About the Author

Angela Adrian started her career in business after acquiring a Masters degree from Schiller International University in London. After working for a number of years, she decided to focus on law. She received her Juris Doctorate from Loyola University, New Orleans. She then became a qualified attorney in Louisiana. After practising for a few years, she specialised in Commercial Law and gained an LLM with distinction from the University of Aberdeen. Concurrently, she became a solicitor in England and Wales. Ms. Adrian practiced for a while before becoming an academic. She then pursued a PhD in which she explored the nature of law in virtual worlds. This book reflects that research. Ms. Adrian remains in the academic world where she teaches Intellectual Property Law, Commercial Law, Contract Law, and International Trade Law. Her research interests are intellectual property, virtual reality, money laundering, commercial law, international trade law, oil and gas law, and entertainment law.
