About the Contributors

Alessandro Bressan is a lecturer in the School of Business at the University of Notre Dame Sydney campus. Alessandro is a specialist in the fields of CSR and sustainability with additional interest in the relationships between sustainability, innovation and business environments. Alessandro has published extensively in these areas and supervises a number of postgraduate projects.

D. Kirk Davidson earned his BA degree from Princeton University, his MBA from Harvard University, and his PhD from Golden Gate University. He has had extensive careers in both business and academia.

María del Carmen Caba-Perez is an Assistant Professor in the Public Management Sector at the University of Almería and Vice Dean in the Economics and Business Faculty. Her research is concerning to online transparency of public administration; nonprofit organizations and Venture Capital sectors. Dr. Caba’s strong research and teaching activity has led to her being accredited as a Full Professor by ANECA, Spain’s National Agency for Quality Assessment and Accreditation. She is author of several articles published in JCR publications including The American Review of Public Administration, International Review of Administrative Science, Online Information Review, Government Information Quarterly, Voluntas, Latin American Research Review or Public Administration and Development, Public Relations Review, Information Development, etc. Also, she has written more than 15 book chapters (Kluwer Academic Publishers; IGI Global, Springer, Cappelen Akademisk Forlag).

María del Mar Gálvez-Rodríguez is a lecturer of Management at the Economics and Business Faculty at the University of Almería (Spain). Her line of research is focused on online transparency, accountability and social media. She has published JCR articles in VOLUNTAS, Latin American Research, Review Public Relations Review, Information Development and Online Information Review.

Kerry E. Ground has been with Houston-based Acorn International, LLC since 2013 as an environmental and social risk management consultant. In particular, Kerry’s work focuses on EIAs, EHS risk assessment and management, and social performance in the extractive industry worldwide. Kerry holds a Master of Science in International Planning and Development from the University of Guelph Canada.

Dieu Hack-Polay has worked in NGOs, Local Government and universities in the United Kingdom, Canada and China. He is currently Programme Leader and Senior Lecturer in Organisational Behaviour & Management at the University of Lincoln, UK and Executive President of the Institute of International Education Canada (IEC), Canada. Dieu has a Doctorate in Education (EdD) and a PhD in Sociology. He is a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy, UK.
About the Contributors

Arturo Haro-de-Rosario is a lecturer at the Department of Economics and Business at the University of Almería (Spain). His research interests are focused on the financial information disclosures on the Web (e-government) and on the management system and communication in the federal and local governments. He is author of numerous articles in national and international journals, including Small Business Economics, Social Science Computer Review, Transforming Government: People, Process and Policy, Local Government Studies and so on. Also, he has written some book chapters (IGI Global and Springer).

Ahmad Hassan is an external lecturer at the Copenhagen Business School, Denmark. His research focuses on Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) in developing countries, and political roles of business. Particularly, he is interested in exploring the governance processes and impact of Multi-stakeholder Initiatives in Global Value Chains.

Theodora Issa is a Senior Lecturer at Curtin University, Australia. Theodora’s PhD thesis on ethical mindsets was the recipient of the 2010 EFMD/Emerald Outstanding Doctoral research award. Theodora also holds three Masters Degrees in Business Administration, Electronic Commerce and Management Research. In August 2011, Theodora was awarded ‘The New Researcher of the Year’ prize of the Curtin Business School, Australia. In 2013 Theodora was awarded the prize for Highest Return on Performance Index points for Early Career Researcher in Curtin Business School. Theodora is journals’ associate editor. Theodora had published and continues to publish several peer-reviewed journals, books, edited books and book chapters. Theodora is a member of the World Council of Churches Central Committee, Geneva, Switzerland, and a member of the Education and Ecumenical Formation Commission, Geneva, Switzerland. Theodora is a member of the editorial committee of Noohro http://noohro.cjb.net and the church’s community website http://soca.cjb.net.

Jensena Kaplan received her MBA from Loyola Marymount University in Marketing focusing on Corporate Social Responsibility, and holds a Bachelor of Science in Apparel Design from Oregon State University. She continues her work combining fiber science and sustainability working towards an executive management career in the U.S apparel market.

Peter Lund-Thomsen is Associate Professor at the Copenhagen Business School, Denmark. His research focuses on the linkages between global value chains, local economic development, and corporate social responsibility in developing countries.

Ivan Montiel is an Associate Professor of Management at Baruch College, City University of New York. His research interests include corporate social responsibility and sustainability strategies with a focus in emerging economies. He holds a Ph.D. from the Bren School of Environmental Science and Management at University of California, Santa Barbara. His research has been published in Strategic Management Journal, Journal of International Business Studies, Journal of Policy Analysis and Management, Journal of Economics & Management Strategy, Journal of Business Ethics, Business & Society and Organization & Environment among others.
Mohamed Nagy Osman is a lecturer in accounting, faculty of commerce, Benha University (Egypt). He holds PhD and master degrees from Queen Mary University of London and Dundee University (UK). Furthermore, He is an associate fellow in Higher Education Academy (UK). His research focuses on social, environmental and sustainability reporting in the Arab Middle East Countries (AMEC), transparency and governance.

