

About the Contributors

Bruce Cook lives in Elgin, Illinois. His favorite things to do include writing, websites, gardening, driving, and scuba diving. He has a B.A. in Radio-Television from Ohio Wesleyan University, an M.A. in Speech Arts from San Diego State University, and a Ph.D. in Communication from Temple University, Philadelphia. In July 2016, he joined Maria Cristina Azcona as co-editor of Strategies for Peace (Cook Communication). He published a novel, Harmony of Nations: 1943 – 2020, with JustFiction Editions in 2012. He serves on the faculty of ORT Technical Institute in Skokie, IL. A Fellow on World Mediation Organization, he serves as Vice President/Founder of Worldwide Peace Organization, and serves as Executive Vice-President for Publicity for the International Association of Educators for World peace. He serves as a board member of Global Harmony Organization. He has an annual listing in Marquis Who's Who in America. He has developed a variety of websites, starting with www.author-me.com in 1999. These include www.wwpo.org, www.innisfreepoetry.org, www.enskyment.org, www.reservebooks.com, www.worldsundayschool.com.

* * *

Reisa Suci Arimbi is a research analyst at Center for Police Studies and Terrorism Research in University of Indonesia. She received Bachelor degree in Psychology from State Islamic University Jakarta and currently is pursuing a master degree in applied psychology, with major in social intervention, at Universitas Indonesia.

Ayo Ayoola-Amale is a Solicitor, Educator, ADR Practitioner, Poet and Peace Activist. She is the Lead, First Conflict Resolution Services Inc. and a University Law Lecturer. A Certified Mediator with an excellent record of wisdom, peace-making, trustworthiness, and neutrality, good listening and communication skills.

George A. Barnett is Distinguished Professor of Communication at the University of California at Davis. Professor Barnett has served as Chair of the Communication and Technology Division of the International Communication Association, and President of the International Network for Social Network Analysis (INSNA). He edited the Handbook of Organizational Communication, Communication: Emerging Perspectives, Advances in Communication Sciences, The Diffusion of Innovation: A Communication Science Perspective, and Encyclopedia of Social Networks. He has authored over 100 articles on social and communication networks. Substantively, he studies international networks emphasizing telecommunications and its role in the process of globalization.

Harold W. Becker is the Founder and President of the internationally recognized nonprofit, The Love Foundation Inc. (www.thelovefoundation.com) and conceived the annual celebration of humanity known as Global Love Day each May 1st. He resides in Florida (USA) and is the author of five books including, Unconditional Love - An Unlimited Way of Being; Internal Power: Seven Doorways to Self Discovery; Unconditional Love Is... Appreciating Aspects of Life; Inspiring Unconditional Love - Reflections from the Heart; and Inspiring Unconditional Love 2 – More Reflections from the Heart. He received his MBA from the University of Tampa in 1988 and is dedicated to understanding the nature of our potential and raising the awareness of humanity. Through his company, Internal Insights (www.internalinsights.com), he continues to share his powerful understanding about life through books, public speaking, consulting, a PBS television special, and workshops, and also sits on various global advisory boards.

Raïs Neza Boneza (Norway/ Democratic Republic of Congo [Ex-Zaire]), BA in Social Sciences, MA of Humanities, Author and Poet. He currently lives in Norway where he works as a peace researcher and practitioner. Raïs is also a poet who besides writing his own poetry works to promote artistic expressions as a means to deal with conflicts and maintaining mental well-being and spiritual growth after surviving war. He has lived in the east and in the west of Africa. He has learned seven African languages as well as the European languages and has got first-hand knowledge of the cultures of various tribes and the main ethnic groups in the region. This background, combined with his sensitive artistic mind and his scholarly background including his collaboration with one of the founders of peace research Johan Galtung, has equipped his analytical faculties with unique instruments to extend the project that Galtung has developed since the mid 90', to the African continent. He is the author of fiction as well as non-fiction, poetry books and articles. He is also an activist and peace practitioner. For his work for peace and conflict transformation, he received an Honorary doctorate degree (Doctor Honoris Causa] from the Institute of Management Sciences and the Universite du CEPROME in Burundi 2008. He is co-convener of TRANSCEND Global Network; a Peace Development Environment Network. He has travelled extensively in Africa and around the world as a lecturer, educator and consultant for various NGOs and institutions. His work is premised on art, healing, solidarity, peace, conflict transformation and human dignity issues. Mr. Raïs Neza Boneza work also as freelance journalist based in Trondheim, Norway.

