

Acknowledgment

As with all books, this volume would have never come to fruition without the aid of many people. I would especially like to thank the people at IGI Global for all of their help during the publication process. In particular, I wish to acknowledge Jan Travers and Joel Gamon for providing aid and advice that was instrumental in the early stages of project, and Elizabeth Ardner, my primary editorial contact at IGI Global, who skillfully guided me throughout the various stages of submission and review.

My department and campus colleagues have also provided me with encouragement and aid throughout the process, and I greatly appreciate their ongoing support of my academic endeavors. Thanks go to my Dean at the Trumbull Campus of Kent State University, Dr. Wanda Thomas, as well, for providing me with a course reduction that afforded me additional time to work on this project.

I would also like to thank the chapter authors for their dedication and patience in working with me on this endeavor. All of the authors were extremely conscientious and responsive during the submission and review process and I thank them for being so easy to work with and for producing such high quality articles. Gratitude is due to the editorial advisory board for the book as well. The editorial advisory board members were responsible for blind reviewing all of the submissions to the book and the aid that their critical input provided cannot be underestimated. Some chapter authors served double duty by acting as reviewers as well as authors, and I thank them for their willingness to take on several tasks at once. Other reviewers working on the project included Dr. Shin Kim, Dr. Lisa Harris, and Dr. David Schmidt, and I wish to explicitly acknowledge the importance of their contribution to the project.

Finally, on a personal level, I would like to thank all of my friends and family for the tremendous support that they have provided me with during this project, particularly since I was often too busy working to let them know how much their support mattered at the time. None of it would be possible without them.
