About the Contributors

Christina Akrivopoulou holds a PhD in Constitutional Law. Her main research interests concern human and constitutional rights, the protection of the right to privacy, data protection, the private-public distinction, and citizenship. She teaches law as a Special Scientist in the faculty of Political Sciences of the Democritus University of Thrace, in Greece, where she currently lives. She also works as an attorney at law at the Thessaloniki Law Bar Association. She is collaborating with several Greek law reviews, and she is a member of many non-governmental human rights organizations in Greece and abroad.

Athanasios-Efstratios Psykgas is a JSD candidate at Yale Law School. He holds an LLB from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece, an LLM in Public Law and Political Science from the same law school and an LLM from Yale where he was a Fulbright scholar. He served as editor of the Yale Journal of Law and Technology and the Yale Journal of International Law. From January to July 2009, Psykgas was the Oscar M. Ruebhausen visiting research fellow at Yale Law School and a visiting fellow at the Institut d’Etudes Politiques (Sciences Po) in Paris in 2010-2011. He has published in the area of comparative public law.

Norberto Nuno Gomes de Andrade is a legal researcher and a PhD candidate at the Law Department of the European University Institute (EUI, Italy). He graduated in Law at the Faculty of Law of the University of Lisbon, and he holds a Master of Arts in International Relations and European Studies from the Central European University (CEU, Hungary), as well as a Master of Research from the European University Institute. He has previously worked as a legal expert at the External Relations Department of the Portuguese Regulatory Authority for Communications (ANACOM, Portugal). In 2009 he co-edited and published “Law and Technology: Looking into the Future – Selected Essays.”

Haralambos Anthropoulos is currently an assistant professor of Law and Public Administration in the Hellenic Open University and he lives in Athens, Greece. He has published several books in Greek concerning the protection of fundamental rights, the freedom of conscience, the freedom of information, political anonymity, racism, and social seclusion as well as articles in relation to democracy, freedom of assembly, and the role of political parties in the modern democracies. He is editor of the Greek Review of Administrative Law.
Federica Casarosa (MA, European University Institute, 2004; PhD, European University Institute, 2007) is a Jean Monnet Fellow at the Robert Schuman Centre, Italy. Her main research interests are consumer protection in electronic contracts, privacy policy in European and comparative perspectives, protection of children in information and communication technologies. In addition to several book chapters, her publications include articles in the journals European Review of Private Law, Danno e responsabilità, Revue Internationale de droit economique, Diritto dell’informazione e dell’informatica.

Cristina Contartese (MA, University of Birmingham, 2004; PhD, University of Bologna, 2010) is a Post-PhD researcher at the University of Bologna. Her main research interests are the European Union as an international actor, the European Convention of Human Rights, and the protection of foreigners’ human rights.

Diane A. Desierto is a Law Reform Specialist at the University of the Philippines (UP) Institute of International Legal Studies; Professorial Lecturer at the law faculties of UP and Lyceum of the Philippines; and litigation partner at Desierto Ammuyutan Purisima & Desierto Law. Desierto earned degrees from UP (BS Economics, summa cum laude; Law, cum laude) and Yale Law School (LLM/Master of Laws). Presently, she is a JSD candidate (under Professor W. Michael Reisman's supervision), Howard M. Holtzmann Fellow in International Arbitration and Dispute Resolution, Lillian Goldman Perpetual Scholar, and the 2010-2011 University Trainee (clerk) at the International Court of Justice.

Nikolaos Garipidis is Attorney at Law in the Thessaloniki Bar Association in Greece. He has an LLM in Legal Theory from EALT Brussels and an LLM in History, Philosophy and Methodology of Law from the Aristotle University of the Thessaloniki, where he is currently concluding his doctoral thesis. His main research interests concern democratic theory, the counter majoritarian difficulty, constitutitional power, redistributive justice, and the right to disobedience.

Georgiana Ghitu is an attorney at law and member of the Bucharest Bar Association in Romania. She has been a member of the finance & projects and employment practices of DLA Piper Bucharest since November 2008. She previously worked for the Bucharest office of Linklaters LLP, where she gained valuable experience in various banking, employment and restructuring matters. She holds an LLB from the University of Bucharest, Faculty of Law, and has completed an LLM in business law at the same faculty. In addition to the above, Ghitu attended numerous professional development programmes, including the Jean Monnet module on European integration at the University of Bucharest.

Hasan Atilla Güngör has an LLB from the Istanbul University Law Faculty. He has an MA degree in history from the Istanbul University Institute of Ataturk’s Principles and Reforms and a PhD degree in Public Law from the Istanbul Kultur University Social Science Institute. He has worked as a research assistant at the Istanbul Kultur University Law Faculty between 2000 and 2009. He is currently working as an assistant professor at the same university. His research areas include constitutional law, human rights law, and environmental law.

Melike Akkaraca Köse has a BA in International Relations and Political Sciences from Marmara University. She holds an LLM and a PhD in European Union Law from Marmara University. She also has an LLM in legal theory from the European Academy of Legal Theory (Brussels). She has worked as a lecturer at the Department of International Relations, Istanbul Kultur University between 2000 and 2008, as a senior lecturer at Girne American University, and at Near East University between 2008 and 2010. Her research areas include legal theory, political philosophy and European Union law.

