Global Information Technologies: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications

Felix B. Tan
Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand
Related Content

Creating and Developing a Program of Global Research
www.igi-global.com/article/creating-developing-program-global-research/3635?camid=4v1a

Potential Implications of IPv6 for Regional Development
www.igi-global.com/chapter/potential-implications-ipv6-regional-development/19206?camid=4v1a

Cultural Differences in E-Commerce: A Comparison between the U.S. and China www.igi-global.com/article/cultural-differences-commerce/3588?camid=4v1a

Conceptualization, Operationalization, and Validation of the Digital Data Stream Readiness Index