

Acknowledgment

This volume represents the collective wisdom of many who voluntarily spent hundreds of hours putting together a series of chapters that provide excellent overview of the theories and practice in multimedia learning. I would like to express my deepest gratitude and sincere appreciation to all these authors for their outstanding contribution.

My appreciation also goes to our reviewers who provide insightful input and suggestions. I thank all of our authors for their own expert assistance. I would also like to thank the following reviewers in particular for their hard work, generous donation of their time, and their attention to detail: Louis Berry, University of Pittsburgh; Laura Dahl, University of Utah; Markus Deimann, Erfurt University; Jill Flygare and John Kircher, University of Utah; and Matthew McAlack, Philadelphia Biblical University. My special thanks go to Richard Hoffman and Elizabeth McCadden at the University of Utah who assisted in proof-reading the chapters.

I feel exceptionally fortunate to work with Jessica Thompson and Julia Mosemann, editors at IGI Global, whose expertise and generous support make this project a great success. I would like to thank the publishing team at IGI Global who has demonstrated the highest level of professionalism and integrity.

I would like to thank my wife Sharon and two children Joanna and Henry for their understanding and support, and for tolerating the erratic schedule as I was working on the project. Finally, I would like to thank my mother who has always been the source of wisdom and inspiration in my life.
