

Acknowledgment

The editor would like to acknowledge all those who have supported him during the preparation of this book. In particular:

- The authors who have trusted this project to disseminate their research works. It is with gratitude that the editor acknowledges their contributions without which this project would not have been as rewarding. Most of the authors also took on an additional role as reviewers for other chapters. Their reviews have helped to improve the chapters immensely.
- Ernesto Damiani, who has generously agreed to provide a foreword for this book despite his busy schedule. The Editor personally thanks him.
- The team at IGI Global, who have demonstrated a high level of professionalism starting from the initial consideration of this book proposal, to assisting with chapter preparation and finally to publishing the final manuscripts. A special thanks to Heather Probst, whose constant reminders have helped the editor to meet the publication schedule.
- Bruna Pomella, who has helped the editor with the proofreading of all chapters, suggesting solutions for ambiguous sentences, rectifying grammatical errors and making the chapters easier to read.
- The external reviewers and colleagues who have provided invaluable assistance during the review process of this book. The editor hopes to be able to repay them adequately in future for their unconditional support.
- The staff and administration at the Department of Computer Science and Computer Engineering, La Trobe University (the editor's employer), who have always encouraged and supported his research work, including this book project.

The editor is looking forward to collaborating with these people again in the future.

Melbourne, September 2008
Eric Pardede