About the Contributors

Kiril Todorov (D.Sc.) is a Professor of Industrial Management and Entrepreneurship at the University of National and World Economy (UNWE), Sofia, Bulgaria, Director of the Institute for Entrepreneurship Development, and Head of Department of Entrepreneurship at the UNWE, Chairman of the Board of the Bulgarian Association for Management Development and Entrepreneurship (BAMDE), and Vice President for Bulgaria of the European Council for Small Business (ECSB). He has specialized in Denmark, Germany, Russia, United Kingdom, Japan and other countries. He is the author of dozens of publications at home and abroad and is the leader of many national and international research and educational projects in the field of management and entrepreneurship. He has been a visiting professor at foreign universities and has extensive experience as a consultant in management and entrepreneurship development. K. Todorov has also been a keynote speaker at many international events – in Switzerland, Denmark, Ireland, Brazil, Slovenia, Turkey, and Kazakhstan.

David Smallbone is Associate Director of the Small Business Research Centre at Kingston University, which he joined in 2004 from Middlesex University. He is also a visiting professor at Hubei School of Economics, Wuhan, China and at the Centre for Entrepreneurship, Innovation and Regional Development in Ventspils, Latvia. David’s research on entrepreneurship and SME development dates back to the 1980s, much of it with an applied policy focus. As a leading expert on entrepreneurship in former socialist economies, David was awarded an honorary doctorate by the University of Lodz in Poland for his work in this area. David has numerous publications on entrepreneurship in transition economies, among other topics. He is a Past President of the ICSB (2010-11) having previously served as President of the ECSB (2005-07). He is an Associate Editor of the Journal of Small Business Management, as well as being on the editorial boards of a number of leading entrepreneurship journals.

***

Wassim J. Aloulou is an assistant professor at the Department of Business Administration of the College of Economics and Administrative Sciences in Al Imam Mohammad Ibn Saud Islamic University (Saudi Arabia) and of the ISAAS in Sfax University (Tunisia). He has received his B.Sc. degree in Higher Commercial Studies from IHEC Carthage (1995), his M.Sc. degree in HR management from ISG Tunis (1998), and his Ph.D. degree in Management Sciences (Specialty: Entrepreneurship) from Pierre Mendès France University (UPMF) of Grenoble 2, in France (2008). Currently, He is a member of the French Academy of Entrepreneurship and Innovation, of the Tunisian Association for Entrepreneurship and Spin-off and the Saudi Association of Entrepreneurship. He is also a Certified Entrepreneurship
About the Contributors

Trainer of the ILFEN (International License For Entrepreneurship) in Saudi Arabia. His research interests include entrepreneurship and SMEs, ICT and knowledge-based startups, entrepreneurial intention and orientation of individuals and firms.

Selena Aureli, PhD, is Assistant professor at the Department of Business Studies, Bologna University, Italy, where she teaches Financial Accounting and Management Accounting. Research interests and latest publications refer to performance measurement and management control systems, information systems usage in small organizations and the role of management accountants in Italian small and medium-sized enterprises. Previously enrolled by the University of Urbino, she gained experience in studying SMEs internationalization and financial reporting while also teaching Planning and control to graduate and undergraduate students.

Faouzi Ayadi is an Assistant Professor of Business Management at College of Economics & Administrative Sciences in Al Imam Mohammad Ibn Saud Islamic University (Saudi Arabia). He received his M.Sc. degree from Bordeaux 4 University (France) and his Ph.D. degree in Business Management (specialty: Management Information Systems) from Toulouse 1 University (France). In addition to his experience as an Assistant Professor in Tunisia and Saudi Arabia, Dr. Faouzi AYADI is a regular contributor to scientific conferences and reviews in both French and English languages. His research interests include Inter-Organizational Information Systems Adoption, Customer Relationship Management (CRM), Information Systems and Knowledge Management, Cloud Computing Adoption, New Technology and Knowledge-Based SME’s. He is also a consultant and trainer in MIS and Entrepreneurship.