Carol McPeak Brinjak has earned a BA, summa cum laude, from the University of Pittsburgh and an MA from St. John's College (the "great books" college) in Santa Fe. In addition, she has a Certified Employee Benefits ("CEBS") designation from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business. After serving as Director of Human Resources at Reed Smith, a Pittsburgh law firm, she held the position of Office Manager at Pittsburgh Opera, where she currently volunteers as editor of educational materials. Following twelve years as Adjunct Professor of English at Point Park University in Pittsburgh, she now works as a writing tutor in the University's Center for Student Success. She is a Notary Public in Allegheny County, PA.

Dimas Okto Danamasi a researcher in the division for applied social psychology research at Daya Makara Universitas Indonesia and Lecturer in the department of psychology at Atma Jaya University. He was researcher in the Center for Police and Terrorism Research, Universitas Indonesia, from 2012 to July 2017. He received master degree in Psychology from University of Indonesia. His studies focus on terrorism, intergroup relation, intergroup conflict, and identity fusion.

About the Contributors

Pravat Dhal has more than 20 years experience in primary, secondary and tertiary levels. His area of research is philosophy of education and allied issues of education. His fields of interest are: Educational Philosophy, Distance Education, Quality Management in Education, Teacher Education, Teaching Mathematics, Educational Research, Spiritual Leadership in Education & Guidance and Counselling. He has had 30 articles and six books to his credit. He has attended 30 educational seminars, conferences & workshops at national and international levels. He is a member of seven renowned professional organisations in India and abroad.

Bo Feng has expertise in interpersonal, supportive and intercultural communication. Her scholarship focuses primarily on supportive communication, which includes a broad range of situations in which people interact with the intention of seeking or providing some form of assistance to cope with a problematic situation. She has published research that examines supportive communication processes in face-to-face, personal relationship contexts as well as technologically mediated environments (e.g., online communities) and professional settings (e.g., physician-patient interactions during primary care visits). In addition to her appointment in the Department of Communication, she is a faculty member of the Center for Healthcare Policy and Research, the Institute for Social Sciences, the Feminist Research Institute at UC Davis, and the Center for Design in the Public Interest.

Sister Gayatriprana (Jean C. MacPhail, MB., ChB., PhD) is an independent scholar. A pravrajika (sannyasini) of the Ramakrishna Order of India, she is also a medical doctor, a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and later a research fellow in pathology in Harvard University (1971-72).

Philip M. Hellmich is Director of Peace at The Shift Network, director of The Summer of Peace, co-producer of Yoga Day Summit and lead designer of the World Peace Library. The Summer of Peace is an annual event created by The Shift Network in 2012 that includes a free online telesummit featuring interviews with peacebuilders from around the world. In 2012, Philip presented on the Summer of Peace at the first United Nations High Level Forum on the Culture of Peace. That forum was opened by UN Secretary General Ban Ki Moon. In 2013, the United Nations published an article about the Summer of Peace in its UNITY magazine in China - (edited version) Creating a New Narrative of Peace: From Inner Peace to International Peacebuilding. Philip was the initiator and lead architect of the first virtual World Peace Library. Launched in 2014, the library includes interviews of over 350 peacebuilders representing over 15 sectors of society, including science, spirituality, education, business, military, etc. Having conducted a majority of these interviews, Philip has a bird's eye view of the larger peacebuilding trends emerging around the world. Philip has dedicated most of his life to global and local peacebuilding initiatives, including 14 years with Search for Common Ground. He also served for four years as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Sierra Leone where he lived and worked in small remote bush villages. A published writer, Philip is author of God and Conflict: A Search for Peace in a Time of Crisis with a Foreword by Lama Surya Das. He serves as adviser to The Global Peace Initiative of Women. A long-time meditation practitioner, Philip enjoys studying and teaching about the parallels between inner and outer peace.

