Library Showcase:
Houston Public Library, Morris Frank Branch – Interview with Wendy Heger

Completed by: Lisa Block
Date Completed: March 2, 2011

LOCATION ADDRESS

Houston Public Library, Morris Frank Branch
10103 Fondren
Brays Oaks Towers Building
Houston, Texas 77096

PROJECT INTRODUCTION

This project corresponds to a renovation carried out by the Houston Public Library, Morris Frank Branch, completed earlier in the year.

Please describe the planning and design process of the HPL’s Morris Frank Branch (featured in the American Libraries 2010 Library Showcase).

Several years back, the American Library Association (ALA) put out a challenge: “What is an electronic library?” We here in HPL’s Facilities Management along with a small local Architect took up that challenge. We defined it as:

HPL Express is an innovative library service model developed over a three years period by the Houston Public Library. What started as the e-library project, an in-house investigation of better ways to offer
Related Content

Librarians as Info Architects: New Roles of Archivists and Reference Librarians in the Digital Environment www.igi-global.com/chapter/librarians-info-architects/31497?camid=4v1a

Principal Component Analysis Using the Factor Procedure
www.igi-global.com/chapter/principal-component-analysis-using-factor/5447?camid=4v1a

Electronic Usage Statistics
www.igi-global.com/chapter/electronic-usage-statistics/10027?camid=4v1a

Behind the Scenes: Approval Profiles From a Vendor’s Perspective
Alison Griffin and Sarah Forzetting (2013). Library Collection Development for Professional Programs: Trends and Best Practices (pp. 16-31).
www.igi-global.com/chapter/behind-scenes-approval-profiles-vendor/67931?camid=4v1a