About the Editor

M. Adam Mahmood is a professor of computer information systems in the Department of Information and Decision Sciences at the University of Texas at El Paso, USA. He also holds the Ellis and Susan Mayfield Professorship in the College of Business Administration. He is a visiting faculty at the Helsinki School of Economics and Business Administration, Finland and University of Oulu in Finland and a visiting scholar at the University of Canterbury in New Zealand. He also worked for NASA as a visiting scholar in its Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, California. Dr. Mahmood’s scholarly and service activities include a number of responsibilities. He is presently serving as the program chair for the 2006 Annual Meeting of the Decision Sciences Institute in San Antonio. He is also presently serving as the editor in chief of the Journal of Organizational and End User Computing. He has also recently served as a guest editor of the International Journal of Electronic Commerce and the Journal of Management Information Systems. Dr. Mahmood’s research interests center on generating business value utilizing information technology including electronic commerce for managerial decision making, strategic and competitive advantage, group decision support systems, and information systems success as it relates to organizational and end user computing. On this topic and others, he has published five edited books and 87 technical research papers in some of the leading journals and conference proceedings in the information technology field including Management Information Systems Quarterly, De-