

Acknowledgment

An edited book is the result of the work of many people, and I wish to take this opportunity to thank those who have directly or indirectly contributed to the volume.

A special word of thanks goes to the members of the Editorial Advisory Board, for their continuous guidance and support. I am highly grateful to the reviewers, whose work has deeply contributed to the final versions of the chapters. This book gave me the opportunity to collaborate with scholars whose work I admire: I thank the authors of each of the chapters for their outstanding contributions. I am also thankful to the people at IGI Global, namely Emily Golesh and Erika Carter, for managing the book proposal, Jan Travers, for handling the contract, and Joel Gamon and Myla Harty, for managing the whole project.

I am also grateful to my colleagues and students for the stimulating intellectual community that I have been experiencing over the years at the Department of Communication and social research, Sapienza University of Rome.

Finally, I would like to thank my parents and my friends, for their constant presence (both face-to-face and online), and for forgiving my absences.
