara University, in the Department of Industrial Engineering and holds MBA degree from Uludağ University. In September 2013, he completed his PhD degree at Middle East Technical University with dissertation on international R&D collaboration dynamics in ICT specifically on local buzz/global pipeline dichotomy.

Shuaib Mohamed Haneef is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Electronic Media and Mass Communication at Pondicherry University, India. His PhD on intertextual and interactive experiences in hypertext analyses how readers/users construct narratives through multimodal texts. His research interests include digital media studies; interactivity and agency; game studies; and affect and interfaces in digital technologies. He was the recipient of the Asia Culture Fellow during September to December 2006 in Chonnam National University, Republic of Korea.

Hiroki Idota is a Professor of Management Information System, Faculty of Economics, Kinki University, Osaka, Japan. He has completed his Ph.D., CISA (Certificated Information System Auditor). Additionally, he serves as a Board Members for the Japan Society for Information and Management; and the Nippon Urban Management and Local Government Research Association. He received his B.A. in Economics from Kwansei Gakuin University; his M.A. in Informatics from Kansai University; and his Ph.D. in Economics from Osaka University. His major areas of specialty include Management Information Systems and Management of Technology. His current research focuses on innovation using ICT. He is also the recipient of the Telecom Social Science Encouragement Award from the Telecommunications Advancement Foundation in March 2005 for his remarkable research contribution.
Kevin Allan Johnston is an Associate Professor and current Head of the Department of Information Systems at the University of Cape Town. He has worked for 24 years for companies such as De Beers, Liberty Life, Legal & General and BoE. Kevin’s main areas of research are ICT Strategic Management, IS educational issues, IS-related social issues and Open Source Software.

Salah Kabanda is a senior Lecturer in the Department of Information Systems at the University of Cape Town.

Ibrahim Komoo is Vice Chancellor of Universiti Malaysia Terengganu (UMT). Professor Dato’ Dr. Ibrahim Komoo was the Director of Southeast Asia Disaster Prevention Research Institute (SEADPRI). Prior to his appointment, he was the Deputy Vice Chancellor (Research and Innovation) at Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia. His research specialisations include Engineering Geology, Earth Heritage Conservation and Sustainability Science and Governance. He currently sits on the National Heritage Council, MARDI Science Council, Advisory Council of the Langkawi Geopark, Chair of the National Geological Heritage Registration Committee, Chair of both the Sustainable Development and Biodiversity Task Force and Natural Hazards Committee at the Academy of Sciences Malaysia. Through his work on the conservation of geological resources, he serves as the Chairman of the Geological Heritage of Malaysia and sits as an expert in the Expert Group of the Global Network of National Geoparks and Geoparks Bureau, part of the International Advisory Group of Experts on UNESCO Geoparks.

Uma Kumar is a Full Professor of Management Science and Technology Management and is the Director of the Research Centre for Technology Management at Carleton University. She has published over 140 papers in journals and refereed proceedings. Ten papers have won best paper awards at prestigious conferences. She has also won the Carleton’s prestigious Research Achievement Award, and twice, the Scholarly Achievement Award. Recently, she won the teaching excellence award at the Carleton University. She has been the Director of Sprott School’s Graduate Programs. She has consulted DND, CIDA, the Federal partners of technology transfer, and the Canadian association of business incubators. Uma has taught in executive MBA programs in Hong Kong and in Sprott MBA in Ottawa, Iran, and China. Over last twenty years, she has supervised more than 70 MBA, MMS and EMBA student’s projects. She has also given invited lectures to academics and professionals in Brazil, China, Cuba and India.