Roland Holou is a scientist, a businessman, a published author, and an international consultant. His areas of expertise are agribusiness, biotechnology, diaspora engagement, Africa development, plant biology, genetics, physiology, rangeland management, soil science, microbiology, entomology, biochemistry, ecology, and statistics. Dr. Roland Holou is a dual citizen of Benin Republic (West Africa) and the USA. He obtained his Bachelor Degree in Agronomy and his Master of Science Degree in Agricultural Engineering at the University of Abomey Calavi in Benin. He has a Ph.D. in Plant, Insect and Microbial Sciences at the University of Missouri (USA) where he graduated as the Doctoral Marshal (first of his class). Roland Holou is the Founder and CEO of DiasporaEngager (www.DiasporaEngager.com), the premier global diaspora engagement network platform that connects the international diasporas to each other and to opportunities with governments, nonprofits, businesses, laboratories, international institutions, schools, and research institutions. DiasporaEngager is also a think tank and a consulting company that helps the diasporas and their stakeholders to locate, engage, and network with each other and with their country of origin and their current country of residence. Dr Roland Holou is the architect of the world's largest map of the diaspora and their stakeholders (<https://diasporaengager.com/map/>). To learn more about Roland Holou's work concerning the international diaspora engagement, please visit his blog at www.DiasporasNews.com. Before founding DiasporaEngager, Roland worked as a plant biotechnology research scientist in the USA. He also has held international positions including the International Chair of the "Sweet Sorghum Ethanol Association", and the "International Service in Agronomy Award Committee" at the American Society of Agronomy. Roland Holou is a member of several professional associations including: American Chemical Society, Association of African Agricultural Professionals in the Diaspora, French Writers Association, American Society of Agronomy, Crop Science Society of America, Soil Science Society of America, Sweet Sorghum Ethanol Association, International Association for Plant Biotechnology, American Society of Plant Biologists, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Canadian Society for Engineering in Agricultural, Food, Environmental, and Biological Systems; American Society of Agricultural and Biological Engineers, American Society for Microbiology, American Society of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology, Benin Association of Pastoralism, etc. Throughout his career, Dr Roland Holou has received many awards and honors such as: "National Association of Distinguished Professionals", "Top Ranked U.S. Executives Award by National Council of American Executives"; "Who's Who in the World"; "Who's Who in America"; "Cambridge Who's Who among Executives, Professionals and Entrepreneurs"; "Doctoral Marshal"; "Rollins Society Inductee"; etc.

Ke Jiang is a PhD candidate in the department of Communication at University of California, Davis. She received her M.A. from the University of Science and Technology of China in 2010. She was a news anchor in China Economic Radio Station of Anhui Province. Her research focuses on news framing in the era of globalization, communication network analysis, semantic network analysis, network dynamics, network co-evolution, network visualization, intercultural communication, and cultural convergence.

