Global Information Technologies:
Concepts, Methodologies,
Tools, and Applications

Felix B. Tan
Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand
Related Content

An Object-Oriented Architecture Model for International Information Systems?
www.igi-global.com/article/object-oriented-architecture-model-international/3591?camid=4v1a

Generic Attributes of IS Graduates: An Analysis of Australian Views www.igi-global.com/chapter/generic-attributes-graduates/4507?camid=4v1a

Developing Country Perspective on Women's ICT Adoption
www.igi-global.com/chapter/developing-country-perspective-women-ict/18954?camid=4v1a

Employee Perceptions of Outsourcing of Information Technology Operations: An Empirical Investigation
www.igi-global.com/chapter/employee-perceptions-outsourcing-information-technology/19141?camid=4v1a