About the Authors

Muneesh Kumar is a professor, at Department of Financial Studies, University of Delhi (India). He has about 25 years of experience in teaching and research in areas relating to information system management at University of Delhi. He has also authored three books and co-edited three books in areas such as information system planning, e-governance, business information systems, etc. He is a regular contributor to international journals and conferences. He is also member of editorial boards in journals of international repute. He has been associated with the several expert committees appointed by Government of India such as expert committee for IT projects of India Post and Market Participation Committee of Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority (PFRDA).

Mamta Sareen is an associate professor in Department of Computer Science, Kirori Mal College, University of Delhi, India. Her research interests are in information technology management. She is currently a postdoctoral research fellow and pursuing a major research project on Internet banking at University of Delhi, India. She has around 18 years of experience in teaching subjects like Operating System, Computer System Architecture, Computer Network, Data base management Systems, Software Engineering, E-commerce/E-business, Management of Information Systems etc. to undergraduate and post graduate students at Delhi University, IIT Roorkee, GGSIP University and other institutions of repute. In addition, she has published several research papers and book chapters in various international journals/books and presented papers in international conferences.