About the Contributors

Gbenga Emmanuel Afolayan is currently a doctoral candidate at Murdoch University, Australia. He holds two master’s degrees in development studies and public policy and management from the International Institute of Social Studies of Erasmus University Rotterdam (Netherlands) and University of York (United Kingdom) respectively. His research focuses on education and international development, social inequalities, public policies and development administration, widowhood and women’s studies, feminist economics, human rights and social justice.

Akeem Akinwale is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Industrial Relations and Personnel Management, University of Lagos, Nigeria. His research interests include industrial sociology and development studies. He is an active member of various professional associations including the International Sociological Association, the Global Development Network, and the Nigerian Young Academy. Dr Akinwale is a Laureate of the Council for the Development of Social Science Research in Africa.

* * *

Olabanji Akinola is a Ph.D. Candidate in the Department of Political Science at the University of Guelph, Canada. He holds a Master of Arts (M.A) in International Studies with specialization in Political Science from the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva, Switzerland, and another M.A. in Political Science (International Development Studies) from the University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada. His research interests revolve around issues of multiculturalism, African politics and socioeconomic development.

Johnson Oluwole Ayodele is a lecturer and faculty member, Department of Sociology, Lagos State University. A specialist in Criminology, Victimology, Social Problems, Sociology of Education and Sociology of Mass Communication, with particular interest in victims’ crime reporting to the police. He has done extensive work in Lagos, some in Ogun, Oyo and Osun states of Nigeria. His work has focused on social responses to victimization, police attitudes to victims, women as victims of widowhood, subsidy withdrawal injustice and marital rape. Ayodele has some of his works published in both local and reputable and scholarly international journals.
About the Contributors

Suzanne Beaumaster is the Chair of the Doctoral Program in Public Administration (DPA) and Professor of Public Administration at the University of La Verne in Southern California. Dr. Beaumaster received her graduate degrees from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University (Ph.D.) and Northern Kentucky University (M.P.A.). She is a specialist in the area of Information Technology Management in Public Organizations. Dr. Beaumaster has published articles in the area of Information Technology and Government, most recently a book chapter entitled, e-Participation Models. Dr. Beaumaster’s primary research areas are: institutionalization of social justice and diversity, organizational theory and behavior, and information technology management. In addition to curriculum and online learning development, she has also developed civic networks and computer training workshops for rural communities.

Dipak Kumar Bhattacharyya is Ph.D. in Management from University of Calcutta. He has served in industry in Training and Organizational Development function for about 15 years. Thereafter for last two decades he has worked with several Management Institutes in India. Presently he is working as Professor of Xavier Institute of Management, Bhubaneswar, India. Prof. Bhattacharyya has extensive consultancy experience in HR, Quality Management, and Organizational Development and Restructuring areas. He has published 25 Books on HR management areas with Oxford, Pearson, PHI, Sage, etc., and has contributed more than 100 papers and book chapters (including IGI Global) in various journals of international repute. His primary area of research interest is on Organizational Change and Development.

Guillermo Calleja Leal has his Ph.D. in Geography and History, Complutense University of Madrid, Spain. Ph.D. in Contemporary History, Phoenix International University, UK. Full-time Professor of History and EU Culture at Nebrija University, Spain. Member of Royal Academy of History. Member of the Spanish Commission of Military History (CEHISMI-CESEDEN), Spain. Member of the Advisory Council of the Historial and Cultural Service (SHYCEA), Ministry of Defense, Spain. Member of the Cultural and Historical Maritime Institute “Luiz I de Portugal”, Lisbon, Portugal.