Neeta Baporikar, Professor (Strategic Management and Entrepreneurship) is currently on sabbatical. Prior to this she was on an academic assignment as Head Scientific Research Department with Sultanate of Oman Ministry of Higher Education (MOHE), Salalah. With more than a decade of experience in industry, consultancy and training, she made a lateral switch to research and academics in 1995. Dr. Baporikar holds D.Sc. (Management Studies) USA, PhD in Management, University of Pune INDIA with MBA (Distinction) and Law (Hons.) degrees. Apart from this, she is also an Accredited Management Teacher, Qualified Trainer, Doctoral Guide and Board Member of Academics and Advisory Committee in accredited B-Schools. Reviewer for international journals, she has to her credit several refereed research papers and authored books in the area of Entrepreneurship, Strategy and Management Education.

Virginia Barba-Sánchez is an Associate Professor of Business Organization at the Department of Business Administration of the University of Castilla-La Mancha (Spain), where she received her PhD with a European mention and doctorate award. Furthermore, she has participated in organizing committees of several scientific conferences and as invited speaker in others, both nationally and internationally. In addition, she has carried out several research visits in foreign research centers. She has received awards from the European Academy of Management and Business Economics for her paper about Entrepreneurial Behavior and from the University of Castilla-La Mancha for her contribution of Educational Innovation. Among other responsibilities she’s currently the head of the research group ENSITMA (Environmental Strategy Interdisciplinary Team & Management), and has authored a large number of referred articles and conference papers in the field of Business Strategy with regard to the environmental management, ITs applications in management, SMEs, and entrepreneurship.
Carmine Bianchi is Professor of Business & Public Management at the Faculty of Political Sciences, University of Palermo (Italy), where he is also the scientific coordinator of CED4 System Dynamics Group. He is the director of the PhD program in “Model Based Public Planning, Policy Design, and Management”, and of the Master course in: “Managing Business Growth through System Dynamics & Accounting Models. A Strategic Control Perspective”. Professor Bianchi is member of the Steering Committee of the European Master in System Dynamics, an Erasmus Mundus funded program, patronized by the European Commission. He has published on several academic and professional journals, where he also serves as a member of the Scientific Committee. Professor Bianchi has research and consulting experience with public and private sector organizations in designing policies and outlining consistent programs to link strategy and implementation. Consulting and education projects that Prof. Bianchi has conducted cover: strategic planning and control, performance management and reporting, as well as System Dynamics modeling for performance improvement and crisis prevention (Dynamic Performance Management).

Wouter Broekaert is senior researcher at the Hogeschool-Universiteit Brussel. His main research areas center around family firms on the one hand and innovation on the other. In the field of family firms he has researched competitive strategy, public and private funding and performance as well as poverty and financial distress among the self-employed. His research on innovation focuses on organizational innovation and dynamic capabilities.

Valentina Della Corte is Associate Professor of Business Management at Federico II University of Naples. She was a visiting scholar at Ohio State University. She teaches Tourism Business Management, Strategic Management and Marketing Policies, Management of Cultural Heritage and Revenue Management at Federico II University of Naples. She made teaching and seminars as visiting Professor at Skema Business School, Ravensburg – University of Cooperative Education and Ohio State University. She is also the author of numerous publications in national and international academic journals such as International Journal of Quality and Service Sciences, International Journal of Leisure and Tourism Marketing, Corporate Ownership & Control, European Journal of Innovation Management. In addition, she is the author of books published by Egea, CEDAM and Giappichelli as well as of chapters in books edited by Elgar, Mc Graw Hill and IGI Global. She is a member of some editorial boards, a reviewer for international journals, and a member of the Strategic Management Society.

Federico Cosenz is Assistant Professor of Business and Public Management at the University of Palermo, Italy. His main research interests are focused on: Planning & Control Systems, Performance Management and Measurement Systems applied to Enterprises and Public Organizations, SMEs growth management, System Dynamics modeling, and Public Policy. Federico Cosenz holds an International PhD in “Model Based Public Planning, Policy Design, and Management” performed at the Universities of Palermo, Bergen (Norway), and Nijmegen (The Netherlands). He also holds a Master of Science in Business Management at the University of Palermo. Federico Cosenz has previously worked in consulting firms (tax and legal, audit, management control) and banks.
About the Contributors

Jan Degadt, PhD in Economics, is full-time professor at the KU Leuven (Campus Brussels). He is chairman of the Steering Committee of the Research Centre for Entrepreneurship. His research and publications are in the field of entrepreneurship and SMEs, with a focus on policy. Jan Degadt is a member of the Belgian Central Economic Council. In the past he has been an advisor to national and regional government ministers in Belgium and contributed to the design and implementation of a regional economic policy in the Brussels Capital Region.

