About the Contributors

Patricia Ordóñez de Pablos is professor in the Department of Business Administration and Accountability, at the Faculty of Economics of The University of Oviedo (Spain). Her teaching and research interests focus on the areas of strategic management, knowledge management, intellectual capital measuring and reporting, organizational learning and human resources management. She is Executive Editor of the International Journal of Learning and Intellectual, the International Journal of Strategic Change Management and Editor in Chief of International Journal of Chinese Culture and Management.

Rongbin W.B. Lee is the Chair Professor and Director of the Knowledge Management Research Centre, of The Hong Kong Polytechnic University. He is currently a council member of the Hong Kong Productivity Council and a member of the assessment panel of the Innovation and Technology Fund of the Hong Kong SAR Government. He established the Knowledge Solution Laboratory, the first of its kind in Hong Kong, and pioneered the research and practice of knowledge management in various organisations in manufacturing, trading, public utilities, various government departments and healthcare. Professor Lee and his team have launched Asia’s first online MSc Programme in Knowledge Management. His research interests include manufacturing strategy, knowledge management, organisational learning and intellectual capital-based management.

Jingyuan Zhao is a post-doctoral researcher and senior lecturer in Postdoctoral Center & School of Management, Harbin Institute of Technologies (China). Her Ph.D. is in Management Science and Engineering in Chinese Academy of Sciences (CAS) and University Science and Technologies of China (USTC). Dr. Zhao’s expertise is on regional innovation management, high-tech industry cluster, knowledge management, technologies diffusion, organization learning. She serves as a Guest Editor for several international journals and is an Invited Reviewer for China’ state-run newspaper West Times to provide comments on the economy.

* * *

Vicente García Díaz is a computer engineer, PhD student in the Department of Computer Science at the University of Oviedo. His research interests include Model-Driven Engineering, Domain-Specific Languages, Project Risk Management, Software Development processes and practices and Web Engineering.
About the Contributors

B. Cristina Pelayo García-Bustelo is a Lecturer in the Computer Science Department of the University of Oviedo. PhD from the University of Oviedo in Computer Engineering. Her research interests include Object-Oriented technology, Web Engineering, eGovernment, Modeling Software with BPM, DSL and MDA.

Oscar Sanjuán Martínez is a Lecturer in the Computer Science Department of the University of Oviedo. PhD from the Pontifical University of Salamanca in Computer Engineering. His research interests include Object-Oriented technology, Web Engineering, Software Agents, Modeling Software with BPM, DSL and MDA.

Juan Manuel Cueva Lovelle is a Mining Engineer from Oviedo Mining Engineers Technical School in 1983 (Oviedo University, Spain). PhD from Madrid Polytechnic University, Spain (1990). From 1985 he is a Professor at the Languages and Computers Systems Area in Oviedo University (Spain). ACM and IEEE voting member. His research interests include Object-Oriented technology, Language Processors, Human-Computer Interface, Web Engineering, Modeling Software with BPM, DSL and MDA.

Jingyuan Zhao is a post-doctoral researcher and senior lecturer in Postdoctoral Center & School of Management, Harbin Institute of Technologies (China). Her Ph.D. is in Management Science and Engineering in Chinese Academy of Sciences (CAS) and University Science and Technologies of China (USTC). Dr. Zhao’s expertise is on regional innovation management, high-tech industry cluster, knowledge management, technologies diffusion, organization learning. She serves as a Guest Editor for several international journals and is an Invited Reviewer for China’ state-run newspaper West Times to provide comments on the economy.

Antonio Lerro is a Research Fellow in Business Management at University of Basilicata, where he joins the “Centre for Value Management”. Antonio held his PhD at University of San Marino. He joins also Cranfield School of Management – UK - as Visiting Research Fellow. His research centres on the management and the measurement of the Intellectual Capital, innovation and change management, clusters, regional development and regional innovation systems. He is regular speaker at national and international conferences and author of over twenty academic and practitioner papers.

Giovanni Schiuma is a Professor at the University of Basilicata, Italy, where he coordinates as Scientific Director the Centre for Value Management. Giovanni is Visiting Fellow at the Cranfield School of Management and Adjunct Professor at Tampere University of Technology. Giovanni’s research, teaching, and consulting focus on linking knowledge assets and organization behaviour to performance management and organization value creation. Giovanni is Co-Editor in Chief of the internationally recognised Measuring Business Excellence (Emerald publisher). His primary research interests focus around the following areas: knowledge asset & intellectual capital management, performance management systems, innovation and change management, organizational behaviors, organizational learning, industrial district and local development.

