Online and Distance Learning: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications

Lawrence Tomei
Robert Morris University, USA
Related Content

Reflection and Intellectual Amplification in Online Communities of Collaborative Learning
www.igi-global.com/chapter/reflection-intellectual-amplification-online-communities/27521?camid=4v1a

A Strategy to Expand the University Education Paradigm: Selling Online Class Resources
www.igi-global.com/chapter/strategy-expand-university-education-paradigm/8571?camid=4v1a

Using Ontology as Scaffolding for Authoring Teaching Materials
www.igi-global.com/article/using-ontology-scaffolding-authoring-teaching/1647?camid=4v1a

Examining the Relationship Between Course Management Systems, Presentation Software, and Student Learning: An Exploratory Factor Analysis
Daria C. Crawley and Barbara A. Frey (2010). ICTs for Modern Educational and Instructional Advancement: New Approaches to Teaching (pp. 136-151).
www.igi-global.com/chapter/examining-relationship-between-course-management/38395?camid=4v1a