About the Contributors

Riyad Eid is Senior Lecturer of Marketing in the School of Business at the University of Wolverhampton. Dr Eid received a BSc (Hons) in Business administration from Tanta university (Egypt), an MSc in Business Administration from Tanta University (Egypt), PGDip (2002) and a PhD in Marketing from Bradford University (UK). Dr Eid’s main area of marketing expertise and interest is in the domain of International Internet Marketing. He has acted as consultant to a number of organizations in Egypt, UAE and UK. Dr Eid has published in several internationally recognised journals such as Journal of International Marketing, The Service Industries Journal, Journal of Marketing Intelligence and Planning, Journal of Industrial Management & Data Systems, Benchmarking International Journal, The International Journal of E-Business Research and Journal of Internet Research. He has also attended numerous numbers of International Refereed Conferences worldwide. He is a subject Matter Expert (Marketing) for the E-TQM collage in Dubai (UAE). Dr Eid was presented with Emerald Best Paper Award for one of his publications. He is also the editor in chief of the International Journal of Customer Relationship Marketing and Management and a member of the Editorial Review Board for a number of international journals.

***

Abbas Keramati is an Assistant Professor at the University of Tehran, Tehran, Iran. He received his PhD in the area of IT and Productivity. His major teaching and research interests include customer relationship management, information technology management and research methodology. He teaches in joint MSc programs of Iranian universities with Lulea University of Technology, Lulea, Sweden, and Herriot Watt University, Scotland. He published several papers in international journals such as Industrial Marketing Management and International journal of production Research.

Abdel Moneim Ahmed received his PhD in “Surpetitive Framework for World Class Organisations” from De Montfort University Leicester and Master of Science from Coventry University United Kingdom. He spent 12 years in the real business environment working as a CEO within the import and export industry prior returning to the academic world. Following receiving his PhD, he took the post of lecturer in quality and director of studies at the European Center for Total Quality Management (ECTQM) University of Bradford School of Management. In September 2004, he took an academic position at the UAE University and later joined the e-TQM College (currently Hemdan Bin Mohammed e-University) Dubai as Director of Graduate Studies before joining Abu Dhabi University in April 2008 as Director of Master of Human Resource Management programme. Professor Ahmed has published over 80 scholarly articles for journals and International Refereed Conferences. He has supervised and acted as external examiner for several PhD’s and Master Dissertations. Professor Ahmed has served as a senior consultant to international organizations such as Unilever, Airbus, Masterfood, Kodak, Kellogg and ADCO in the areas of Benchmarking and Business Process Management. He is a certified European Excellence Assessor from EFQM and member of the American Society for Quality since 2000.

Ahmed Abdelkader works as a Lecturer of Marketing and Management at Damietta University, Egypt. After obtaining his Masters degree in 2001, Ahmed worked for a leading Egyptian bank for several years before working as a managerial consultant and assistant lecturer at Damietta University since 2007. Ahmed has obtained his PhD in Marketing in 2010.

Amany I Shahin is a Lecturer in Management at the Faculty of Commerce, Helwan University (Egypt). PhD(Bradford), MPA (American University, Cairo), B.Com, (Business), Helwan (1st position –grade excellent with honours). She has published several articles in British and Egyptian academic journals and authored two textbooks in Management. Her main interests are in the fields of human resource management and the impact of culture on management.

Amin A. Shaqrah is currently assistant professor of Management Information Systems at Al Zaytoonah University of Jordan. He holds a PhD in MIS from Arab Academy for Banking and Financial Sciences, and received MA in MIS from Amman Arab University for Graduate Studies. He is active member in international professional societies on knowledge management, e-business, CRM, Jordan computers society and a member of editorial review boards for a number of international journals. His research interests are mainly in knowledge management, collaborative knowledge network, CRM value strategies, and data mining techniques. Shaqrah mail is amsh_10@yahoo.com.

Ángel García-Crespo is the Head of the SofLab Group at the Computer Science Department in the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid and the Head of the Institute for promotion of Innovation Pedro Juan de Lastanosa. He holds a PhD in Industrial Engineering from the Universidad Politécnica de Madrid (Award from the Instituto J.A. Artigas to the best thesis) and received an Executive MBA from the Instituto de Empresa. Professor García-Crespo has led and actively contributed to large European Projects of the FP V and VI, and also in many business cooperations. He is the author of more than a hundred publications in conferences, journals and books, both Spanish and international.

Anna-Lena Ackfeldt is a Lecturer at Aston Business School, Aston University, Birmingham, UK. Having gained over a decade’s experience in the services industry in Sweden, Anna successfully completed a BSc, MSc and PhD. Her main teaching and research interests are in services marketing & management, and service strategy. Anna has published previous work in Journal of Business Research, Journal of Services Marketing and The Services Industries Journal.