Asleena Helmi has been in the academic field for approximately 10 years in various institutions of higher learning in Malaysia. Prior to joining Swinburne University of Technology, she taught a variety of subjects which include entrepreneurship, management information systems and knowledge management at Multimedia University, Cyberjaya. Apart from teaching, she participates in consultancies and presented research papers at the Harvard Asia Project for Asian and International Relations in 2008 and has published in numerous local and international journals. She earned a distinction masters award majoring in Electronic Commerce from the School of Business at Curtin University of Technolgy, Western Australia. Her area of research interests are knowledge management, e-commerce and international business.

Zainal Ariffin Ahmad, PhD is an Associate Professor and has more than 15 years of teaching, training and consultancy experiences at Northern Illinois University and Universiti Sains Malaysia.
He teaches in postgraduate programmes and supervises doctoral and master candidates in the areas of human resource management, organizational behavior, quality, effective teaching and consultancy.
He is an active researcher and has completed nine national research projects to date and co-written 4 books and various articles in national, regional and international journals and conferences. He has conducted seminars, workshops and in-house training for academic, public sector and corporate clients on such as Siemens, Otis, Intel and Motorola. He is a member of the International Association of Applied Psychology (IAAP).

Daisy Kee is a lecturer of management at Universiti Sains Malaysia. Her areas of interests are in HRM, OB, gender and leadership. Her current program of research focuses on HRM and LMX. She holds a PhD in Business and Management from International Graduate School of Business, University of South Australia. She was the secretary of Management Case Study Journal, Australia (2004-2006).
She has been voted one of the Most Outstanding Malaysian university students in South Australia by former South Australia Governor Sir Eric Neal (2006). She earned her MBA from School of Management, Universiti Sains Malaysia. She was awarded Dean’s List for being one of the top MBA students (2003).

Gert-Jan Hospers is Professor of City and Regional Marketing in Europe at the Radboud University Nijmegen and Researcher of Economic Geography at the University of Twente, both in The Netherlands.
He is interested in the identity, image and development of old industrial areas in Western-Europe, such as Twente, the North East of England, the Øresund Region and the Ruhrgebiet. Recently, he published – together with Paul Benneworth – The Role of Culture in the Economic Development of Old Industrial Regions (LIT, 2009).

Tomas Gabri Bas, PhD in Technology Management and Marketing of University of Quebec (Canada). His research project focus on biotechnology management, technological innovation, knowldge in natural resources and public policies. He has a MSc in Environment of University of Montreal (Canada). He is professor of technology and innovation management at the University Adolfo Ibáñez
(Chile) and consultant for World Bank, United Nations, IDRC, Statistics Canada, etc. Honors: “Bright Minds - Brain World Class”. One of the 10’s most influential researchers of Chile in Economics and Management (according to international citation index ISI).

Rakhi Rashmi is working as Research Fellow with CNRS GREDEG, University of Nice, France,
A PhD candidate of Centre for the study of Law Governance, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi, who has the degrees of LLB (Delhi University), MBL (National Law School of India University, B'lore), FMF (Pondicherry University).
About the Contributors

Pak Tee Ng is an Associate Professor at the Policy and Leadership Studies Academic Group, National Institute of Education (NIE), Nanyang Technological University, Singapore. He read Mathematics at Cambridge University [BA(Hons), MA] and subsequently Management at Leicester University [MBA] and Bradford University [PhD]. His main areas of teaching, research and consultancy are Learning Organisation, Change Management, Knowledge Management, Quality Management, Innovation, Complexity, Leadership, Coaching and Education Policies. He is the author/editor of several books and numerous journal articles, book chapters and conference papers. He is also a journal editor and an editorial board member of several other journals.

Qiong He, Lecturer in School of Mining and Safety Engineering, Hunan University of Science and Technology (China). Postdoctoral in School of Economics, Xiamen University (China), Her PhD is in Management Science and Engineering in Chinese Academy of Sciences and University Science and Technology of China. Dr. He’s expertise is on regional economic and management, resource and environment management.

Qun Ren got her Master degree in International business Finance from Bournemouth University in 2005. Currently, she is a PhD researcher in the Business school of Bournemouth University, UK. Her research interests focus on business strategy in fast-paced competitive IT industries, pricing in Internet services and national cultural issues in management.

Philip Hardwick is a Professor of Economics and Director of Postgraduate Research at Bournemouth University. His research interests concern the econometric analysis of the relative performance of financial services firms, in terms of economics of scale and scope, and cost, profit and revenue efficiencies. He has published widely in academic journals in finance and economics, including Oxford Economic Papers, Applied Financial Economics, the Journal of Management Studies, Abacus, the Journal of Risk and Insurance, the Journal of Business Finance and Accounting and the Journal of Banking and Finance.