About the Contributors

Kurt Johnson is a co-founder of The Interspiritual Network (www.interspirituality.com) and a major voice in the emerging global interspiritual paradigm. A long-term associate of interspiritual pioneer Br. Wayne Teasdale, Kurt has been in the science/spirituality discussion for over 40 years, associated with the American Museum of Natural History and the One Spirit Interfaith Seminary in New York City for over twenty-five years. A comparative religionist also with a PhD in evolution and ecology, he is co-author of The Coming Interspiritual Age (2013), Fine Lines (on genius in science and art) (2016), Ethics, Values and the New UN Development Agenda (2016) and Nabokov's Blues (1999). Author also of over two hundred technical scientific publications and scores of articles on spirituality, religion and interfaith, he serves on the United Nations Spirituality, Values and Global Concerns and The International Yoga Day. He is also President of Friends of the Institute of Noetic Sciences, Vice-President of the National Ethical Service (www.nationalserviceaeu.org), a co-founder of Forum 21 Institute (a forum of UN NGO's visioning the 21st Century, www.forum21.co), and a member of The Evolutionary Leaders (www.evolutionaryleaders.net). More information is at www.thecominginterspiritualage.com and Wikipedia (Kurt Johnson, Entomologist).

Maximiliano Korstanje is a Reader at University of Palermo, Argentina. Korstanje is editor in chief of International Journal of Cyber Warfare and Terrorism (IGI-GlobalUS). Besides being Senior Researchers in the Department of Economics at University of Palermo, Argentina, he is a global affiliate of Tourism Crisis Management Institute (University of Florida US), Centre for Ethnicity and Racism Studies (University of Leeds). Korstanje was visiting Researcher at University of Leeds, UK, and at University of La Habana, Cuba. His recent books include The rise of Thana Capitalism and Tourism, Routledge, 2017, Terrorism, Tourism and The end of hospitality in the West, Palgrave Macmillan 2017 and Virtual Traumaescapes and exploring the roots of Dark Tourism, IGI Global 2017. Korstanje has been nominated to 5 honorary doctorates for his contributions to the understanding of modern terrorism and its effects on mobilities.

Muli wa Kyendo is a journalist, author, founder and director of the Syokimau Cultural Centre. His special interest centers on the role of folktales in inter ethnic peace. He has published a chapter, "A Movement for Social Change with Folktales? Here is how we are doing it at the Syokimau Cultural Centre" in Strategies for Peace by Bruce L. Cook and Maria Cristina Azcona (eds), Cook Communication, USA, July, 2016. His recently published book, Kioko and the Legend of the Plains, has been described as, "a tale that is steeped in culture, that illustrates a beautiful setting, and that shows how two cultures who previously thought they were enemies can live in harmony". He read sociology at the University of Nairobi and Freie Universität, Berlin before training as journalist in London. He has held senior writing and editing positions in leading newspapers and broadcasting stations and has taught journalism in various universities and colleges.

Steven Lee teaches philosophy at Hobart and William Smith Colleges in Geneva, New York. He writes on issues in social, moral, and political philosophy, especially on morality and war. He is the author of Ethics and War (Cambridge, 2012) and Morality, Prudence, and Nuclear Weapons (Cambridge, 1993) and editor of Intervention, Terrorism, and Torture: Contemporary Challenges to Just War Theory (Springer, 2007).

Glen T. Martin, Ph.D., is Professor of Philosophy and Chair Emeritus of the program in Peace Studies at Radford University in Virginia, USA. He is President of the Institute on World Problems (IOWP) and President of the World Constitution and Parliament Association (WCPA), organizations that sponsor the Constitution for the Federation of Earth. He has traveled and lectured worldwide on behalf of the Earth Constitution and the philosophical foundations of emerging world law, as well as on behalf of WCPA projects such as sessions of the Provisional World Parliament and the development of a World Court system. He has received several international peace awards, including the GUSI Peace Prize International in Manila, Philippines, 2013. He has published dozens of articles in popular as well as academic venues. He is author or editor of eleven books, including his well-known book, Millennium Dawn: the Philosophy of Planetary Crisis and Human Liberation (2005) and his latest book, One World Renaissance: Holistic Planetary Transformation through a Global Social Contract (2016) (www.oneworldrenaissance.com). His university website can be found at www.radford.edu/gmartin. WCPA websites include www.earth-constitution.org and www.worldparliament-gov.org.

