

'But we don't want to teach 'em,' replied the Badger. 'We want to learn 'em--learn 'em, learn 'em! And what's more, we're going to do it, too!'

As said by the Badger to the Toad in The Wind in the Willows, by Grahame Greene, 1908.

This book is dedicated to my wonderful family who have inspired and encouraged me in my work: my husband, Bill Menzo, a Canadian Prime Minister's Teaching Award-Winner for his work inspiring students in Geography and Environmental Studies, and my daughters, Christie and Lauren, who are following family traditions in their endeavours to engage with the next generation to continue to 'learn 'em vs. teach 'em.'