A.A. Egbetokun holds a Bachelor’s degree in Mechanical Engineering and a Master’s degree in Technology Management from the Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria. He has also worked as a Research Assistant in the university and as a Mechanical Engineering Intern in the automobile industry. He belongs to the Nigerian Institute of Management, the Nigerian Institution of Mechanical Engineers, the International Society for Professional Innovation Management and the US-based National Association for Community College Entrepreneurship. As a Senior Research Officer with the National Centre for Technology Management, Obafemi Awolowo University, he is actively involved in policy research, evaluation and review especially in the areas of innovation, entrepreneurship, SMEs and technological capabilities. In the last two years, his research has focused on clusters and innovation systems; science, technology and innovation indicators as well as student entrepreneurship. His articles have appeared in the International Journal of Technology Management, the World Review of Entrepreneurship Management and Sustainable Development, the International Journal of Learning and the International Journal of Learning and Intellectual Capital.

W.O. Siyanbola obtained his PhD in Solid State Physics from the University of Sussex, Brighton, UK in 1991. Since 2001 he has been closely involved in Science, Technology and Innovation (STI) policy research, evaluation and review. He is a Fellow of both the Materials Society of Nigeria and the Solar Energy Society of Nigeria; and a member of the National Business Incubation Association of America, among other prestigious professional associations. For many years, he was a resource person to the National Centre for Technology Management (NACETEM), an agency of Nigeria’s Federal Ministry of Science and Technology located in Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria. He later became the Director-General/CEO of the centre in 2006. At NACETEM, Dr. Siyanbola now oversees policy research activities in STI and is a regular speaker at local and international STI policy debates. He also supervises postgraduate students at MSc and PhD levels at Obafemi Awolowo University.

A. A. Oyewale received training as an Agricultural Economist before obtaining a Doctoral degree in Technology Management (during which he won a United Nations University Institute for New Technologies (UNU/INTECH) Ph.D. Internship Fellowship Award in 2000) at the Technology and Policy Development Unit (TPDU) of the Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria. Before joining the National Centre for Technology Management (NACETEM) in 1996, Dr. Oyewale has worked as a business consultant to several organisations. A thorough-bred researcher with interests in intellectual property and the management of National Innovation Systems, Dr Oyewale has published papers in both local and international journals. He is presently the Head of the Training and Research Department of NACETEM.

Mauri Kantola is the Manager of Educational Services of the Turku University of Applied Sciences in Finland. He was previously the Quality Manager of the Turku University of Applied Sciences. He holds a MA (Soc.) from the University of Turku in Finland.

Juha Kettunen is the Rector of the Turku University of Applied Sciences in Finland and Adjunct Professor of the University of Jyväskylä in Finland. He was previously the Director of the Vanta Institute for Continuing Education of the University of Helsinki and Director of the Advanced Management Education Centre of the University of Jyväskylä. He holds a PhD from the University of Bristol in the UK, and a DSc from the University of Jyväskylä in Finland.

Satu Helmi is the Regional development coordinator of the Turku University of Applied Sciences in Finland. She holds a M.A. (Educ.) form the University of Turku in Finland.

Aikaterini Kokkinou holds a first-class PhD Degree from the University of Aegean, a first-class Master of Science Degree in Business Analysis and Finance from the University of Leicester, a first-class Graduate Degree in Economic Sciences from the University of Crete, as well as a first-class Graduate Degree in Public Administration from the National School of Public Administration, Greece. During the last 5 years, Dr. Aikaterini Kokkinou worked for the Public Debt Management Agency, Ministry of Finance, Greece. She is currently a researcher in the Department of Economics, University of Glasgow, United Kingdom. During her career, Dr. Aikaterini Kokkinou acquired a solid background in the fields of economic growth and development, productivity and efficiency analysis, entrepreneurship, innovation activities, regional growth, F.D.I. activities, competitiveness, convergence and European Union development economics. She has also collaborated in research projects, has presented her work in a number of international conferences and has published in journals, books, research papers, and conference proceedings.
George M. Korres holds a doctorate degree in Economic Sciences (Economics of Innovation) from University of London (QMW) and M.Sc. from Essex University. He is currently an Associate Professor at the University of the Aegean, Department of Geography. Over the last 10 years, during both his academic and professional career, he has gained an in depth experience in the fields of economics, business and politics in the area of European Economics and Innovation Systems. His main areas of interest and specialization include: European Integration, Social Policy and Social Inclusion, Economic and Innovation Policies, EU enlargement and the Euro-Mediterranean partnership. He has collaborated with many European universities, Institutions, NGOs as well as academia. George Korres has also been involved in various trans-European and international projects and he has published widely in this area in many International Journals, such as Applied Econometrics, Regional and Sectoral Economic Studies, Southwestern Economic Review, Management Sciences and Regional Development e.t.c.. He has also published a number of books with international publishers, such as MacMillan-Palgrave Press, Springer, Ashgate Publishers etc.