

Acknowledgments

We owe a great deal of gratitude to people who, in various ways, helped to make this book possible. We would particularly like to thank all of the authors without whose committed investments and willingness, in each their individual ways, to “go beyond the box,” this book could not have come into existence. We also thank everyone who participated in the review process. In this respect, special gratitude should be given to Knut Steiner Engelsen, Art Ó Súilleabháin, Sandra Weinreb, Andrew Goh, David Topps, and Tim Savage.

We also like to mention the Cambridge International Conferences as a rich source of inspiration. Of special note is Alan Tait, Professor of Distance Education and Development at the Open University, UK, who invited and supported the idea while it was still in its cradle.

Although much of our collaborative work on this book was carried out in cyberspace, beautiful spots on the wonderful coasts of both Denmark and Ireland served as peaceful and reflective working venues for each of us. A special thanks to Marianne Kollander and Morten Noreng for contributing to such working conditions on the Danish side, and every special person who gave space to reflect and write in Ireland.

Thanks also to the Faculty of Humanities, Department of Communication, for providing brilliant opportunities for work and research online, and to the Gaelscoil family and colleagues at Hibernia College.

Finally, we would like to thank our spouses, Daniel and Norita, and our children, Rune, Jon, Maiken, Céadlyn, Bronna, Suan, and Laoilan, for their patience and love in stressful times.

Elsebeth Korsgaard Sorensen, Aalborg University, Denmark

Daithí Ó Murchú, Gaelscoil Ó Doghair & Innovative e-Learning/e-Tutoring, Hibernia College, Ireland

February 2006