Susanne Durst is Assistant Professor of International Management at the Institute for Entrepreneurship of University of Liechtenstein (Principality of Liechtenstein) and researcher at the School of Technology and Society at University of Skövde (Sweden). Before joining academia, she worked in different positions with private enterprises of different industries. Her research interests include small business management, SME succession/transfers, knowledge management, intellectual capital (risk) management and corporate governance. Her work has been awarded with different awards, including the Transeo Academic Award in 2012. She received a PhD from University of Paris XI (France) and holds a Master in Finance from University of Skövde.

Cristina I. Fernandes (PhD in Management) She is researcher of NECE- Research Centre in Business Sciences University of Beira Interior (UBI). Her research interests are Knowledge Intensive Business Services and Regional Competitiveness. She is assistant editor of International Journal of Management Science and Information Technology (IJMSIT), and has published several papers in international journals.

João M. Ferreira (PhD in Management) is Associate Professor at the University of Beira Interior (UBI) – Portugal. He is scientific coordinator of NECE – Research Centre in Business Sciences. His research interests include strategy, competitiveness and entrepreneurship. He is editor of several international journals and he has published in a range of international journals and books.

Isabella Hatak is Assistant Professor at the Institute for Small Business Management and Entrepreneurship at the WU Vienna University of Economics and Business and at the Institute for Innovation Management at the Johannes Kepler University Linz. Moreover, she is a Visiting Fellow to the IIMP at Anglia Ruskin University Cambridge (UK). Isabella holds a Ph.D. from the WU and an MSc in Coaching and Organizational development. During her master studies in International Business at the Charles University in Prague (CZ) and the HES School of Business in Amsterdam (NL), Isabella has gained international work experience. Isabella has published several contributions to peer-reviewed journals (e.g. Journal of Business Ethics, Family Business Review, zfbf). She has received awards such as the ICSB Best Paper Award, COMS Best Paper Award, and the Dr. Maria-Schaumayer-Prize for her research. Furthermore, she is a reviewer of Journal of Small Business Management, International Small Business Journal, etc.

Jia-Yi Hung is an assistant professor in the Department of Health Administration, Tzu Chi College of Technology, Hualien, Taiwan. She received her PhD from Griffith University, Australia. Dr. Hung has published in Journal of Management and Organization, Academy of Taiwan Business Management Review, and International Journal of Business Environment. Her research interests include strategic management, organisational behaviour, and human resource management.
Yordanka Ivanova is a PhD student at the University of National and World Economy (UNWE), Sofia, Bulgaria on the topic of internationalization of family SMEs. Her previous experience involves working in the Bulgarian Association for Management Development and Entrepreneurship (BAMDE) where she participated in the preparation of international conferences and training of firms and in different projects, among which is the Project ‘Formation of Competitive Behavior of SMEs in International Business Environment through Development of Human Potential and Partnership’ where she was involved as a coordinator. She is co-author of some publications, papers and presentations in international conferences mainly in the field of family business. Her areas of research interest include internationalization, globalization challenges and prospects, family business management and communications, etc.

Rosalind Jones is Lecturer in Marketing at Birmingham Business School, the University of Birmingham. She is a ‘Chartered Marketer’ and member of the Chartered Institute of Marketing (MCIM). She is also SME CIM Ambassador for North Wales and Member of the ‘Senior Levitt Group’ of Marketers. Roz is also Co-Chair of the Academy of Marketing Special Interest Group in Entrepreneurial and Small Business Marketing and on the steering committee of the Global Research Symposium at the Entrepreneurship and Marketing Interface (MEI), based in the United States. She has published numerous papers and chapters in international peer reviewed small business and marketing journals and books such as International Small Business Journal, Journal of Research in Marketing and Entrepreneurship and Journal of Marketing Management. She has recently co-edited a book ‘Entrepreneurial Marketing: Global perspectives’.