Ikbal Maulana is a researcher in the Center for Science and Technology Development Studies, Indonesian Institute of Sciences (PAPPIPTEK – LIPI). His research interests include sociology of knowledge, knowledge management, sociology of technology and philosophy of technology. Recently, due to what is happen in Indonesian politics and society, he focuses his research on the impact of social media on politics, social transformation, as well as individual transformation.

Mladen Milošević, graduated (1998), finished MA (2008) and Ph.D thesis (2012) at the Belgrade University-Faculty of Law. In 2006, he obtained an Executive Certificate in Counterterrorism Studies, by finishing six courses program organized at the Interdisciplinary Center Herzliya - the Lauder school of Government, Diplomacy and Strategy and the International Institute for Counterterrorism. He has work at the Belgrade University - Faculty of Security Studies, as an Assistant Professor, since 2013. At the same Faculty, he previously worked as a Teaching assistant (2003 – 2008) and Instructor (2008 – 2012). He also performs a duty of CEO at the Security Innovation Center of the Faculty of Security Studies-Belgrade University, since its founding in 2011. He has participated in research projects supported by the Ministry of Science, Education and Technological Development of the Republic of Serbia. He has published in the areas of Criminal Law (focusing on the topics of Corporate and Political Cime), The Law of National Security and Legal aspects of Risk assessment and Crisis Management.

Bishnu Pathak is the creator of the Peace-Conflict Lifecycle, the architect of Human Security Studies, the founder of the Principles of Process Documentation (End-to-End-Lifecycle) of any development project and the pioneer of Process Documentation for Interfaith Peacebuilding Cycle. His modest finding “Peace-Conflict Lifecycle” has been nominated for Nobel Peace Prize Award by the Government of Nepal in 2016. Arduous Mr. Pathak is a professor of human security studies who holds a PhD in interdisciplinary “Conflict Management and Human Rights”. An immensely versatile personality, Professor Pathak is born into a poor family in a remote eastern hill-mountain. Professor Pathak has been working as a Commissioner at the Commission for Investigation on Enforced Disappeared Persons (CIEDP) for the sake of truth, justice, prosecution, healing, protection and reparation for dignity. He is the Board Member at TRANSCEND Peace University, Vice President at the Global Harmony Association, Founding Chairman at Peace and Conflict Studies Center and among others. He is the author of more than 100 international papers and has coauthored several books on human security, transitional justice, human rights, DDR-SSR, civil military relations, conflict transformation, peace, community policing, federalism, principles of harmony including Nepal's 2008 Constituent Assembly Elections: Converting Bullets to Ballots, East-West Center Bulletin and World's Disappearance Commissions: An Inhumanous Quest for Truth, World Journal of Social Science Journal. His book Politics of People's War and Human Rights in Nepal (2005) is a widely circulated volume. Many of his phenomenal publications are incorporated as references in different universities across the globe. Busy and dedicated schedules always keep him in low innocent profile (short profile at <https://www.transcend.org/tms/2016/01/bishnu-pathaks-nine-freedoms-doctrine-to-truth-justice-and-dignity/>). He presents himself genuinely among the populace pursuing "do no harm" approach and follows either win-win or lose-lose game theory, especially reflected in his (conflict) transformative works. A generalist, Professor Pathak's major ideas are measured through freedoms doctrine. He is committed to continue his exceptional contributions in future through unwavering teachings, researching, and writings for the universal social betterment. On top of that, his innovative analyses are mostly drawn from yesterday's publications, experiencing intricacies today, and hopes for basic needs and freedoms met universe tomorrow. His entire works advocate for a world without war to ensure safety of children, men and women in schools, homes and jobs. His prime thrust is to liberate the people from injustice, inequity, indignity, insecurity, intolerance, inharmony, and inhibition which are found widespread in the society. Trans-disciplinary Prof. Pathak firmly believes that injustice happened anywhere is a struggle to justice everywhere.

About the Contributors

Sapto Priyanto is a Lecturer in the Department of Criminology and Senior Researcher in the Center for Police and Terrorism Research at University of Indonesia. He is Doctoral student in Criminology at University of Indonesia. He received his master degree in Criminology from University of Indonesia. His interests are in terrorism, prison, and security system.

