

Acknowledgment

Completing a project of this magnitude is a great challenge and an opportunity many chose never to undertake. It is with the help of many individuals who have inspired and motivated me to complete the journey that lie ahead.

I would first like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the considerable time and effort the authors have invested in their respective publications in this book. The authors presented within this book are intelligence and well seasoned in their practice and respective areas. Without the hard work, dedication, and in some cases sacrifice, this book would not be made into reality without the assistance of the authors. Thank you for being so gracious and patient under fire and accepting to my comments and ideas on your chapters. I would like to send a special acknowledge and thanks Mr. Emmanuel Blanchard, Dr. Torsten Reiners, and Mrs. Kit Leung for being good friends from a distance.

Gratitude and acknowledgements go out to the editorial team and reviewers who spent countless hours reading, proofing, and articulating their comments from the proposal stage to the final chapter revisions.

Special thanks also must go to the IGI Global team, and in particular Mrs. Kristin Roth, for her continued administrative support and hard work in helping me bring this vision to a reality. Without her, this would not have been made possible.

I would also like to acknowledge and thank Dr. Katy Greenwood, Dr. Trina Davis, and Dr. Curtis Bonk for their encouragement, advice, and mentorship in my career. I would also like to thank my colleague, Dr. Holim Song, for his continued support and diligence while working on this project.

Lastly, I would like to thank and acknowledge my pastor Dr. Morris O. Jenkins, Jr., his wife, Mrs. Jenkins, mother Ms. Patricia Sherrard-Lee and my good friend Mr. Demetrius Dougar for their continues support, prayers, and patients in putting up with me for so many years. It's a blessing to have such people in ones life. Your chastening and teaching are starting to pay off.

In closing, I wish to pay a special tribute in remembrance to extraordinary people who have had a lasting impact on my life. The poem expressed below is my sentiment toward their lives and legacy.

*In love longing
I listen to the monk's bell.
I will never forget you
even for an interval
Short as those between the bell notes.*

~ Izumi Shikibu

A special gift of thanksgiving goes out to Elder Frank J. Sherrard, Sr. and his wife Mrs. Edna B. Sherrard for the love and warmth they showed me since I was a child, eating their good food. They are truly holy and amazing people.

To my dearest friend Mrs. Constance Loretta Sherman, a friend who I will always remember. Your smile was like sunshine and your laugh was like the wind echoing through the clouds.

And to the late great Professor Wang JuRong and Dr. Wu Chengde of Shanghai, China, legendary figures, who inspired me to reach the unreachable and to practice low. You all are truly treasures on the earth. Your dedication and teaching will continue to live through your closest long time student.

And to my nephew, who showed me it's a good thing to be a kid sometimes.

As we endeavored to create the first edition of our text, we discovered how essential the help, encouragement, and support of those with whom we work together. Indeed, this edition could not have come into existence without their tremendous work. I would like to thank all of authors for their continued work and patience and tolerance during the creation of this book. We are surely blessed to have been accompanied by so many distinguished people like you.

I am very much indebted to one of the most organized, motivated, and skilled colleagues, professor Terry T. Kidd from the University of Houston - Downtown. I gratefully acknowledge all of his patience; hard work, creativity, and support that made this book a reality.

A sincere expression of gratitude goes to my colleagues at Texas Southern University who offered up suggestions, advice, and support. I offer special thanks to Dr. Jay Cummings, Dean of College of Education, for his continuous encouragement; Dr. James Johnson, Associate Dean, for his insightful advice and assistance; Dr. Cherry Gooden, head of Department of Curriculum, for her tireless and hard work in assisting the department and for her encouragement and support. It has been an honor to work under your supervision and guidance.

Also, special thanks go to Dr. Shaswati Saha and Dr. Maria Quintana, who reviewed and provided constructive suggestions.

I thank you for all your time and efforts from the beginning of this book to the end. Thank you all. Surely, we could not have made it through this edition without you.