Raghubir Singh Chauhan is First Class MBA (Central University of Rajsthan) and UGC-NET in Management. He is currently pursuing PhD in Management at National Law University, Jodhpur.
About the Contributors

Rituparna Das is Associate Professor and the Executive Director of the Centre of Risk Management and Derivatives and Associate Professor at National Law University Jodhpur, India. His PhD on Econometrics is preceded by dual Masters in Economics and Management. His prior academic associations include Centre for Studies in Banking and Finance (established by the Reserve Bank of India) at National Law University Jodhpur, National Institute of Bank Management (established by the Reserve Bank of India) in Pune, National University of Juridical Sciences in Kolkata and Indian Institute of Social Welfare and Business Management in Kolkata. His areas of preference and international publications include Strategies, Bank Risk Management, Financial Economics and Policy Research. He is Life Member of the Indian Statistical Institute and the Indian Econometric Society. He received the Honours of being ‘Financial Economics and Risk Educator and Author’ from Marquis Who’s Who and ‘One of the IBC’s Leading Educators of the World’ from International Biographical Centre.

Ana Martins lecturer in Leadership and Human Resource Management, Zirve University, Department of Business Administration, Faculty of Economics and Administration Sciences, Gaziantep, Turkey.

Isabel Martins is an Associate Professor in Organizational Behaviour at the Harold Pupkewitz Graduate School of Business, Namibia University of Science and Technology, Namibia.

Mopelolade Ogunbowale is a doctoral student at the Department of Transnational Studies, State University of New York Buffalo where she also teaches a course on African history. Her research interests are in urban history, multiculturalism and black aesthetics.

Abayomi Olusegun Ogunsanwo obtained a Bachelor of Science degree in business administration from Obalisi Onabanjo University Ago-Iwoye in 1997 and a master degree in personnel psychology in 2014 from university of Ibadan. He is a member of the Nigerian institute of management, certified board of administrator of Nigeria and Institute of Corporate Administrator in Nigeria. He started his working career at the Federal polytechnic Ilaro in 1998 as Administrative Officer and has worked in different capacities of note in the registry department of the institution. He is currently the principal assistant Registrar (Academic Board Matters) of the Federal Polytechnic Ilaro, Nigeria.
About the Contributors

Orlando Pereira is an Assistant Professor in Economics, University of Minho, School of Economics and Management, Department of Economics, Campus de Gualtar, Braga, Portugal.

José Manuel Saiz-Alvarez has his Ph.D. in Economics & Business Administration, Autonomous University of Madrid (Spain). Ph.D. in Sociology, Pontifical University of Salamanca (Spain). He has also studied at the Royal Complutense College at Harvard, and University of South Florida, University Lumières-Lyon II (France), and Tallinn University (Estonia). Academic Director for Business Administration Doctoral Studies, Nebrija University (Spain). Visiting Professor at TEC de Monterrey (Mexico), EAN University (Colombia), and the Catholic University of Santiago de Guayaquil (Ecuador). Honorary Professor, Autonomous University of Madrid (Spain). President of FIEC Institute. Member of the Latin-American Family Business Net. Co-founder of the International Center of Research on Solidarity Economy. Certificate of Recognition, Capitol House of Representatives of Puerto Rico. Diploma of Honor, Valahia University of Targoviste (Romania). Member of the Scientific Research Council, Kielce University (Poland). Member of the Editorial Board and referee of numerous national and international journals. Who’s Who in the World, from the 2011 Edition. He has given more than one hundred lectures in Europe and America, and is author of more than a two hundred publications in his specialty. To date he has supervised 70 doctoral theses from students from Argentina, Colombia, Ecuador, Guatemala, Italy, Mexico, Peru, Spain, USA, and Venezuela.

Linda-Marie Sundstrom is an Assistant Professor at California Lutheran University and teaches in the Masters of Public Policy and Administration Program. She specializes in public policy, theory, and nonprofit organizations. She was a Fulbright Scholar who taught graduate and doctorate courses in eastern Ukraine. She has an undergraduate degree in International Business and Marketing, a Masters degree in Public Administration, and a Doctorate in Public Administration with an emphasis in nonprofit organizations. Prior to entering academia, she worked for more than a decade as a Senior Analyst in the Executive Office for one of the largest counties in California, and then worked for another decade as a grant writer for tribal governments, academic institutions, educational agencies and nonprofit organizations. Her research has focused on the role of nonprofit organizations in the United States, along with their governance requirements.