Vinod Kumar is a Professor of Technology and Operations Management of the Sprott School of Business (Director of School, 1995–2005), Carleton University. He received his graduate education from the University of California, Berkeley and the University of Manitoba. Vinod is a well known expert sought in the field of technology and operations management and has published over 150 papers in refereed journals and proceedings. He has won several Best Paper Awards in prestigious conferences, such as the Scholarly Achievement Award of Carleton University for the academic years 1985–1986 and 1987–1988, and Research Achievement Award for the year 1993 and 2001. Vinod has given invited lectures to professional and academic organizations Australia, Brazil, China, Iran, and India among others.
About the Contributors

Okanlade Adesokan Lawal-Adebowale lectures in the Department of Agricultural Extension and Rural Development, Federal University of Agriculture, Abeokuta, Ogun State, Nigeria. He holds a PhD degree in Agricultural Communication with bias for Information and Communication Technology (ICT) usage in Agriculture and Innovation communication. Arising from his research activities, the author has about 40 publications to his credit, in both local and international journals, as well as the proceedings of Learned Societies/Associations and chapters in books. He is a member of various Learned Associations such as: the Agricultural Extension Society of Nigeria (AESON); the Agricultural Society of Nigeria (ASN); the Farm Management Association of Nigeria (FAMAN); the Nigerian Rural Sociological Association (NRSA) and the African Society for Information and Communication Technologies (ASICT).

M. Maani Mabel is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Electronic Media, at the St. Thomas College of Arts & Science, Chennai. She was chosen as a project fellow under the UGC special assistance programme. She has conducted field studies among the rural ICT initiatives in Tamil Nadu during her doctoral tenure. She has published articles on ICT and Community Development. She had also anchored numerous events during her tenure as a research scholar exhibiting her quality as an effective team player. She has been taking responsibilities in positions for coordinating and organising seminars and department programmes, research and mass contact programmes in villages.

Orance Mahaldar is a doctoral candidate at Research Centre S:PAM – Studies in Performing Arts & Media, Ghent University, Belgium. He has completed Bachelor Degree in Philosophy (Honours) and then a Master Degree in Film Studies from Jadavpur University. He is interested in Communication and Media Studies, Cultural Studies and ICT.

Charru Malhotra is presently Associate Professor (e-Governance and ICT) at Indian Institute of Public Administration (IIPA), New Delhi, India. She completed her Ph.D. from IIT-Delhi in the field of ‘e-Governance for Rural Development’. [Thesis Title: Design of Citizen-Centric e-Governance Approach: A Study of Select ICT based Rural Initiatives]. She is also a National e-Governance and Short term MIS/GIS consultant to several UN bodies (The World Bank, Winrock International, Asian Development Bank-ADB), as well as an accredited ‘Trainer of Trainers’ (Thames Valley University, U.K.) and a Recognised Trainer for the Government of India (GoI). With more than 20 research publications, (including Best Paper Award as Innovative Approaches for e-Governance in International Conference on E-Governance, Award committee ICEG-2012, Deakin University, Australia for her study titled ‘A Validated Citizen-Centric Approach using Delphi Technique for Converging Indigenous Knowledge Systems using ICT’ and almost 25 years of experience in teaching, training, software development and research in the field of Information Technology (IT), her current areas of interest include Design, Development, Monitoring, Evaluation and Capacity building for e-Governance Initiatives for Smart-Cities and sustainable rural development; ICT4D and Citizen-centricity; Study of Internet Technologies and its impact on the Society (e.g. Social Media-Transparency in Governance/ Gender-crimes, Cyber Security) and Development Research.

Amir Manzoor holds a bachelor’s degree in Engineering from NED University, Karachi, an MBA from Lahore University of Management Sciences (LUMS), and an MBA from Bangor University, United Kingdom. He has many years of diverse professional and teaching experience working at many renowned national and internal organizations and higher education institutions. His research interests include electronic commerce and technology applications in business. He is a member of Chartered Banker Institute of UK and Project Management Institute, USA.
Alka Misra is presently working as Senior Technical Director at National Informatics Centre, Government of India. Her major areas of responsibility include the WWW Services at the National Level, Head of National Portal of India, Indian Open Data Initiative and MyGov (Citizen Engagement Platform). She has over 25 years of experience in the field of Information Technology. She has worked on various assignments during her career from Software Development, Software Engineering to Web Portal and Internet Technologies. She has also authored a number of articles in National and International Journals. She has also reviewed the Guidelines for Indian Government Websites, which has been adopted by the Govt. of India.