Nenad Putnik, Ph.D., is an Assistant Professor at the University of Belgrade - Faculty of Security Studies. He obtained his BA degree in Philosophy at the University of Belgrade - Faculty of Philosophy, and his Master and Ph.D. degrees in Security Studies at the University of Belgrade - Faculty of Security Studies. He works at the Belgrade University - Faculty of Security Studies, as an Assistant Professor, since 2013. At the same Faculty, he previously worked as a Teaching assistant (2004 – 2008) and Instructor (2008 – 2012). He has published in the areas of Conflict Theories, Conflict Management, Human Security and Cyber Security.

Idhamsyah Eka Putra is Lecturer at Persada Indonesia University and Division Manager for Applied Social Psychology Research, Daya Makara Universitas Indonesia. From June 2015 to July 2017 He was a senior researcher at the Center for Police and Terrorism Research at Universitas Indonesia. He holds a doctoral degree (with distinction) in Psychology from Johannes Kepler University of Linz, Austria. He received his master degree in Psychology from the University of Indonesia. From 2007 to 2012, He worked as a research analyst at the Center for Psychology Research University of Indonesia (LPPsi UI). He taught courses related to social psychology at Atma Jaya University (2014) and Bina Nusantara University (2008 – 2010), Indonesia. His research interest is in Social Psychology studying prejudice, (Islamic) terrorism, intergroup relations, social exclusions, and intergroup Conflicts.

Any Rufaedah is lecturer at department of psychology Universitas Nahdlatul Ulama Indonesia and researcher at Center for Police and Terrorism Research-Universitas Indonesia. She received her bachelor's degree in Psychology and master's degree in Social Psychology. She was an adjunct lecturer in the psychology program in Universitas Paramadina. Her studies focus on terrorism, radicalism, religiosity, women, and well-being.

Murat Seyfi is an assistant professor at the department of Public Relations and Advertising. He studied for Master's Degree in Lifelong Education Department and has works on "self-directed learning". His doctorate topic was "storytelling as a communication tool" He is conducting interdisciplinary studies on both communication and education areas. He serves as Coordinator of Awareness, Informing and Training Unit in the office of technology transfer in The University of Gaziosmanpaşa as well as his academic duty in the same university. Within the framework of his duty, he gives lectures to university students on entrepreneurship, creative thinking, digital literacy in entrepreneurship. He also mentors on early identification of successful business ideas in Entrepreneurship and Innovation Centre which is established within the structure of technology transfer office. His current research is on storytelling, social media, creativity, entrepreneurship, communication technology, digital literacy, interpersonal communication and appreciative inquiry. His publications have appeared in many international journals.

Claude R. Shema MD., Msc., & PhD (candidate) at Lancaster University (City of Lancaster, UK) with focus in mental health clinical research, and Transcultural psychiatry. Graduated from Cardiff University (Wales), Medical school, with post-graduate Master's of science degree in clinical psychiatry, with focus on conduct disorder (callous-unemotional trait sub-types) in children and antisocial behavior (juvenile delinquency). Dr. Shema is also the CEO & Founder of Eureka Discovery Institute, with focus on research, counseling, coaching, and clinical interventions. Dr. Shema research focuses on biopsychosocial model (Biological, psychological, and social) aspects for treatment and prevention, through pharmacotherapy, psychotherapy, and social aspects of unmet needs. Beside being active practitioner in mental health field, he is also a peace activist, former UNESCO country focal point for Rwanda, founder of Great Lakes Peace Initiatives, a non profit organization operated in the aftermath of 1994 Rwanda genocide, in the former Zaire & Current Democratic Republic of Congo. He has also international consultant status with variety of organizations, in public institutions and private sectors.

Laramie D. Taylor is an associate professor in the Communication Department of the University of California Davis where he studies media uses and effects.