Simon Katzenschlager completed his BSc in International Management at the University of Liechtenstein, and he has 10 years of industry experience in the field of consumer electronics. Towards the end of his studies, he collaborated on a hands-on research project in the field of SME company succession and served as the liaison between the company and the university. While working for an SME in the consumer electronics industry, he has been responsible for establishing various international consumer electronic brands in the Austrian and Swiss markets, and he has assisted the owners in developing the company’s strategy as well as analyzing, evaluating and improving the company’s operations.

Iliya Kereziev is a Chief Assistant Professor at the Chair of Entrepreneurship, University of National and World Economy (UNWE), Sofia, Bulgaria, and has research interests in strategic entrepreneurship, managing growing SMEs and family business development. In 2010 he has defended doctoral dissertation on a subject “Managing growing technology-based SMEs”. As a member of the research team of the Institute for Entrepreneurship Development at UNWE, he has participated in several national and international research and training projects in the area of entrepreneurship and small business development.

Helmut Kohlert is Professor of Business Management at the University of Applied Sciences Esslingen, Germany. Dr. Kohlert holds the diploma degree in economics from the University of Hohenheim, Germany, and the doctor’s degree from the University of Innsbruck, Austria. He has been honored with a Dr. h.c. from Kiev National University of Technology and Design, Ukraine. He serves as a consultant and trainer to numerous companies and organizations in the fields of industrial marketing, international marketing, and entrepreneurship. Dr. Kohlert was the head of the Esslingen MBA program for engineers for many years, also in international Joint Ventures with other universities and companies. He also develops training programs for engineering managers. Dr. Kohlert is author of numerous books such as “Marketing für Ingenieure”, “Entrepreneurship for Engineers”, articles and studies such as “Germany’s Entrepreneurial Engineers” (empirical study).
About the Contributors

Marko Kohtamäki is a Professor and co-director of the Networked Value Systems (NeVS) research program at the University of Vaasa and a Visiting Professor at Luleå University of Technology. Kohtamäki takes special interest in industrial service innovations, strategy work, and business networks of technology companies. Kohtamäki has published in various distinguished international journals and consulted for a number of companies.

Kostadin Kolarov, PhD, is associate professor, researcher and consultant at the UNWE, with prominent interest in the current problems of management and entrepreneurship; specialized in the UK, Spain and the Netherlands. He has significant experience in developing business plans and company’s projects as well as in training of entrepreneurs and managers. He participated in different international events in the field like congresses, conferences and seminars and also served as an expert in many international research and educational projects. Kostadin Kolarov is author of papers and co-author of chapters in books published by renowned publishers as Edward Elgar.

Johan Lambrecht, PhD in Economics, is full-time professor at the KU Leuven (Campus Brussels) and managing director of the Research Centre for Entrepreneurship at the KU Leuven. He has more than 300 publications in the domain of entrepreneurship, SMEs and family business.

Miruna Radu Lefebvre is the Head of the Chair Family Entrepreneurship and Society and Associate Professor of Entrepreneurship at Audencia, Nantes, France. Main topics of interest and publications: the social representations of entrepreneurs and entrepreneurship in the French press, the impact of role models on self-efficacy and entrepreneurial intentions, entrepreneurial coaching and mentoring.

En Li is a Lecturer in Marketing at the School of Business and Law of Central Queensland University. He earned his PhD in marketing from University of Sydney, and both his master’s and bachelor’s degrees in management science from Shanghai Jiao Tong University. His research interest involves topics related to embodied cognition, affect and emotion, attention and perception, ethnicity, persuasion, and addiction. His current projects centre around the influence of motor and bodily processes (e.g., eye movements, hand movements, hand gestures) on judgments and decision making (e.g., brand evaluations, food preferences, generosity, and stock market decisions).