D.P. Misra is working as Principal Systems Analyst at National Informatics Centre, Government of India. In his present assignment, he is working as the Project Leader of the MyGov Platform, an Initiative of Hon’ble Prime Minister of India, the Open Government Data Platform of Govt. of India as well as a Few Apex Office Web Platforms. He has over 25 years of experience in the field of Information and Communication Technologies. He has worked on various assignments during his career right from Software Design, Development, Training, Implementation and management of large scale projects as well as Content Management Frameworks. His areas of interest are Social Inclusion, e-Participation and e-Governance domains.

Mazlin Bin Mohktar is a Professor of Environmental Chemistry at Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia (UKM) where he has been with the UKM since 1985 as a Tutor. Prior to that he was at the UKM Sabah Campus as a lecturer since 1988 and was later promoted to Associate Professor in 1995 at the Faculty of Science and Natural Resources. He is currently a Principal Fellow (since 1999) as well as Director of the Institute for Environment and Development (LESTARI), UKM, since August 2005. Professor Mazlin received his BSc in Chemistry from the University of Tasmania, Australia, in 1984 and his PhD (Analytical and Environmental Chemistry) from The University of Queensland, Australia, in 1988. He is also a Member of the UKM Senate; Fellow of The Malaysian Institute of Chemistry (FMIC); Life Member & Former Secretary (1995-2005) of the Malaysian Society of Analytical Sciences (ANALIS); Life Member, & former Executive Committee (2005-2009) of the Malaysian Water Partnership (MyWP) that is linked to the Global Water Partnership (GWP), Sweden; Former Country Manager (2005-2008) of MyCapNet (Malaysian Capacity Building for Integrated Water Resources Management, IWRM) that is linked to International Cap Net headquartered in Pretoria-South Africa (prior in IHE Delft, Holland); and Chairman of the Langat River Basin Research Group affiliated with UNESCO-HELP network, based in Paris involving more than 90 river basins from more than 65 countries.

Zoltan Nagymate is currently teaching as a faculty member of Economics, at the University of Miskolc in Hungary. He is also a PhD student at the Enterprise Theory and Practice, Doctoral School at the same university. He received his MSc degree in Logistics Management with an excellent qualification at the University of Miskolc in 2013. As part of the Erasmus programme, he spent two semesters at Poznan University of Economics in Poland and Pushkin State Russian Language Institute in Moscow, Russia. His main field of research is the effects of using cloud computing applications on the economy. Exploring his subject, he has conducted research both in Russia and in Kazakhstan while he was working there as a process engineer in 2014.
About the Contributors

Bane Nogemane, completed his post graduate degree in the Department of Information Systems at the University of Cape Town in 2013. Bane is currently a Calypso Technical Analyst at the Standard Bank Group in Johannesburg.

Sanghita Roy is a BCA, MBA and M.Phil in Information and Technology Management. She has also held the position of Assistant Professor in Institute of Business Management & Research and Head of the Department of IT. She is completing her research work on the risk and security aspect of Information Technology. Using her abilities she provides research guidance, counseling and teaching to MBA students. As visiting faculty, she has to her credit a rich experience of teaching and research guidance for students of postgraduate management courses in several management Institute affiliated with West Bengal University of Technology. Her research based articles, case studies, book review etc. are published in journals of high repute. She is the author of two books on Management Information System. She has practice of organizing seminars and workshops in advanced technology management for various colleges of West Bengal.