Bahar Hadjiha is MSc graduate in e-commerce at the division of Industrial Marketing, e-commerce and logistics, Lulea University of Technology, Sweden and Tarbiat Modares University, Iran.

Charles Dennis is a Senior Lecturer at Brunel University, London, UK. His teaching and research area is (e-)retail and consumer behaviour —the vital final link of the Marketing process —to satisfy the end consumer. Charles is a Chartered Marketer and has been elected as a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Marketing for his work helping to modernise the teaching of the discipline. Charles was awarded the Vice Chancellor’s Award for Teaching Excellence for improving the interactive student learning experience. Charles’s publications include Marketing the e-Business (1st and 2nd editions) (joint-authored with Dr Lisa Harris), the research-based e-Retailing (joint authored with Professor Bill Merrilees and Dr Tino Fenech), and the research monograph Objects of Desire: Consumer Behaviour in Shopping Centre Choice. His research into shopping styles has received extensive coverage in the popular media.

Despina A. Karayanni, PhD, MBA, BSc, is Assistant Professor of Marketing, at the Department of Business Administration, in the University of Patras, Greece. Her teaching and supervising activities, on undergraduate and postgraduate courses, are in the area of marketing research, marketing strategy, pharmaceutical marketing, integrated marketing communications and salesforce management. Her research and business consulting interests include marketing strategy, pharmaceutical marketing, relationship and networking marketing, business-to-business marketing, sales management, marketing of services, marketing research, internet and interactive marketing and hi-tech marketing. She has published in a number of scientific journals and international marketing conference proceedings and her work is cited in a few publications. She has also participated as a researcher, in a number of European Union research projects. Her PhD. Thesis is on the development of business networking relationships through the Internet. She has previously worked in a wide array of service posts, including multinational and bank companies, as well as in business consulting.

Diana Luck has a PhD in the area of hospitality management and customer relationship marketing from London Metropolitan University where she is now a Senior Lecturer in Marketing Communications. She completed her first degree at Thames Valley University and then MA in Marketing at University of North London. She has published one marketing text with Butterworth-Heinemann and three books for the Chartered Institute of Marketing. She has presented a number of conference papers in the field of CRM and hospitality management. She has published several papers and book chapters in the field of CRM.

Eric Brunelle, Ph.D. (technology management, École Polytechnique de Montréal, Canada) is an assistant professor in the Department of Management at HEC Montréal. His current research interests are e-leadership, e-business practices, human behavior on the Internet, and the impact of virtuality on organization practices. He also teaches leadership, management skills, and project management at HEC Montréal.

Fernando Paniagua Martín has been a Faculty Member of the Computer Science Department at the Carlos III Technical University of Madrid since 2005. Currently, he is completing his PhD in Computer Science in the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid. He also holds a Master in Computer Science and Technology. He has been working as software engineer and project manager in several companies. His research interests include Software Engineering, Audio-visual accessibility on the Web, Web 2.0 and Computer Supported Cooperative Work.

Geoff Lancaster obtained his professorship in 1985 for publication and research and has a PhD by published work. He is Dean of Academic Studies at the London School of Commerce and was formerly with London Metropolitan University, University of Newcastle-upon-Tyne and University of Huddersfield. He chairs a group of companies, Durham Associates Group Limited, with offices in Castle Eden, Co. Durham, Hull, London, Bahrain and Muscat, Oman. The company was in receipt of the Queen’s Award for Exporting in 1999. He was formerly Senior Examiner to the Chartered Institute of Marketing for 18 years and has written over 40 textbooks on marketing and research methods and over 100 refereed academic papers.

George Avlonitis is a Professor of Marketing at the Department of Marketing and Communication in the Athens University of Economics and Business. He is also Director of both the Marketing Laboratory (The Athens Laboratory for Research in Marketing - A.L.A.R.M.) and the Executive Postgraduate Program “Marketing and Communication with New Technologies” of the same Department. He has been elected President of the European Marketing Academy (EMAC) for the biennium 2008-2010. His primary research, teaching and consulting activities are in the areas of Product Policy, Sales Management, Industrial Marketing, Technological Innovation and Strategic Marketing. He has presented various papers in U.S.A., Canada and Europe and has published more than 100 articles in international conference proceedings and the most prestigious international scientific journals of Marketing including Journal of Marketing, Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, International Journal of Research in Marketing, Journal of Product Innovation Management etc. He is also on the editorial board of eleven International Journals including Journal of Business Research and Industrial Marketing Management and has been honoured several times with the Best Paper Award. He has conducted a large number of research projects for many companies of the private and public sector and has served as consultant for Marketing Strategy and Sales Management in more than 80 Greek Companies and Organisations. He has also been Chairmen of the Department of Marketing and Communication of the Athens University of Economics and Business (1997-2000) and President of the BoD of E.C.R. Hellas (1995-1998). He has served, as Vice-President of the European Marketing Academy (1990-1993) and he is an elected Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Marketing and one of the founders of the Greek Marketing Academy, of which he is also an elected President.