Karim Mezghani is an assistant professor of Business Administration at Al Imam Mohammad Ibn Saud Islamic University, Saudi Arabia (College of Economics & Administrative Sciences). He received his M.Sc. degree and his Ph.D. degree from Sfax University, Tunisia (specialty: Management Information Systems). In addition to his experience as an assistant professor in Tunisia and Saudi Arabia, Dr. Mezghani is a regular contributor to scientific conferences and Journals in both French and English languages. His researches focus on Enterprise Resources Planning (ERP) implementation and strategic alignment, from business managers’ perspective. He works also on cloud computing adoption and consultant-client relationship.
Colleen Mills, PhD, is an Associate Professor of Management in the Management, Marketing and Entrepreneurship Department of the College of Business and Law, University of Canterbury, New Zealand. A keen researcher, her research typically focuses on sensemaking and communication during times of change and development. She is particularly interested in small business startup. Her recent studies have examined enterprise startup and development in the IT and fashion industries from a sensemaking perspective using business founders’ enterprise development narratives. Her award winning research has been published in the International Small Business Journal (ISBJ), the International Journal of Entrepreneurial Behaviour and Research (IJEBR), and Education + Training (E+T) and as a chapter in Henry and de Bruin’s book (Edward Elgar, 2011) Entrepreneurship and the Creative Economy: Process, Practice and Policy. She was awarded the Outstanding Paper of the Year Award for a 2011 IJEBR paper entitled Enterprise orientations: A framework for making sense of fashion sector start-up.

Ericka Molina Ramírez has a M.Sc. from Unidad Interdisciplinaria de Ingeniería y Ciencias Sociales y Administrativas (UPIICSA) del Instituto Politécnico Nacional (IPN) [Engineering, Social Sciences and Business Unit of the National Polytechnic Institute, Mexico]; she was scholarship holder for the Asociación Nacional de Universidades e Instituciones de Educación Superior de México [National Associations of Universities and Institutions of Higher Education]. She is finishing her Doctorate Degree in Management Sciences from the University of Castilla-La Mancha, Spain. In order to obtain her degree, she is writing her doctoral thesis about entrepreneurship and indigenous groups. She teaches at the Escuela Superior de Comercio y Administración (ESCA) [School of Commerce and Business] of the IPN. She was the Research Coordinator of the Accounting Department and President of the Academy for the Financial Area of the ESCA-IPN. As a researcher, Ericka’s main research focus is on entrepreneurship, equity, SMEs, and their financing.

Mário L. Raposo (PhD in Management) is Full Professor at the University of Beira Interior – Portugal. He is researcher member of NECE - Research Centre in Business Sciences. His research interests include marketing, entrepreneurship, education, innovation and competitiveness. He has author or co-author of various books and papers published in several international journals.

Renaud Redien-Collot is Director of International Affairs at Novancia Business School, Paris. He is a member of the Board of Administration of Académie de l’Entrepreneuriat. His research interests include innovation, entrepreneurship education and the renewal of SMEs’ business models in the EU. He is a reviewer for Feminist Economics and Journal of Small Business Management.

Dietmar Roessl is Head of the Institute for Small Business Management and Entrepreneurship, Deputy Head of the Department of Global Business and Trade and Head of the Research Institute for Co-operation and Co-operatives at the WU Vienna University of Economics and Business. He holds a post-doctoral degree in the area of Business Administration & Management (“venia legendi”). After his studies he gained practical experiences as a licensed business consultant. He was a visiting professor at the University Pilsen/Cheb, Czech Republic, and at the Free University of Bolzano, Italy. He is a reviewer for several scientific journals, such as Voluntas, Journal of Small Business Management, Journal of Small Business and Entrepreneurship and for the European Science Foundation. Furthermore he is associate editor of the Journal of Co-operative Organization and Management and reviewer for several international scientific conferences.
Robert C. Schneider is a professor of sport management and the sport management program director at The College at Brockport, State University of New York (SUNY). He is the sole author of two textbooks: Ethics of Sport: Theory, Practice, & Application (2009), and Basketball for All Levels (2008); and is the co-editor of a third sport related textbook: Entrepreneurship and Small Businesses: A Balkan’s Perspective (2013). In 2014 he will publish an organizational management and sport leadership textbook. Dr. Schneider has authored or coauthored over 70 peer-reviewed national or international academic journal articles, book chapters, or proceedings, and has delivered over 120 presentations worldwide, spanning across 13 different countries. In 2010 Dr. Schneider’s academic accomplishments were recognized as “elite” in the State University of New York’s higher education system when he was awarded its highest scholarly achievement award: The Chancellor’s Award for Excellence in Scholarship/Creative Activity.