Peter Sasvari is an Associate Professor (2009) of the Institute of Business Science, Faculty of Economics, at the University of Miskolc, Hungary. He defended his doctoral thesis with the best receivable mark, ‘summa cum-laude’ for his dissertation titled ‘The Development of Information and Communication Technology: An Empirical Study’. He is currently supervising 3 Ph.D. students’ theses and has supervised more than 150 Bachelor’s and Master’s theses. He is a member of the public body at the Hungarian Academy of Sciences. He is the author of more than 30 international publications and serves as the Associate Editor for 3 international journals. Recently, the analysis of business information systems has been the focus of his research. With the co-operation of some local universities, he has conducted primary research among small and medium-sized enterprises in Austria, Bosnia-Herzegovina, the Czech Republic, Croatia, Poland, Portugal, Hungary, Germany, Italy, Spain and Slovakia.

Elmira Shamshiry has graduated with a Bachelor’s degree in Natural Resource Engineering - Environment from the Shahid Chamran University, Iran. She obtained a Master of Environmental Science degree from Universiti Putra, Malaysia (UPM) in 2009, and a PhD in Environment & Development in 2013 from Universiti Kebangsaan, Malaysia (UKM). She has completed her post-doctoral research at Universiti Kebangsaan, Malaysia (UKM) in 2014, and is presently engaged at the Research Management Center of Universiti Terengganu, Malaysia (UMT) as a research fellow.

Mahmud Akhter Shareef is an Associate Professor of school of business, North South University, Bangladesh. He was a visiting faculty in DeGroote School of Business, McMaster University, Canada during his post doctorate research. He has done his PhD in Business Administration from Sprott School of Business, Carleton University, Canada. He received his graduate degree from both the Institute of Business Administration, University of Dhaka, Bangladesh in Business Administration and Carleton University, Ottawa, Canada in Civil Engineering. His research interest is focused on online consumer behavior and virtual organizational reformation. He has published more than 60 papers addressing consumers’ adoption behavior and quality issues of e-commerce and e-government in different refereed conference proceedings and international journals. He was the recipient of more than 10 academic awards including 3 Best Research Paper Awards in the UK and Canada.
Aysit Tansel is a professor of Economics at the Middle East Technical University, Ankara. She received her BS from Middle East Technical University with high honors, her MA from University of Minnesota and her Ph.D. from State University of New York. She was a Fulbright Fellow at the Cornell University during 2011-2012. She was a research fellow at the Yale University during 1990-1993. She is also a research fellow of the Economic Research Forum (ERF) in Cairo. Her main area of interest is labor economics with a focus on economics of education, empirical models of economic growth with emphasis on health and education and educational inequalities and gender gap in education and economic growth, returns to education, private tutoring, economics of gender, labor force participation and unemployment.

Masatsugu Tsuji is a Professor of Economics, Graduate School of Applied Informatics, University of Hyogo, and Professor Emeritus of Osaka University. He has received a B.A. from Kyoto University in 1965; an M.A. from Osaka University in 1967; and a Ph.D. in Economics from Stanford University in 1976. His serves include visiting professors of Carnegie Mellon University, US and National Cheng Kung University, Taiwan; Board of Director, International Telecommunications Society and CPRsouth; Editorial Board, Journal of International Society of Telemedicine and eHealth, and Smart Homecare Technology and TeleHealth; Coordinator of e-Health Economics, International Society for Telemedicine and e-Health. Current research focuses on identifying factors promoting innovation in Japan and ASEAN economies, in particular the role of ICT in the innovation process.

H.V.A. Wickramasuriya, B.Sc. (Agric.), M.Ed. (Penn State), Ph.D. (Penn State), is the Head of the Department of Agricultural Extension, Faculty of Agriculture, University of Peradeniya, and the past Chairman, Board of Study in Agricultural Extension, Postgraduate Institute of Agriculture, University of Peradeniya. He teaches Management Information Systems to MBA and Organizational Management students, and has also developed a number of computer based learning material and information systems.

Pádraig Wims is Senior Lecturer in Rural Development at University College Dublin, Ireland. His main academic interest is rural development and agricultural extension and his main research interests include researching the contribution of ICT to rural development and agricultural education and the application of ICT to rural communities. Prior to joining University College Dublin, Dr Wims worked in the Information Section of the Irish public agricultural extension service, on the development of a videotex service for Irish farmers.