About the Contributors

Joseph Wilson lectures at the Department of Mass Communication. He is a member of the Faculty of Social Sciences, Board of Examiners, University of Maiduguri, Nigeria. His Teaching and research interest is in Information and Communication Technology/New Media and Journalism. He holds a Ph.D in Mass Communication.

Nuhu Diraso Gapsiso, PhD, is a lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication, University of Maiduguri, Nigeria. His teaching and research interest is in the field of Health Communication, Public Relations, Print Media, New Media and Journalism. He is a member of African Council for Communication Education. He is a member of Faculty of Social Sciences, Board of Examiners, and University of Maiduguri, Nigeria. He has served as resource person and facilitator in several workshops in Nigeria. He Holds a PhD in Mass Communication.

***

Abdulmutallib Ado Abubakar is a lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication, at the University of Maiduguri in North-Eastern Nigeria. His area of research interests are political communication, social media, media and religion, print journalism, audience reception, communication theory and Cinematography analysis.

Mohammed Alhaji Adamu received his BA in Mass Communication from University of Maiduguri in 2007. In 2013, he was offered employment as Graduate Assistant in Department of Mass Communication of the university. Between 2000 and 2009, he worked as a career radio journalist in Yobe Broadcasting Corporation (YBC) Damaturu and later joined Nigerian Television Authority (NTA) Damaturu as journalist from 2009 until 2013. In 2015, he got admission to the University of Nicosia, Cyprus, to study Digital Communications at a Master level. From 2002 to 2008, he served as a research assistant in the Yobe Language Research Project and co-authored Ngizim-Hausa-English language dictionaries (1st and 2nd Editions), edited by Russell G. Schuh in the same period. He is married and blessed with children.

Abdulhameed Kayode Agboola (Phd) is currently a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Information and Media Technology, in the School of Information and Communication Technology, at the Federal University of Technology, Minna, Niger State, Nigeria. His research area of interest includes mass communication, media studies and instructional technology.

George Anderson, Jr. is a Senior Research Assistant in the area of the study of Ethics and Society in the Department of Religion and Human Values in the University of Cape Coast- Ghana. His research interests are in the area of Philosophy of Religion, Akan Ethics, Humanistic Ethics, Logic, and Penteco-Charismatic Studies.

Harrison Bii, BSc, MPhil, PhD is a Senior Lecturer & Dean School of Information Sciences and Knowledge Management.

Njideka Victoria Enwereuzo received her B.Sc. and M.Sc. in Political Science from the University of Nigeria, Nsukka. She majors in Comparative Politics and lectures in the Political Science Department of Madonna University, Nigeria for the last decade. She is also currently a Ph.D. student.

Nkiru Comfort Ezeh lectures in the Department of Mass Communication of Madonna University, Nigeria. She holds a B.A. degree in Mass Communication from the University of Nigeria, Nsukka, and a M.Sc. and a Ph.D. degree in Mass Communication from Nnamdi Azikiwe University, Awka, Nigeria. Dr Nkiru attends local and international academic conferences, presents, and publishes widely, especially in the areas of New Media and Political Communication.

Tamara Amoroso Gonçalves is a PhD student at the Law and Society Graduate Program of the University of Victoria. Lawyer graduated at São Paulo Pontifical Catholic University, with a Masters in Human Rights, São Paulo University. Member of the Latin American and Caribbean Committee for the Defense of Women’s Rights. Associate Researcher at the Simone de Beauvoir Institute, Concordia University, Canada.
About the Contributors

Ödül Gürsimsek, PhD has received her bachelor and graduate degrees in industrial design, and subsequently developed an academic interest in digital culture. She completed her PhD research on Transmedia Television and Audience Practices at the University of Southern Denmark. Her research is focused on television audiences, digital content creation and online participation in digital communities.

Jessica Gustafsson has a PhD in Media Studies from department of Media Studies at Stockholm University. Her PhD thesis explored the role of community media in promoting social change in informal settlement in Nairobi, Kenya. Presently she is pursuing her Post doc in the Nordic-Kenyan research project “Critical Perspectives on New Media and Social Change in the Global South” at Aarhus University, department of Media Studies and Journalism.

