Global Information Technologies: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications

Felix B. Tan
Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand Related Content

A Comparative Study of the Effects of Low and High Uncertainty Avoidance on Continuance Behavior www.igi-global.com/article/comparative-study-effects-low-high/42087?camid=4v1a

How Firms Deal with Discontinuous Innovation: An Empirical Analysis Davide Aloini and Antonella Martini (2012). Disruptive Technologies, Innovation and Global Redesign: Emerging Implications (pp. 128-146).
www.igi-global.com/chapter/firms-deal-discontinuous-innovation/63828?camid=4v1a

Strategy and Policy Issues Related to Nanotechnology Innovations in Medical Education Tamar Chachibaia (2012). Disruptive Technologies, Innovation and Global Redesign: Emerging Implications (pp. 147-172). www.igi-global.com/chapter/strategy-policy-issues-related-nanotechnology/63829?camid=4v1a

E-Learning Acceptance and Challenges in the Arab Region www.igi-global.com/chapter/learning-acceptance-challenges-arab-region/48338?camid=4v1a