Hatem El-Gohary is a Senior Lecturer in Marketing at Birmingham City University Business School (Birmingham, West Midlands, UK) and Marketing Researcher at Cairo University Business School (Cairo, Egypt). Have more than 15 years of experience in academia and worked as the marketing director of a multinational company, a general manager for Egyptian company and a marketing consultant for a number on national and multinational companies. His research interest include: Electronic Marketing, Electronic Business, Electronic Commerce, Internet Marketing and Small Business Enterprises. He has published in journals such as Journal of Business and Public Policy, Journal of International Business and Finance, International Business & Technology Review and Int. Journal of Business Science and Applied Management.

Howard Jackson is a Principal Lecturer in the Department of Strategy & Marketing at Huddersfield University where he is the Team Leader for the Undergraduate Marketing programmes. He also teaches extensively on Masters level courses and currently supervises a number of PhD students in a variety of areas including Financial Services Marketing. Prior to becoming a full time academic in 1994, Howard spent almost twenty years in industrial and service sectors where he held various management roles before running his own consultancy working for a variety of clients in industries as diverse as heavy engineering, consumer goods and professional services.
Jamie Burton is a lecturer in Marketing at Manchester Business School (MBS) and director of research for the Customer Management Leadership Group (www.mbs.ac.uk/research/one_off/customer-management.aspx) a networking group, led by MBS, of senior executives who share a passion for achieving consistent and sustainable value for their organisations by aligning the needs of customers, stakeholders, partners, employees and suppliers. Jamie’s research interests include relationship marketing, customer relationship management, service marketing and customer profitability and he has published in a number of journals and is co-author of Murphy, J., Burton, J., Gleaves, R & Kitshoff, J (2006), Converting Customer Value: from Retention to Profit, Chichester: John Wiley and Sons Ltd. Jamie gained a BSc and an MSc in Economics from Cardiff Business School before gaining his PhD and studying a Post-Doc with Manchester Business School. He has previously worked in a wide variety of service roles, including retail manager for HMV.

Juan Miguel Gomez-Berbís is an Associate Professor at the Computer Science Department of the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid. He holds a PhD in Computer Science from the Digital Enterprise Research Institute (DERI) at the National University of Ireland, Galway and received his MSc in Telecommunications Engineering from the Universidad Politécnica de Madrid (UPM). He was involved in several EU FP V and VI research projects and was a member of the Semantic Web Services Initiative (SWSI). His research interests include semantic web, semantic web services, business process modelling, b2b integration and, recently, bioinformatics.

Khurram Sharif is an Assistant Professor of Marketing in the Management and Marketing Department, Qatar University. He is also a Marketing Research Consultant and has worked with numerous UK pharmaceutical and hi tech companies on a variety of marketing projects. His current research interests include marketing research design and methodologies, benchmarking sales force performance, customer experience management and managing SME business relationships.

Mustafa Zaidi is a PhD candidate at Queen Margaret University, UK. He holds MBA from University of Wolverhampton, UK and member of Chartered Management Institute & Institute of Management Consultancy UK. He has served as Joint Director R&D at Lahore Chamber of Commerce & Industry, Pakistan and currently working as Assistant Professor/MBA Program Coordinator at Faculty of Life Sciences Business Management, University of Veterinary & Animal Sciences, Lahore - Pakistan. Mustafa is IoD prize holder and achieved International Excellence Scholarship UK. Recently, he is awarded by UNESCO (United Nation) to visit the Japan after having excellence on University-Industry Technology Transfer Course. He has research interest in International Marketing, Corporate Governance and Public Private Partnership & Policy Making.

Navid Mojir received his MBA from Industrial Engineering Department, Faculty of Engineering, University of Tehran, Tehran, Iran.

Neeru Malhotra is a Senior Lecturer at Aston Business School, Aston University, Birmingham, UK. Dr. Malhotra has published in many internationally recognized journals, such as the International Journal of Service Industry Management, Journal of Services Marketing, Journal of Marketing Management, The Service Industries Journal, and International Journal of Human Resources Management. Dr. Malhotra has been awarded the Best Paper Award in the Services Marketing Track at the Academy of Marketing Conference in 2003 and the Emerald Literati Highly Commended Award in 2007 for her publications.

