Mohammad Dadashzadeh holds a Bachelor’s Degree in Electrical Engineering, a Master’s Degree in Computer Science, which both are from MIT, an MBA, and a Ph.D. in Computer and Information Science from University of Massachusetts. Since 1989, he has been at Wichita State University where he now serves as the W. Frank Barton Endowed Chair in MIS. He has authored 4 books and more than 40 articles on information systems and has served as the Editor-in-Chief of Journal of Database Management. He has extensive consulting experience worldwide and more than 5,000 people have attended his professional training seminars. Dadashzadeh is a co-author of the Iranian Standard Code for Information Interchange and a co-founder of SinaSoft, the publisher of software packages including KELK, winner of 1995 GITEX Exposition.