Xiao Han is a PhD candidate from the Communication and Media Research Institute (CAMRI), University of Westminster, London, UK. She is also the research fellow, Institute of Internet Information, Communication University of China. She is a Commissioning Editor of Global Media and China, SAGE. Her research interests include women’s rights and gender equality; the Internet and communication media studies; theories of media, communication and culture; and organisational (communication) studies.

Adamkolo Mohammed Ibrahim received his Master of Science degree in Development Communication from Department of Communication, Faculty of Modern Languages and Communication, Universiti Putra Malaysia in 2015. He received his BA in Mass Communication from University of Maiduguri in 2007. In 2010, he was offered employment as Graduate Assistant at Department of Mass Communication of the university. Between 2000 and 2010, he worked as a career radio broadcaster in Yobe Broadcasting Corporation (YBC) Damaturu and Pride FM Damaturu, Yobe State, Nigeria. He conducts research in the fields of information and communication technology for development (ICT4D) and writes on issues of ICT in socio-economic development, ICT in learning (e-learning), social media, and is the author of Critical Purviews Where ICT can Promote Sustainable Development in Nigeria (2014, GMJ-ME) and some other articles. He is married and blessed with children.

Nuno Amaral Jerónimo graduated in Sociology in 1994 and completed his PhD, on Humour and Comedy as Cultural Discourse, in 2015. He joined the Department of Sociology at the University of Beira Interior in 1998, where he currently teaches Sociology of Culture, Sociology of Daily Life, and Creative Writing. His research interests are in Culture, Communication and Daily Life.
Rahila Jibrin is lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication and member of the Faculty of Social Sciences, Board of Examiners, and University of Maiduguri, Nigeria. Her teaching and research interest is in Public Relations, Advertising, Development Communication and Journalism.

Benjamin Kwofie is a Ph.D Fellow at Aalborg University Copenhagen and a lecturer at Koforidua Polytechnic, Ghana. His area of research is in the implementation of Information Systems. His area of specialization is E-learning.

Aisha Kolo Lawan is a lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication and member of the Faculty of Social Sciences, Board of Examiners, University of Maiduguri, Nigeria. Her teaching and research interests are in Public Relations, New Media and Journalism.

Poul Erik Nielsen, PhD, is an associate professor in the Department of Media Studies and Journalism, Aarhus University, Denmark. He has done extensive research on media and democratization and social change processes in transitional countries in Asia, and Eastern and Central Europe. He is currently working on the Nordic-Kenyan research project “Critical Perspectives on New Media and Social Change in the Global South.”

Catarina Sales Oliveira is graduated in Sociology of Work and Organizations (1997) and has a Master’s in the same area of expertise (2005). She completed her PhD in Sociology in 2011. She teaches in the Department of Sociology at the University of Beira Interior since 2008 and is a researcher at CIES-IUL. Her research interests are Gender, Mobility and Work and Organizations.

Sam Phiri, D.Litt et. Phil, MA, BA; Lecturer in Journalism and Mass Communication, University of Zambia, Lusaka, Zambia. His research interests are centred on critical media analysis.

Daniela Rosendo is a Doctoral student and Master in Philosophy, from the Federal University of Santa Catarina (UFSC), graduated in Law School from UNIVILLE. Professor at the Faculty Guilherme Guimbala (FGG). Member of the Latin American and Caribbean Committee for the Defense of Women’s Rights - CLADEM/Brazil.

Monica Wanjira Rukwaro, PhD, MLIs, Bed. Lecturer School of Information Sciences and Knowledge Management.
About the Contributors

Fauziatu Salifu-Sidii is a Ph.D Fellow at Aalborg University Copenhagen. She is also a staff of the National Information Technology Agency. She is also an ICT consultant. She was involved in the implementation of the e-Ghana project. She has also been involved in the facilitation of ICT gender digital divide initiatives in Ghana.

Idongesit Williams (Ph.D) is a Lector at CMI, Department of Electronic Systems, Aalborg University. His area of research is in ICT for development. He has published books and academic papers in different areas of ICT Infrastructure development, ICT service adoption and the impact of ICT services in mostly developing country economies.