Nikolaos G. Panagopoulos is currently a Lecturer of Marketing at the Department of Marketing & Communication, Athens University of Economics & Business. His research, teaching and consulting interests revolve around personal selling & sales management, customer relationship management (CRM), marketing strategy, and advanced analytical techniques. His work has been published or has been accepted for publication in scientific journals, such as the Journal of Personal Selling & Sales Management, Industrial Marketing Management, International Journal of Human Resource Management, European Journal of Marketing, Journal of Business Research, Journal of Selling & Major Account Management, as well as in the proceedings of international conferences both in the EU and the US. He is a member of the American Marketing Association, the European Marketing Academy, the Greek Marketing Academy and a founding member of the Global Sales Science Institute. He is a member of the editorial board of Industrial Marketing Management, while he serves as a reviewer in various journals, such as the Journal of Business Research, the European Journal of Marketing, and the Marketing Education Review. Finally, he has provided his consulting services to a large number of public and private companies.

Nor Asiah Abdullah (norasiah@mmu.edu.my) is a marketing lecturer and a consumer decision making researcher in Faculty of Management, Multimedia University, Malaysia. She received her MBA and Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from University of Hartford, Connecticut, USA. She has co-authored several articles in international proceedings, a chapter for a book, and three international refereed journals.

Norizan M. Kassim is an Associate Professor of Marketing in the Department of Management and Marketing, College of Business and Economics, Qatar University. She received her PhD in Marketing from Southern Cross University, Australia. Her publications have appeared, among others, in Journal of Business Research, Singapore Management Review, Asia Pacific Business Review, International Journal of Bank Marketing, European Journal of Marketing, Electronic Markets, Journal of Financial Service Marketing and Measuring Business Excellence Journal.

Pasquale Del Vecchio, Ph.D. Research Fellow at eBusiness Management Section – Scuola Superiore ISUFI – University of Salento. After a degree in Economics at LUISS University of Rome, Pasquale took his PhD at eBMS-ISUFI with a thesis entitled CRM 2.0 and Reputational Dynamics in the Blogosphere. Lessons learnt from a Software Firm Case Study. In 2007 he spent a period as Visiting Ph.D student at Center for Business Intelligence of MIT – Sloan School of Management. His research field concerns Customers Knowledge Management and the contribution of Virtual Customers Communities for the new products development. Currently, he is involved in a project for the development of a system of territorial business intelligence.

Ricardo Colomo-Palacios is an Associate Professor at the Computer Science Department of the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid. His research interests include applied research in People in IT, Software Process Improvement, Software Project Management and Business Information Systems. He received his PhD in Computer Science from the Universidad Politécnica of Madrid (2005). He also holds a MBA. from the Instituto de Empresa (2002). He has been working as software engineer, project manager and software engineering consultant in several companies including Spanish IT leader INDRA.

Rose Taeb is MSc graduate in e-commerce at the division of Industrial Marketing, e-commerce and logistics, Lulea University of Technology, Sweden and International University of Chabahar, Iran.

Svend Hollensen is Ph.D. (Dr.) and Associate Professor of International Marketing at University of Southern Denmark (Sønderborg). He has practical experience from a job as International Marketing Coordinator in a large Danish multinational enterprise (Danfoss) as well as from being International Marketing Manager in a SME. He is the author of globally published textbooks, e.g. Global Marketing, 4th ed (Pearson). This book has been published in special Chinese, Russian and Indian editions. At the end of 2009 the second edition of his ‘Marketing Management – A Relationship Approach’ is published. Svend Hollensen’s research interests are within Relationship Marketing, Globalization and Internationalization of companies. Svend Hollensen has also worked as a business consultant for several multinational companies, as well as global organizations like World Bank.

Talal Al-maghrawi is a doctoral candidate in the Marketing Department at Brunel University, London, UK. He holds a BSc in Aeronautics from Saint Louis University, USA, and an MBA in Marketing and Information System from Kent State University, USA. His current research interests include online shopping behavior, e-retailing, CRM, customer satisfaction and loyalty, loyalty programs, and corporate social responsibility (CSR). He works with Saudi Arabian Airlines in the Marketing and Loyalty Department. He works as part time lecturer and guest speaker with many universities and colleges in Saudi Arabia. He is also a peer reviewer for few journals.
Valentina Ndou, Ph.D. Researcher at eBusiness Management Section – Scuola Superiore ISUFI – University of Salento. Valentina took her PhD at the eBMS-ISUFI with a thesis entitled Creating value through virtual networks: An assessment of virtual Tourism Networks. She collaborates in the research area named Open Networked Business Management, specialized in topics related to the design, the diffusion and the strategic management of new inter-organizational models within the traditional supply chains. Her research specializes in analyzing the effectiveness of information systems for SME and their evolution over time, with particular emphasis on networking approaches for SMEs, virtual clusters and training mechanisms.

Vlad Stefan Wulff holds a masters degree (M.Sc. and cand. merc. int.) in Business Administration from the University of Southern Denmark and the University of Flensburg. His research interests are strategic partnerships between multinational corporations (Global- and Key Account Management), value co-creation, M&A and Demerger.