Shara Monteleone is a graduate of the Law Faculty of Florence (Italy) and received a PhD in IT Law from the Media Integration and Communication Centre (MICC) of Florence in 2007. As a post-doc researcher at INRIA (France) she has worked on the PRIAM project (Privacy Issues in Ambient Intelligence) and has previously conducted research in Media Law, with special attention to Privacy issues. Her research interests also include copyright law and computer forensics. Currently she is an LLM researcher at the European Institute of Florence (EUI).

Nóra Ní Loideain (BA, LLB, LLM, National University of Ireland, Galway) is a Legal Research Officer in the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions of Ireland. She was previously a Judicial Researcher for the Courts’ Service of Ireland, including the Supreme Court and was Senior Researcher in the Rape and Justice in Ireland Report, an independent research study into the process of prosecuting rape cases in Ireland. Her main research interests are in the areas of privacy, State surveillance, criminal justice, and law reform.

Szilvia Papp obtained her MA in English and American Studies from the University of Szeged, Hungary. She speaks fluently English, Italian, Greek, Russian, German and Hungarian. After several years of working as an interpreter and translator in various countries, including Italy and Hungary, she is currently living in Thessaloniki, Greece where she is professionally teaching English legal terminology.

Anna Pateraki is attorney-at-law, admitted to the Thessaloniki Bar Association, Greece. She studied law in Thessaloniki, at the University of Marburg, and the Humboldt University of Berlin (LLM). Her thesis concerned data retention and copyright. At present she is a doctoral candidate in the field of data protection at the Humboldt University and researches on the so-called list privilege in German data protection legislation. She specializes in Intellectual Property and Information Technology Law. During her legal clerkship she worked as a legal intern at the law firms Oppenhoff & Partner in Cologne and Olswang LLP in Berlin. After that she worked as a research associate in the IP/IT practice groups of the law firms Beiten Burkhardt Rechtsanwaltsgesellschaft mbH and Bird & Bird LLP in Frankfurt. Pateraki worked as a trainee at the European Data Protection Supervisor, and she lives and works in Frankfurt.

Pedro Pina is an attorney at law and teaches law in the Oliveira do Hospital School of Technology and Management at the Polytechnic Institute of Coimbra. He holds a law degree from the University of Coimbra Law School and a post-graduation degree in Territorial Development, Urbanism and Environmental Law from the Territorial Development, Urbanism and Environmental Law Studies Center (CEDOUA) at the University of Coimbra Law School. He holds a master’s degree in Procedural Law Studies from the University of Coimbra Law School and is currently a PhD student in the Doctoral Program "Law, Justice, and Citizenship in the Twenty First Century" at the University of Coimbra Law School and Economics School.

Grigore-Octav Stan is a Romanian qualified attorney at law and member of the Bucharest Bar Association in Romania. He is currently an associate in the Corporate department of Salans Bucharest, specialising in corporate law and mergers and acquisitions. Earlier in his career, Octav worked for Gugerbauer & Partners in Vienna and for the Bucharest offices of DLA Piper and Linklaters LLP.

Octav is also a PhD candidate at King’s College London, School of Law, with a thesis focusing on the topic of compensation in international investment arbitration. He holds an LLM from the University of Vienna, School of Law (Austria), an LLB degree from the University of Iasi (Romania), and was a visiting scholar at the University of Porto (Portugal).

Konstantinos Stylianou is an S.J.D. candidate at the University of Pennsylvania Law School under the supervision of Professor Christopher Yoo. Before joining Penn Law he completed the LL.M. Degree at Harvard Law School as a Fulbright scholar specializing in Intellectual Property, Telecommunications and Cyberlaw. He holds an LL.B. from Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, and a Master's Degree in International and European Law from the same university. He has worked for the Council of Europe and for YouthMedia, and he has published in the fields of copyright, media and internet freedoms.

Christopher Suarez is a student fellow of the Information Society Project at the Yale Law School. His research areas include information privacy law, education law, and antitrust. In 2006, Suarez graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with dual degrees in Electrical Engineering/Computer Science and Political Science. He has served as a law clerk at the Electronic Privacy Information Center, and his most recent research has focused on the antitrust implications of the Google Book Search Settlement.

Bradley T. Tennis is a third year student at Yale Law School. He is Managing Online Editor of the Yale Law Journal and a co-chair of the Morris Tyler Moot Court of Appeals. Bradley received an MS in Computer Science, focusing on graphics and human-computer interaction, from Stanford University in 2008 and a BS in Computer Science and Mathematics with highest honors from Harvey Mudd College in 2006.

Anna Tsiftsoglou is a PhD Candidate in Public Law at the University of Athens, Greece. Her research interests include security & human rights from a comparative perspective. She studied Law at the University of Thessaloniki, Greece (LLB) and under a University of California scholarship at Berkeley Law School (LLM), where she served as an Associate Editor of Berkeley Technology Law Journal (BTLJ). She has worked for the European Commission in Brussels and as a lawyer in private practice in Greece. Currently, she is a contributor to the Greek legal periodical Administrative Law Review.

Maria Tzanou is a PhD Candidate at the European University Institute, Florence, Italy. Her doctoral thesis focuses on EU counter-terrorism measures in the area of Freedom, Security and Justice and their implications on privacy and data protection. She holds a Master degree in Comparative, European and International Law from the EUI, a Master II in ‘Specialized Public Law’ from the Universities of Athens and Bordeaux IV, and an LLM in European Law from the University of Cambridge. She has published articles in the German Law Journal and the Yearbook of European Law, and has written (as a co-author) several reports for the EU Fundamental Rights Agency (FRA).