Learning Objects for Instruction: Design and Evaluation

Table of Contents

Foreword
Preface

Section I: Introduction to Learning Objects

Chapter I
An Abridged History of Learning Objects

Robert R. Saum, Daytona Beach Community College, USA

Chapter II
Repositories

Cathleen S. Alfano, Florida Distance Learning Consortium, USA
Susan L. Henderson, Florida Distance Learning Consortium, USA

Chapter III
An Overview of Learning Object Repositories

Argiris Tzikopoulos, Agricultural University of Athens, Greece
Nikos Manouselis, Agricultural University of Athens, Greece
Riina Vuorikari, European Schoolnet, Belgium
Chapter IV
Psychological Principles for Reusable Learning Object-Based Learning System Design ................................................................. 56
David B. Dawson, University of West Florida, USA

Chapter V
Engineering Reusable Learning Objects .............................................................. 70
Ed Morris, RMIT University, Australia

Section II:
Developing Instruction Using Learning Objects

Chapter VI
American Sign Language Learning Objects for Instruction: A Higher Education Perspective ........................................................... 95
Rosemary M. Lehman, University of Wisconsin-Extension, USA
Simone C. O. Conceição, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, USA

Chapter VII
Transforming Instructional Design Ideas into SCORM-Conformant Learning Products ............................................................................... 104
Vanessa P. Dennen, Florida State University, USA
Kira S. King, Instructional Systems Design Consultant, USA

Chapter VIII
Teaching Frameworks for Context-Rich Instruction: Design Objects ................................................................................................. 119
Kevin Oliver, North Carolina State University, USA

Chapter IX
Using Learning Objects for Rapid Deployment to Mobile Learning Devices for the U.S. Coast Guard ..................................................... 140
Pamela T. Northrup, University of West Florida, USA
William T. Harrison Jr., University of West Florida & U.S. Navy, USA

Chapter X
Learning Objects for Employee Training and Competency Development ............................................................................................. 159
Anne-Marie Armstrong, Wayne State University, USA
Chapter XI
Developing and Using Learning Objects:
Implications for Course Content Strategies ........................................... 174
Christine H. Olgren, University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA
Patricia Ploetz, University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, USA

Chapter XII
Learning Objects:
A Case Study in Teacher Education ...................................................... 195
Charlotte J. Boling, University of West Florida, USA

Chapter XIII
Bridging the Academic Divide:
A Collaborative Production Model for Learning Objects in Workforce Development ........................................................................ 213
Tom Cavanagh, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University-Worldwide
Campus, USA

Section III:
Tool-Based Solutions for the Development
and Implementation of Learning Objects

Chapter XIV
Being a Content Expert is Fun Again with Pachyderm ......................... 232
Tom Hapgood, University of Arkansas, USA

Chapter XV
Using Learning Objects in K-12 Education:
Teachers and QuickScience™ ................................................................. 245
Karen L. Rasmussen, University of West Florida, USA

Chapter XVI
Creating a Patchwork Quilt for Teaching and Learning:
The Use of Learning Objects in Teacher Education ............................... 261
Janette R. Hill, University of Georgia, USA
Michael J. Hannafin, University of Georgia, USA
Arthur Recesso, University of Georgia, USA
Section IV: Appendices

Appendix A
Theory Under the Hood................................................................. 281
    David B. Dawson, University of West Florida, USA

Appendix B
Digital Asset Repositories.......................................................... 298
    Elspeth McCulloch, Brevard Community College, USA

Appendix C
Learning Object Authoring Tools.............................................. 310
    Elspeth McCulloch, Brevard Community College, USA

About the Authors........................................................................... 313

Index............................................................................................... 321