David Pick is an Associate Professor in Management at Curtin University. His primary research focus is the study of change and identity in organizations. He has a particular interest in exploring public sector work and has published work on higher education, nursing and public sector managers. His ongoing research interests include applying literary theory to examining and understanding organization.

Julia M. Puaschunder graduated from the University of Vienna (2003 Master of Philosophy/Psychology, 2010 Doctor of Natural Sciences), Vienna University of Economics and Business (2006 Doctor of Social and Economic Sciences, 2007 Master of Business Administration), and the Maxwell School (2008 Master of Public Administration). She currently studies Law and Economics at the University of Vienna and The New School Department of Economics. Julia launched and administered research projects on four continents. She was invited to present her research at Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Oxford and Cambridge as well as The Academic Council on the United Nations System. As a current Prize Fellow in the Inter-University Consortium of New York, she supports the Economics of Climate Change Project Speaker Series hosted at The Schwartz Center for Economic Policy Analysis. At The New School, her research investigates western world intergenerational equity constraints in the domains of environmental sustainability, over indebtedness, and demographic aging.

Haiyan Qiu is currently China Country Manager for European pulp producer SICEM-SAGA s.p.a, dealing with business development, marketing and contracts and customer relations in the pulp and paper industry. Petrel tutored in management at the Xi’an Jiaotong-Liverpool University. She holds a degree in English Language and a Masters in Management and is TESOL certified.

Lukman Raimi is a Senior Lecturer, Mentor & Economist at the Centre for Entrepreneurship Development, (CED), Yaba College of Technology Yaba Lagos, Nigeria. He has over fifteen years of management, research and lecturing experience in the academia. His research interests include: Corporate Social Responsibility, Economics of Development, Entrepreneurship and Human Resources Management. His research orientation is multidisciplinary with focus on developmental issues and economic growth.

Wajdi Ben Rejeb is an Assistant Professor at National Institute of Applied Sciences and Technology, University of Carthage, Tunisia. Dr. Ben Rejeb research fields cover topics in relation with corporate governance, corporate social responsibility and business ethics.

Monica Thiel is a member of the Academy of Management and the European Group for Organizational Studies. Her research articles and case studies have been published in the American Journal of Economics and Business Administration, International Journal of Business and Globalization, Asian Journal of Business and Management Cases, Procedia: Social and Behavioral Sciences, and the International Journal of Entrepreneurship and Innovation. Prior to her pursuit of a PhD in Social Science at the
About the Contributors

Tilburg School of Social and Behavioral Sciences, she worked in multinational corporations, non-profit organizations, government, military and small–medium enterprises in business management and social responsibility initiatives. Her current research interests include corporate social responsibility, sustainability, competitiveness, strategic management and innovation.

Angela Torri holds a Bachelor of Public Relations & Marketing from the University of Notre Dame and has continued her work in CSR into a PhD. Her area of interest focuses on the strategic integration of CSR into business models and the ethical impacts that this has on business activity.

Duane Windsor, PhD (Harvard University), is Lynette S. Autrey Professor of Management in the Jesse H. Jones Graduate School of Business, Rice University. His work focuses on corporate social responsibility and stakeholder theory. He has published a number of books and in various academic journals.

Ruth Wolf (PhD) is an expert in ethics and business administration at Bar-Ilan University in Israel and also taught at The Hebrew University. To date, she has authored about 80 publications. The most recent books, ‘International Business Ethics and Growth Opportunities’ (2015, IGI) and ‘Empowering Organizations through Corporate Social Responsibility’ (2015, IGI). Both books were Published by the University of Pennsylvania/IGI. The topics she writes about include: Legislation of ethics, training for ethics conduct employee-employer relations, CSR, leadership, and business administration. She is also credited with a theory that she composed regarding ethical and moral training and education. In addition, she is a mediator and has taught mediation to generations of students in the academy as part of the management outlook that promotes” managing from the heart”.

Hélène de Burgh-Woodman is Associate Dean – Research and Academic Development and Postgraduate Co-ordinator at The University of Notre Dame Sydney School of Business. Hélène has published extensively in several top-tier journals and is a respected scholar in the field of consumer research. Hélène currently supervises numerous postgraduate projects in management and marketing. She has been the recipient of an Endeavour Research Fellowship, chaired various research committees and been a member of ERA review panels. She has also held positions in industry as a senior marketing manager and a marketing/management consultant.

Nonita T. Yap is Professor at the University of Guelph, Canada. She holds a PhD in Chemistry and Masters in Environmental Studies. She has worked in nearly 20 developing countries in Asia, Africa, the Middle East, and Latin America on waste management, cleaner production and environmental impact assessment.

Juelin Yin is an Associate Professor of Management at the International Business School Suzhou in Xi’an Jiaotong-Liverpool University, Suzhou China. She has taught and researched on corporate social responsibility, with a particular interest in the CSR strategies in emerging country contexts. She holds a PhD from Nankai University and did her postdoctoral research in Harvard University. She has published over ten articles in journals including Journal of Business Ethics, Long Range Planning, and Business & Society.