Charlotta Sirén is a Researcher at the University of Vaasa, Finland, where she teaches courses on business creation and strategy. She is also a visiting scholar at the Luleå University of Technology, Sweden. Her current research focuses on strategic learning in dynamic industries, especially in high technology settings. Her previous articles have been published, for example, in the Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal. Parallel to her academic role, Sirén has been involved in private consulting work related to knowledge transfer and learning. She is a co-founder of a consultancy company Improve Research, Ltd.

Susan Sisay is Lecturer in Business and Marketing at Glyndwr University, North Wales. She is currently studying for her PhD on the topic of International New Ventures (INVs) in the context of UK businesses in underdeveloped regions. Prior to undertaking her PhD Susan was a legal practitioner, representing corporate and commercial clients in Sierra Leone. She was also involved in several justice and legal reform initiatives, coordinating and managing several projects overseas.

Jason Sit is a Senior Lecturer in Retail Marketing at Bournemouth University (UK). His primary research area focuses on marketing and managing customer experience in retail contexts. In 2004, Jason received the Emerald Literati Outstanding Paper Award from the International Journal of Retail and Distribution Management, for a paper focusing on the typology of shopping mall entertainment and its application in patron segmentation.

Parves Sultan is a senior lecturer at the School of Business and Law, Central Queensland University, and has over 14 years of experience in academic course and program development within Marketing discipline including teaching and course coordination for flexible, distance/online and face-to-face students. He completed his PhD in 2010. He also has an MBA and M.Sc., as well. He has published over 46 research articles in international journals, reviewed conference proceedings and as book chapter(s). He has a current h-index score of 6.0 with 86+ citations. One of his papers earned the Emerald’s Award for Excellence 2013 and the Highly Commended Award 2012 from ANZRSAI. Dr Parves earned a number of research grants, led projects with successful outcomes, and managed various stakeholders, academic programs and disciplines. He is currently supervising three research higher degree students. His research interests are: (a) Marketing, (b) Health, and (c) Development. He is an expert in both qualitative and quantitative research methods.
Maria Vasilska is an assistant professor at the Chair of Entrepreneurship, University of National and World Economy (UNWE), Sofia, Bulgaria. Previously she has worked as a research fellow at the Institute for Entrepreneurship Development at UNWE. She teaches subjects as Foundations of Entrepreneurship, Marketing of SMEs, Negotiations, Corporate Entrepreneurship. Her research interests include: small business and entrepreneurship, SMEs networks, strategic subcontracting, corporate entrepreneurship, industrial business and she has publications in this fields. Dr. Vasilska has been involved in more than ten research and applied projects. She is a member of the organising committee of an international conference focused on the challenges and opportunities before the European entrepreneurship.

Graham W. Winch is Professor Emeritus in Business Analysis at the University of Plymouth Business School in the UK, and Affiliate Professor at ESC – Rennes Business School in France. He holds a BSc in Chemistry and PhD in Business Administration. Besides full-time industrial and consulting posts in Germany, UK, and the United States, Prof. Winch was also a lecturer for ten years at the Durham University Business School and has been a visiting scholar at business schools in the US, Italy and Australia. His research centres on systems thinking and visualisation processes, which he has used to study both small and large firm issues.

Ho Yin Wong is a senior lecturer at Deakin Graduate School of Business, Faculty of Business & Law, Deakin University, Burwood Campus, Australia. He has published in International Marketing Review, Journal of Strategic Marketing, Journal of Product and Brand Management, Journal of Global Marketing, and Asia Pacific Journal of Marketing and Logistics, among others. He co-authored an article for the Journal of Asia Pacific Journal of Marketing and Logistics, which was chosen as an Outstanding Paper Award Winner at the Emerald Literati Network Awards for Excellence 2013. He is also a co-author of a book - Building a Marketing Plan: A Complete Guide. His main research interests are international marketing, branding, and marketing strategy.