About the Editor

Eileen M. Trauth, PhD, is a professor of information sciences and technology and director of the Center for the Information Society at The Pennsylvania State University, USA. Her research is concerned with societal, cultural, and organizational influences on information technology, information technology work, and the information technology workforce. Her investigation of socio-cultural influences on the emergence of Ireland’s information economy is published in her book, The Culture of an Information Economy: Influences and Impacts in the Republic of Ireland. She is currently engaged in a multi-country study of women in the information technology workforce in Australia, New Zealand, Ireland, and the U.S. Dr. Trauth has published nine books and over 100 research papers on her work. She is an associate editor of Information and Organization and serves on the editorial boards of several international journals. Dr. Trauth received her PhD in information science from the University of Pittsburgh.